Fifth Wheel Collects Supplies

Over 20 tons of supplies have arrived at the Fifth Wheel Truck Stop located on McConnell Avenue North. Truck drivers wanting to help out have loaded up their bunks and passenger seats with all types of supplies for storm victims in Eastern Ontario. Individual firms have also been helping out as Mackie Transport delivered a trailer-full of firewood. Supplies and food are still arriving at the truck stop with the drive to help out expected to continue for another week or until the urgency for help diminishes. Mark Allott, franchise owner of Marks' Fifth Wheel Truck Stop in Cornwall says that anything that is left over will be donated to the Agape Centre or the Salvation Army.

Clearing The Roofs

Local roofing contractors have been kept busy these p few weeks clearing ice from area roofs. Most homes ha approximately 10 - 15 cm of ice on the roof and some have to 25 cm of ice (that's 9-10 inches). With nowhere to go wh the ice starts to melt, water will eventually seep into the wa and ceilings of your home. Local contractors advise do-yourselfers to clear only the edges of the roofs because if y get too close to the centre, you may crack the ceiling. By clea ing the edges of the roof, water has somewhere to run instead of into your home.

Carley Directs "Crazy For You"

Rod Carley knows what he wants and gets it! To observe Carley at rehearsals is quote an eye opener; it is revealing, impressive, educational and entertaining. He praises - scolds - coaxes - cajoles his cast members to achieve the ultimate. He is a teacher, technician, performer, pied-piper and a magician who weaves a web of pure theatrical delight. All those involved: Glen officials, cast members, staff and associates are completely mesmerized by the talent, knowledge and technical ability of this most innovative director-teacher.

Glen Productions, which has been part of the Cornwall amateur theatre for 33 years, procured the services of Rod Carley during the 25th annual Theatre Ontario Festival. Carley came highly recommended and boasts impressive personal credentials.

Rod Carley is officially recognized as one of Canada's most innovative director teacher for his fresh and modern interpretation of Shakespeare works and as Artistic Director of Toronto's Walking Shadow Theatre. He has directed over forty stage productions to date, ranging from Shakespeare to Sheridan to Shaw to Shepard. Carley has directed the Canadian premieres of A Place Like Pamela and Dinosaur Dreams.

Most recently he made his American directorial debut with his adaptation of The Othello Project for the Florida Shakespeare Theatre in Miami. Several notable directing highlights include: Guy's and Dolls, Run For Your Wife, Oedipus/ The Critic, Love For Love, The House of Bernarda Alba, Sleuth, The Passion of Dracula, The Crucible, and a host of Shakespearean plays.

Carley has earned several prestigious awards: in 1995 he received an "Excellence in Education" from the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation for his commitment to young artists. Too numerous to list are several Outstanding Directing Awards granted to this talented creative artist.

As an acting/directing instructor, he has been a guest artist with the University of Windsor, George Brown College and facilitated workshops for the Stratford Festival, Equity Showcase, Theatre Ontario and school boards throughout the province.

His recent adjudicating credits include the 1997 Theatre Ontario Festival hosted by Glen Productions. Presently, he is the drama adjudicator for the 1997-98 ACT-CO Festival in Toronto.

With Rod Carley as director, Glen officials, cast members and production staff can only anxiously anticipate the artistic excellence of Crazy For You. To quote the lyrics of I Got Rhythm: who could ask for anything more.

SD&G Disaster Relief

The Disaster Relief Committee of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry held its initial meeting on Monday, January 26th, 1998 at the County Building in Cornwall. Fifteen members heard from Elizabeth Fulton from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs. She reviewed guidelines for Disaster Relief Committes, stressing the dual responsibilities of fund raising and claim assessment.

The guidelines are under review by the Cabinet. At present the Committee is responsible for fund raising to match dollars required to repair residences, farm buildings and businesses damaged in the storm of the century.

Organizations and individuals now engaged in raising money for victims of the storm are asked to make donations to the Relief Committee, the only organization able to take advantage of the matching formula from the Province.

An estimate of losses is required and residents are urged to contact insurance companies first and then to complete forms to recover uninsured losses. These forms are now being developed and will be readily available at Municipal Offices and banks throughout SD&G possibly as soon as February 3rd, 1998.

Two representatives from each of the six municipalities and three County appointees comprise the Diaster Relief Committee which elected Stephen Preston as Chairperson and Fran Laflamme as Vice-Chairperson.

This committee is committed to ensure these procedures are equitable and will reach every citizen in SD&G.

A Question of Values

For three years the United Nations has declared Canada the number one country in the world, and we all know how proudly Mr. Chretien repeats this at every opportunity, but listen in on private conversations, and you get a very different picture. The list of complaints goes something like this: we aren't competitive enough on the global market; we aren't productive enough in our industries; the Japanese are more disciplined and more productive and the Chinese are quickly catching up; the Germans and Swedish turn out better quality, and the French are much healthier than we are. Besides all that, the problem is that our young people have no ambition, and the schools are too soft. But it could also be it's the parents who are too soft and if it isn't the people on welfare ruining the country, then it is all those immigrants for sure.

In moments of frustration many, if not most of us have used one of these facts to prove a point, and probably felt justified in doing so. There is danger in this kind of self-righteous complaining and finger-pointing, a very ugly danger rearing its heard in all segments of society. It is beginning to change the way Canadians look at some of their neighbours, the way they too often blatantly talk about or secretly think about each other, and that is very dangerous.

We must be very careful when stating facts. Albert Einstein once told his students that facts are stupid things. "You must not pay attention to facts until you have a whole bunch together,", he said. "Then you have to think long and hard to find out what it all means. Meaning is important, not facts. Find the meaning."

Let's take Einstein's advice and think about what all that complaining really means. Worldwide economic changes have brought fear into the hearts of many Canadians, and when people get scared, they look for blame, and they always find it. When we carelessly generalize about young people today, or self-righteously condemn all welfare recipients, or with conviction demand the return of the strap in our schools, we forget that problems don't fall out of the sky, they are created one step at a time. The problems facing Canadian society today are the result of decisions made and action taken in recent decades, individually as well as politically. By taking a close look at a few of the major changes since the 1950s, perhaps we can better understand why things are the way they are today, and with this understanding stop the incessant blaming.

The 1950s were a boom in Canada. Immigrants were welcome in that decade. We needed them in the sugar-beet fields and monstrous wheat farms in the west, the fruit farms and tobacco fields in Ontario and in the coal mines and the fishing industries in the east. Immigrants built up the textile factories in all major cities, and they provided the labour for thousands and thousands of brick bungalows which ordinary working people could afford to own back then. The children of these millions of immigrants were absorbed into the existing school system without a single ESL teacher. Not only did these children learn a new language in a few months without expert help, they created the unprecedented growth in our schools, and within a single generation flocked into our universities. A large percentage of all Canadian professionals today started out as those little immigrant children. How quickly we forget our roots when our comfortable way of life seem threatened.

The most insidiously damaging social change, both to family life in general and to the school system in particular, was the arrival of the television set in the living rooms of the nation during the 1950s. Because TV is so seductively attractive, we tend to underestimate its profound impact even today as we have to deal with the direct consequences. Early in the '70s we appointed Commissions to study both the effect of violence on TV and the effect of divorce on young children in our society, and both those learned groups told us not to worry. This is why other nations could at times be heard to wonder whether children were valued at all in this beautiful country. When raising the next generation is pushed to the very back of the priority list, there is a price to pay later on. When everyone is caught up in living the good life, it becomes easy not to notice how traditional values fall by the wayside, how educational standards deteriorate.

In the spring of 1981, when the American space shuttle Columbia blasted off with our now famous Canadarm as a justly proud contribution to the space program, we were still operating under the illusion of being on top of the world. We were still a generous and helpful nation when the boat people came to our shores; we were still convinced the multiculturalism was the politically correct way to go, in spite of the those nagging problems with Quebec. We have always been so proud of being welcomed with open arms as Canadian tourists in other parts of the world, of hearing visitors state that Canadians are so friendly and helpful as a people, that our country is so beautiful. If we are not very careful, all of this can change and we will hardly notice it.

This is 1997 and Canada is still the best country in the world today, in spite of global warming, the energy crisis, the population explosion, or whatever other threat to human existence on this planet you want to look at. That is precisely why we attract immigrants as we always have.

These are troubled times, not just in Canada, but worldwide. Every country is trying to either restructure or catch up with the tremendous changes brought about with the arrival of the computer age.

As society races ahead towards the year 2000, let us remember that we live at a truly wondrous time in history, and that Canadians are still better off than 90% of all the people on this planet in whatever way you choose to compare us, and that is something to celebrate. Next time you hear someone complain, make it your business to set the record straight.

Winchester Carnival Cancelled

The annual Winchester Winter Carnival, slated for early February, has been cancelled due to the recent ice storm. North Dundas Director of Recreation and Culture, Matt Krisjanis stated that many people are still recovering from the storm and are trying to get things back to normal. There was no one prepared to organize a carnival for this year as everyone was busy with their own affairs. Krisjanis is hoping that next year another carnival can be organized and be twice as big as normal to try to make up for this year's loss.

Chesterville Snowarama

The date for the Chesterville Rotary Club's annual Snowarama has been changed to Sunday, February 8th to allow for recovery from the ice storm. Snowmobile trails were also damaged from falling trees and branches and have to be cleared before they can be opened. Snowarama raises money for Easter Seals, Rotary's affiliated charity.

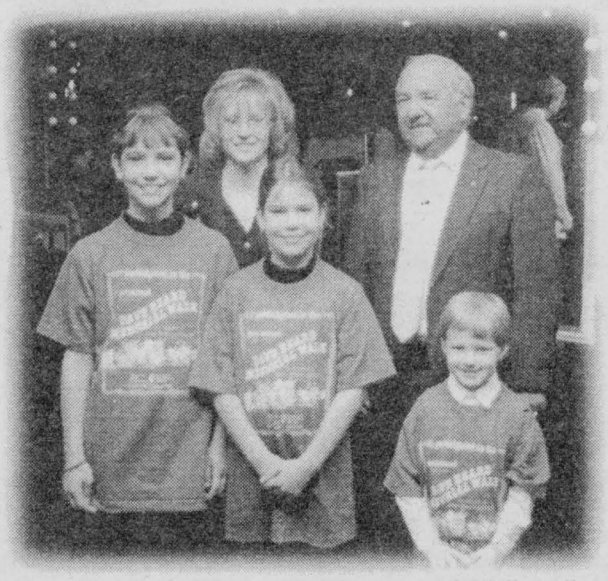
Ice Crashes Through Barn Roof

Osgoode Township is still in a state of emergency following the collapse of a dairy farmer's barn roof. Mayor Doug Thompson says that he is worried that similar incidents will occur elsewhere in the community and is not lifting the state of emergency yet. Peter Raat and his son Michael were working in the dairy barn when the roof caved in. Neither was hurt. The 200 head of Holstein cattle were moved to a temporary shelter at area farms and Raat is now looking for a home for the livestock until he can rebuild his roof.

Winchester District Memorial Hospital Gets Funds

The provincial government has given the Winchester District Memorial Hospital a $10,000 grant to help cover the expenses of its recent review of operations, in preparing for its submission to the provincial Health Services Restructuring Commission. Kemptville District Hospital received $86,700, and Glengarry Memorial received $35,800.

Dave Ezard Memorial Walk



The 2nd Annual Dave Ezard Memorial Walk will take place at the Ed Lumley Arena at the Civic Complex on Sunday, March 15th. This fundraiser, named in honour of Dave Ezard, raises funds to support research into liver disease.

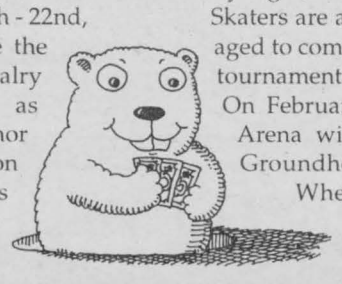
St. Lawrence Centre Arena Announces February Events

The St. Lawrence Centre Arena has scheduled several special events for the coming month, Arena Manager Jim Kenney announced recently, including two hockey tournaments.

The weekend of February 6 - 8, the arena is hosting an adult Canadian team tournament to benefit Cystic Fibrosis. Sixteen teams will complete from 7-11 pm on Friday; February 6th from 8 am to 10 pm on Saturday, February 7th; and from 8:00 am - 6:00 pm on Sunday, February 8th.

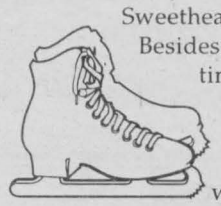
On February 20th - 22nd, the Arena will be the site of much rivalry and good times, as the Massena Minor Hockey Association Tournament hosts twelve teams from Canada, NY and Vermont. They will compete from 5:00 - 10:30 pm on Friday, February 20th from 1:00 - 6:30 pm on Saturday, February 21st and from 9:00 am to 4:30 pm on Sunday, February 22nd.



Regular public skating sessions will be cancelled the weekend of February 6th to allow us to host the Canadian tournament and support Cystic Fibrosis. The weekend of February 20th there will be one public skating session offered from 7:30 - 10:00 pm Saturday night, February 21st. Skaters are also encouraged to come join in the tournament fun.

On February 2nd, the Arena will celebrate Groundhog Day. Whether you hope he sees his shadow, or the clouds blot out the sun, you and a friend can skate at the Arena at all public sessions for the price of one.

Two for one also is the rule on Saturday, February 14th when we offer all lovers (and friends) our Sweetheart Skate. Besides good times on the ice, the arena will also be offering "sweet treats" to make your evening a success.



The Arena is also currently signing up participants for figure skating lessons, and for a Broomball League, to begin March 22nd. For more information about these and all Arena events, please call (315) 764-0684.

Lighten Up Canada! The nose knows if it's six more weeks of winter...

The folks at M&M are clowning around again to help us all chase away those winter blahs. To lighten everyone's spirits in the dead of winter, on Monday, February 2nd, employees at the 228 M&M Meat Shops across the country will be sporting red clown noses simply to make us laugh.

"It's simply, it's silly, and it works," comments Mac Voisin, President of M&M Meat Shops. "We all need a good laugh from time to time - especially during the long dark days of winter. And this year's event is especially meaningful since it falls on Ground Hog Day. So, if you see an M&M red clown nose - we've only got six more weeks until spring!"

M&M Meat Shops is Canada's largest chain of specialty frozen food. There are currently 228 M&M Meat Shops stores across Canada, operating in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

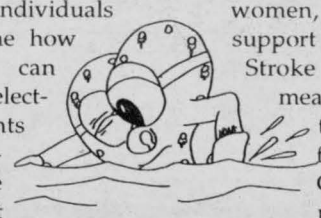
HEART AND STROKE FOUNDATION OF ONTARIO

The Heart and Stroke Foundation has organized an "Iron Heart Triathlon Competition" form Saturday, February 7th - part of Cornwall Carnival '98. Registration takes place at the Lamoureux Park Bandshell at 1:00 pm, with the starting pistol fired at 1:30 pm.

Participants can get their hearts pumping with aerobics in the snow, a 4 km walk/run and a 10 lap swim in the NavCan pool. The IronHeart Competition is specifically designed so individuals can determine how much they can handle by selecting the events they participate in. There are great prizes up for grabs so pull those sweat pants out of the closet, lace up those shoes and accept the FIT CHALLENGE.

Of course, for those who would rather just watch the action from the sidelines, everyone can still join in the fun by stopping by on the 7th to cheer on the participants or by pledging your dollars.

Since heart disease and stroke continue to be the single largest cause of death among Canadian men and women, your financial support of the Heart and Stroke Foundation means we can work together raising funds for Canadian researchers to continue their advancements in medical research.



Did you know advances by Canadian Researchers include:

- ❤ the pacemaker
- ❤ the blood thinning drub, heparin
- ❤ the discovery that the heart produces a hormone
- ❤ surgery to prevent stroke, to name a few

The Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario is committed to reducing the risk of premature death and disability from heart disease and stroke by raising funds for research and health promotion. So pull on those winter coats and come support the Heart and Stroke Foundations FIT CHALLENGE on February 7th. See you at the Cornwall Carnival.

"MY MECHANIC TAKES CARE OF ME."

"A little bit of cold weather doesn't stop me from moving, so I can't let it stop my car either. I depend on it to get me where I need to be no matter how cold it is. I depend on my mechanic to keep it running in tiptop condition so I'm always ready for what winter throws at me."

A GOODWRENCH MECHANIC WILL CHASE AWAY THE WINTER BLUES.

Winter is the worst time of year to be without your car. That's why it's even more important to come in for regular service and to have an expert look things over.

Old, contaminated motor oil doesn't lubricate your engine as well as it needs to. And under cold weather conditions, the problem is even worse. If your oil isn't protecting the parts inside your engine, it could lead to expensive engine repairs.

Plus, when you bring your GM vehicle into Goodwrench Service for a winter checkup, you get the peace of mind of knowing an expert, who knows your car inside and out, has examined it.

MAKE YOUR MECHANIC A GOODWRENCH MECHANIC.

"It seems like everybody has some kind of trick to get their car going on those really cold days. My trick is a winter checkup from my mechanic, he's a Goodwrench mechanic."

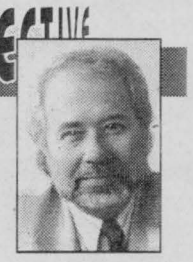
Clinton Debate Demonstrates Moral Degeneracy of America

PERSPECTIVE



By Bob Roth
SEAWAY NEWS

Do politicians have a right to a private life? Are they expected to reflect the dominant values in society? Should they show moral, as well as political, leadership? Does "character" matter in a politician, or should that person be judged purely on his or her "efficiency" as an executive officer?

These are the probing questions that come to the forefront in the on-going soap opera south of the border involving US President Bill Clinton.

Will "big Willy" have to resign because of "little willy?"

The verdict on Clinton's alleged sexual indiscretions has yet to be delivered. But, as far as I'm concerned, the verdict on the attitude of the American public is - guilty!

I have been absolutely stunned that a majority of the American public (at last poll) indicated that even if Clinton did have illicit affairs with women, including a young staff member, they still want him to remain in office?

Why?

Because he's good for the economy.

I believe such a "pragmatic" view is dangerous in a democracy. Do honesty, integrity and truthfulness not matter in a politician anymore?

Has American society become so cynical about its politicians that any reprobate will do - as long as he keeps a chicken in every pot?

This attitude is simply an updated version of the Mussolini-made-the-trains-run-on-time argument - a morally bankrupt philosophy that places economic efficiency above moral decency as the central principle of civilization.

The American people are appalling.

I'm not saying that politicians do not have a right to a personal life and some personal privacy, but I do say that their position as public officials, their sacred trust as leaders, obliges them to submerge their personal interests to the common good.

If someone seeks to "represent" you, they should be "representative".

The decline of moral or spiritual values in our society is something over which we should be very concerned. Do we not want our children to look up to our leaders? More to the point, what does "leadership" mean, if not the setting of an example?

And those who think that one can so easily separate "personal" behaviour from political behaviour have not fully understood the moral of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde". There is a constant struggle in Homo sapiens between "good" and "evil", between what is "noble" in mankind and what is "base." The mere existence of "law" demonstrates that people cannot be trusted to behave in a socially responsible manner without social codes. And those codes, in turn, are based on acceptance of certain common moral precepts.

In short, what is most disturbing about the Clinton case is not that Clinton may or may not have betrayed his wife, his office and the American people - it is that the American people don't seem to care.

Call me naive, but I would like to believe that the man who has his finger on the button of the most powerful arsenal on earth is basically a decent fellow.

Parliament Hill Notebook

By Art Babych
SEAWAY NEWS

Sex, lies and video clips...

"If it were any slower I'd be lapsing into a coma," groaned a fellow scribbler in the press gallery as the House of Commons prepared to go back into session February 2. Parliament Hill reporters were without a Parliament to report on for six weeks as devoted MPs labored tirelessly in their home ridings on behalf of taxpaying constituents. And if you believe that -- have we got a deal for you. The doldrums actually forced some hacks to dig for a news story rather than rely on partisan handouts. Others, however, joined their American colleagues' feeding frenzy over President Bill Clinton's latest alleged sexual indiscretion. One Ottawa radio station sent reporters to cover the earth-shaking story live and direct from Washington D.C., CBC Newsworld sensationalized it from a Canadian perspective and the country's major newspapers devoted their front pages to the titillating scandal. To paraphrase Winston Churchill, never have so many speculated so much for so many with so few facts. At least, not since O.J.

Was it something we wrote? ...

Some freelancers in the press gallery are miffed because they didn't get an invite to the Jan. 21 bash thrown by Governor General Romeo Leblanc. "That's discrimination," one freelance farm reporter mooed. A limited number of invitations were sent to Hill reporters but ours obviously got lost in the mail -- again. Not that your columnist would have gone to the schmooze-fest anyway. The invitation said the proper attire for the reception was a "business suit" or "a short dress." We possess neither.

He scores, again...

Hockey ne'er-do-well Wayne Gretzky may be quick with the puck but can't keep up with his many awards. The Brantford, Ont., native was appointed an Officer of the Order of Canada more than 13 years ago but was never officially invested because he was too busy winning almost every NHL trophy and award possible. On Wednesday night, though, Governor-General Leblanc finally presented the insignia to the former Edmonton Oiler who now, tragically, labors with the New York Rangers. The citation said Gretzky's "astonishing talent has dazzled fans and players and his gentlemanly conduct and sportsmanship are an inspiration to his teammates, opponents and youngsters learning the game." Not to mention his bankers. As an aside, there's absolutely no truth to reports that former PM Brian Mulroney wrote an acceptance after reading the headline: "Great One to receive award."

Stuff about "Duff"...

The press gallery's likeable Mike Duffy, literally one of Canada's most prominent media figures, is being exiled from Ottawa to Toronto. The host of CTV's Sunday Edition -- known to help certain columnists with computer problems (wink, wink, nudge, nudge) -- is reportedly taking his production to the big TO in a move that follows the takeover of CTV by Baton Broadcasting. "Duff" is also in line for a major position with the new Toronto-based all-talk TV channel. We bid him good luck and a fondu, er ... a fond adieu. A while back, Duff accepted an invitation from your columnist to speak at a dinner in the National Press Club. His oft-humorous talk about behind-the-scenes politics in the nation's capital lasted almost two hours. But despite the length, no one got bored -- a rare feat indeed in Ottawa's rubber-chicken circuit.

Next time, skip the ice cubes...

If several members of the Team Canada trade mission to Latin America were leery of doing the Macarena it could be because they came down with Montezuma's Revenge -- the bacterial infection that inspired the portable potty. That might explain the Ottawa Sun's report about Alberta Premier Ralph Klein's misadventures during the trip. Turns out that Klein got sunburned in Buenos Aires doing what many politicians do best -- playing golf. But he was burned even more by the press corps who reported he missed meetings on the trip because of his sunburn. In denying the charges, Klein labelled the reporting "terrible." The Sun said Klein did miss a news conference with the Prime Minister and premiers. An aide explained that Klein was in the washroom at the time. Cursing General Montezuma, perhaps.

AIDS FORUM

SEAWAY NEWS

Hello everybody. I would first off like to thank all the people who helped Cathy and I out during the recent Ice Storm. The Glen Walter Fire Department was very helpful along with some relatives, neighbours and close friends. It was a little difficult trying to stem the flooding of my basement in a cast, but as usual there was plenty of help. Thank you to all.

Finally, my cast is off and my ankle seems to be stronger than it was 5 weeks ago when I first had it removed. I will always need shoes with a heel on them, and will always probably limp a little, but the pain seems to be gone.

While in Kingston last week, Cathy and I visited the clinic to have a chat with my doctor and get some bloodwork done. I was having some severe muscle pains throughout my body, along with the ever present night sweats, which were making sleeping very uncomfortable. I wanted to know how long I have been on some certain drugs and if the long term effects were hurting me. Had a very lengthy talk with my doctor and was reassured the drugs were still working properly.

I have been put on a daily dose of morphine to help the pain. Pain management is still not understood by many physicians and we had a long discussion on this subject. I was fed up with the aches and pains I seem to have gotten used to daily.

My weight is back to around 200 lbs. which is good, as I lost about 17 lbs. before I was diagnosed with diabetes. They took plenty of blood from me for some extra tests. Bacterial infection was a concern, and this may be the cause of my sweats at night. My results came back from some of the tests and were very encouraging. My vial load (the amount of virus in the blood) is about 500, which really means it is basically undetectable. This is very good as it means the new protene inhibitors are working in combination with the other drugs in the cocktail. This is of some solace as the 20 pills I take daily don't make me feel very good.

My CD4 counts are also up to 355 which is very good. My immune system is getting a little stronger and has had time to "get ahead" of the virus in repoducing infection fighting CD4 cells. This is possible due to the low amount of virus in my blood. It's not a cure, but if you can handle the drugs and their side effects, it's life.

Hope to be back out doing some talks soon. Due to the storm, most schools will be hard pressed for time to get their classes in. If you have an hour to spare to listen to me, the kids and myself would appreciate it. Take care everyone and be well.

Canadians Indifferent to American Scandal

I was in the United Sates most of last week and it gave me an opportunity to digest just what was happening with the American presidency.

In New York, just before I went to do a short interview on the "Today" show, they asked me what Canadians made of the whole Bill Clinton affair. Indifferent, I said. Amused. Bemused. But indifferent.

In Orlando, where I spent three days at an international convention and delivered the keynote address to a group of 2,000 delegates and later debated with a spirited young American from Denver, they asked me the same thing. Indifferent, I responded again.

And in Chicago, where I had a short meeting with some officials from the American Federation of Labour, they asked once more. Indifferent, I said once again.

But it left me thinking: we can be indifferent, because it really doesn't affect us. If the shoe were on the other foot, if that were our leader, we might be having different thoughts.

Indifferent.

Is it because we don't care what happens to President Clinton? Or is it because we don't think it's that important.

Have we grown so immune to his whole behaviour that it doesn't matter anymore?

Hardly.

But think back to 1992, when they asked him on television whether he'd ever smoked marijuana before and he said he had, but he didn't inhale. Or whether he'd ever had an affair with Gennifer Flowers, and he said no.

Did anybody really believe him?

When political handlers are putting together position papers in the years to come, they should include an appendix they might as well call "The Rolling Papers." Exhibit A might be the way in which Mr. Clinton handled the dope issue. He backed, he filled, he clung to the letter of the question ("I have never broken the laws of my country." And then he went on to explain.

Never explain.

One result was that Billy Crystal, who has made the Oscar telecast finally worth staying awake for, looked into the camera that same year and said, "Didn't inhale?" to a great guffaw from the audience. Mr. Clinton's suggestion that he smoked dope without inhaling made him look either like a fibber or a dork. Saying you smoke dope but didn't inhale is the equivalent of saying you drank beer but didn't swallow it.

The same thing is happening in the Monica Lewinsky matter. Mr. Clinton's answers are vague, they are contrived and they are starting to make him look like a dork.

Have we been too hard on Mr. Clinton? Hard to tell. In some sense, he's in the wrong place at the wrong time, elected as president during a period of intense exploration of character issues. Like the rest of us, he's not sure where the land mines lie, so he's wound up dancing around some questions best served by standing pat.

There are some purists who say character doesn't count, that we should look simply at where the candidates stand on the issues. That's foolish. We elect a whole person, not just a position paper.

And so it is with Mr. Clinton. Whether he makes it or breaks it in this latest crisis, there will certainly be more to this whole matter than position papers. His credibility, in a job as intense as his, is crucial. It would be a shame to see him lose ... but then, with answers such as those he's been giving in the Lewinsky matter or the pot-smoking episode years before, he will have his share of problems.

Will the most gifted politician of his time fall from grace? For all of our sakes, indifferent or not, let us hope he survives. And learns.

For all of you who are interested in a good debate or education, please come out to the General Vanier Secondary School in Cornwall on February 16th at 7:00 p.m. where I will be debating Paul Inksetter, Vice-President of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation on the merits of Bill 160.

It should be a stimulating debate which will be followed up by questions from a panel.

And, ultimately speaking, you can make up your own minds on the whole educational question: are the public schools failing? And will Bill 160 restore some strength to them? I say yes to both. Come out and watch.

SEAWAY NEWS

I haven't heard a peep from Ted Culp for a few years. Hope he's all right. Mister Culp is -- or was -- president of the Simplified Spelling Society of Canada.

Sorry...that should read Simplifide-speling Sosiety ov Canada.

Ted hates the way the English language works. "It's a very lazy and careless language" he once told me. "We need to chop out stuff all down the line."

He's dead serious (or serius). Mister Culp has written a 30,000-word simplified dictionary and even published a newspaper printed in what he calls 'reformed English'.

Much as I love the variety of English, I have to admit it doesn't make a lot of sense. How can words like through, threw, you and glue be spelled so differently and yet all end with the same sound?

Why is there an "l" in 'could'? A "p" in 'pneumonia'? A "k" in 'knife'?

A "u" in 'valour' and one too many "a"s in 'aardvark'?

How come the letter "c" gets pronounced two different ways in the word 'cicada'?

And then there's "ough", which can be pronounced six different ways -- as in tough, through, thorough, cough, hiccough and bough.

Some bard once wrote these words about the idiocyncrasies of English:

Billet does not sound like ballet;

Bouquet, wallet, mallet, chalet;

Viscous, viscount; load and broad

Rounded, wounded; grieve and sieve;

Friend and fiend; alive and live;

Worm and storm; chaise, chaos, chair;

Senator, spectator, mayor.

Yup, English is a bizarre language alright.

If Ted Culp had his way, it would be stripped down and freed from all its inconsistencies. Cleansed, as he put it, of all its "extraneous, redundant, superfluous, silent symbols."

Alas, nobody ever paid much attention to Ted Culp. Language reformers seldom get much respect. A couple of hundred years ago, an American tried to interest his fellow countrymen in reforming the language. They ignored him too.

And his name was Benjamin Franklin.

Back at the turn of this century, the great critic and playwright George Bernard Shaw unveiled a whole new spelling system plus a new alphabet.

The world yawned mightily.

Perhaps the world instinctively knew better than the reformers ever will. This week I received this in the mail:

DATELINE: BRUSSELS

The European Union commissioners have announced that agreement has been reached to adopt English as the preferred language for European communications, rather than German, which was the other possibility. As part of the negotiations, the British government conceded that English spelling had some room for improvement and has accepted a five-year phased plan for what will be known as EuroEnglish ("Euro" for short).

In the first year, "s" will be used instead of the soft "c". Sertainly, sivil servants will reseive this news with joy. Also, the hard "c" will be replaced with "k". Not only will this klear up konfusion, but typewriter and word prosessor keyboards kan have one less letter.

Experts predikt there will be growing publik enthusiasm in the sekond year, when the troublesome "ph" will be replaced by "f". This will make words like "fotograf" twenty per sent shorter.

In the third year, publik akseptanse of the new spelling kan be expekted to reach the stage where more komplikated changes are possible. Governments will enkourage the removal of double letters, which have always ben a deterent to akurate speling. Also, al wil agre that the horible mes of silent "e"s in the languag is disgrasful, and they would disapear.

By the fourth year, peopl wil be reseptiv to steps such as replasing "th" with "z" and "w" by "v".

During ze fifz year, ze unesesary "o" kan be dropd from vords kontaining "ou", and similar changes vud of kors be aplid to ozer kombinations of leters.

After ziz fifz yer, ve vil hav a reli sensibl riten styl. Zer vil be no mor trubls or difikultis and evrivun vil find it ezi tu understand ech ozer.

Ze drem vil finali kum tru.

I should hasten to tell you that the above came to me as an e-mail from a reader who "thought I would get a kick out of it".

Itz purly tung-in-cheke, I m shur.

HOROSCOPES

February 1-7

Aries – March 21/April 20

You get the cold shoulder from business associates early in the week, Aries. It will be frustrating, but you have to get to the root of the problem. A loved one needs your help later in the week. Do all that you can for him or her — even though it will take up a lot of your time. Leo plays a key role.

Taurus – April 21/May 21

Get ready, Taurus, because it's going to be a long week. You have a lot of things to do in both your professional life and your personal life. Don't let others distract you. You meet an old friend at the end of the week. Catch up with him or her; you'll be surprised to learn how much you two have in common.

Gemini – May 22/June 21

A disagreement between loved ones turns into a family feud. Even though it's going to be difficult, don't choose sides. Try to help everyone else come to an understanding. That special someone finally asks you out. However, don't say yes immediately. Playing "hard to get" is sure to keep him or her interested.

Cancer – June 22/July 22

You do very well when it comes to business this week, Cancer. You make wise decisions that get you noticed by the higher-ups. A bonus is on the way. A friend turns to you for advice. Give your honest opinion — that's what he or she needs to hear. Sagittarius and Libra play key roles later in the week.

Leo – July 23/August 23

This is not the week for you to be headstrong. Keep your cool, or you are going to get into trouble with business associates, loved ones and friends. If you get frustrated, spend some time alone to clear your thoughts. A close friend admits how he or she truly feels about you. Don't give a hasty response. Think about how you feel.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22

You have good fortune this week, Virgo. You complete everything that you set out to do, and you feel great. Don't let a minor argument with a friend ruin your attitude. The two of you will work it out very soon. A loved one needs your help with a personal problem. Be supportive.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23

Everything seems to upset you early in the week. However, don't take your frustration out on those around you. Try to calm down before you say something that you'll regret. That special someone whom you've been seeing wants to intensify the relationship. Say yes! This is the person for you. Leo plays a key role.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22

Keep your shoulder to the wheel early in the week, Scorpio. You have a long to-do list that needs to be completed before Friday. A lot of people are depending on you. Don't let them down. A friend gets into a lot of trouble and turns to you for help. Do what you can, because he or she doesn't know where else to go.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21

Even though you don't have a lot of work to do, it's a busy week for you. Everyone seems to need your help in one way or another. Do what you can, but don't wear yourself thin. You need to look out for No. 1. A friend of a friend wants to meet with you. Don't get nervous; this could be the beginning of a fulfilling relationship.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20

A business associate needs help with an important project. Even though you have your own work to do, you realize how crucial this assignment is. Do all that you can to help. Your efforts will be noticed. A close friend takes you out late in the week. Enjoy yourself.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18

You can't be in two places at once, Aquarius. So, organize your time efficiently. Prioritize your schedule, and do what you have to do. A loved one understands when you cancel plans with him or her. You meet an interesting person during the middle of the week. Find a way to see him or her again.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20

Your week gets a rough start. A problem at work has you fixing a lot of other people's mistakes. Don't get frustrated; just correct the problems. Your superiors have their eyes on you. An old flame contacts you out of the blue. Don't rekindle the fire!

To Borrow or Not To Borrow

Making the most of your RRSP Contribution

It may be a difficult thing to pull off, but maximizing your RRSP contribution year after year is one of the best ways for you to build a solid financial future, according to Bernard Roy, Assistant Vice President of Retirement Services at Canada Trust. For the 1997 tax year, you're allowed to contribute up to 18 percent of the income earned in 1996 to a maximum of $13,500.

And one sure way of making certain you contribute as much as you can to your RRSP is to borrow the money.

"Borrowing money to invest may at first seem like a scary idea," says Roy. "But borrowing to invest in your RRSP can make a lot of sense."

Roy says that short-term borrowing to maximize an RRSP contribution usually makes sense for most investors as long as they can easily manage the monthly payments and plan to pay the loan off quickly - usually within one year. It makes even more financial sense if borrowers plan to use the tax refund they'll receive from their RRSP contribution to pay down the loan. And, Roy points out that investors should try and build a monthly contribution to next year's RRSP into their budget, when they're deciding how much loan they can afford, so they don't get too far behind again!

How can borrowing to invest in your RRSP make sense?

Let's say you need $2,000 to take full advantage of your RRSP contribution, he continues, assuming you have a 40 percent tax bracket and interest rates as shown at right.

Usually, the financial institution where you have your RRSP makes it very easy to arrange an RRSP loan, adds Roy. Most RRSP customers can receive instant loan approval for this year's contribution and can often wait up to 90 days before making that first loan payment. That means you may be able to wait until your tax refund arrives before you make a payment.

Another piece of good news, says Roy, is even if you don't "max out" on your RRSP this year, you can "carry forward" the amount you didn't use to future years. But the down side is that you won't be able to take advantage of the compounding growth this year.

Whatever you decide to do, make sure you do it fast. The contribution deadline for 1997 is midnight of March 2, 1998.

Tips for borrowing to invest in your RRSP:

- Keep payments manageable
- Keep the loan term short - within a year if you can
- Consider working out a payment schedule where money is withdrawn from your account monthly

If you borrowed	$2,000
At an RRSP loan rate of	6.5%
With a monthly repayment cost of	$173
Assuming payments are made as scheduled, your interest costs over one year would be	$71
If your RRSP investment of $2000 earned	8%
You would earn in one year	$160
And your tax refund would be	$800
At the end of one year, you would have gained	$960
and had interest costs of	$71
Which means, you come out ahead by approximately	$889

Save an extra 30% in taxes on your RRSP

Here's an example of the savings

Investment in Venture Fund	$3,500
Tax Savings ~ RRSP tax reduction (at 50% tax rate)	-1,750
Federal Tax Credit (15%)	-525
Provincial Tax Credit (15%)	-525
Your Net Cost	$700
Your total tax savings	$2,800

COGECO Issuing Service Credits

In recognition of the scope of the cable service interruptions caused by the recent ice storm damage, COGECO is pleased to announce that it will automatically provide service credits to all customers in the affected regions.

Now that the cable company has been able to quantify the extent of the outages, it is able to proactively provide customers with appropriate compensation. According to Maureen Tilson Dyment, Director of Communications and Programming for COGECO, "the majority of our Cornwall area customers experienced constant, rotating or intermittent outages of up to eight days in duration. In order to speed up the process and ensure that all customers affected by the outages receive their credit, over the next couple of billing periods customers will see Storm Outage Credits approximately equal to eight days worth of service." COGECO appreciates the challenging times that residents have been through, and according to Ms. Tilson Dyment "we want to ensure that everyone will receive their credit without putting the onus on customers to call us. Our phones are especially busy right now, so an automatic compensation will help save our customers some valuable time." There may be the occasional individual circumstances where customers have experienced outages for durations longer than the credited period. In these circumstances, Ms. Tilson Dyment noted that the customer would need to contact the company, and COGECO would address these individual situations on a case by case basis.

COGECO rushed crews and extra equipment from other Ontario divisions to help in the restoration of the severely damaged Cornwall region cable system. "We are still completing repairs, but we have the situation well in hand," states Bob Balint, Director of Technical Operations. "I'm very proud of the way our technicians responded so quickly and worked such long hours in order to minimize the interruption to our service. I would also like to extend our appreciation to other utilities, local officials and their staff for the assistance and co-operation received. People really pulled together in very adverse circumstances. Our thanks to everyone involved."

New Marketing Initiatives Promotes Cornwall

Activity in Cornwall Cyberspace is going to get much busier with the distribution of 15,000 new brochures promoting the web sites of the City and 20 leading businesses and organizations. The Cyberspace brochure has been developed by WEBtech and RE/MAX Cornwall Realty, in collaboration with Cornwall Economic Development. The goal of the brochure is to raise the awareness of the increased use of the Internet as a marketing and communications tool by the local business community while at the same time, delivering a positive message about living and working in Cornwall.

Featuring a striking graphic of a business person looking at the City with the tagline of "Have You Looked At Cornwall Lately?", the brochure challenges readers to change their perception of Cornwall. The brochure goes on to point out that Cornwall has changed over the last few years and in the process has become one of the leading communities on the Internet. A message from Mayor Brian Sylvester invites the reader to visit Cornwall, either in person or via the web sites profiled in the brochure.

"Each year we have produced the brochure, the number of participating companies has doubled," noted Terry Landon, Broker/Owner of RE/MAX Cornwall Realty. "The Internet is still growing exponentially, and it is becoming more important to promote your web site. The brochure provides a person with a handy guide to these useful sites. By working together, the impact is much greater, and with the City's help, we can extend our message to foreign markets."

LANDON

Cornwall Economic Development is responsible for the distribution of the majority of the brochures, sending them to key contacts in the media, targeted industries and senior levels of government, including Canadian foreign trade offices around the world. Five thousand (5,000) of the brochures along with City "Infodisk" are being delivered to various businesses and industries in metropolitan Toronto at the end of January through the distribution of the Globe and Mail's Report on Business Magazine.

"Cornwall is in a unique position to take advantage of the new digital economy, and we want to show people around the world our capabilities," said Mayor Brian Sylvester. "By showcasing some of our top companies and individuals, we are making a clear statement of the cooperation which exists throughout the Cornwall business community."

The brochure itself is reproduced on its own website (www.webtech.on.ca/cyberspace) and with the click of a mouse, web browsers can easily move from one site to another. As a result, participating businesses are not only promoting themselves but other firms as well.

SYLVESTER

The "infodisk" accompanying the initial launch of Cyberspace offers a comprehensive look at Cornwall with its many attributes, and encourages company executives to take a closer look at the City. The ultimate goal is to convince these executives that Cornwall is a good place to operate an enterprise.

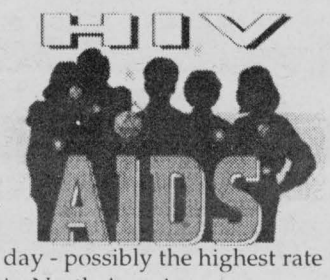
Each participating company and organization shared in the cost of the brochures and will receive their own supply to distribute. With such important organizations as the City, United Counties, Chamber of Commerce and Tourism represented, the brochure is a guide to hundreds and hundreds of pages of information on the region.

Disturbing Facts

(NC)—The profile of the AIDS epidemic in Canada is changing. While the gay community has been hardest hit by the disease, new infection rates are rising fastest among women, people who use injection drugs, Aboriginals and young people.

Did you know for example that:

- AIDS is the leading killer of men aged 25-44 in Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal.
- Between the years 1985-1994, 10% of the individuals testing positive for HIV were women. In 1995, women accounted for 19.5% of all new cases of HIV.
- Aboriginals now account for 17% of all new cases of HIV infection, despite the fact they make up only 4% of the Canadian population.
- In the Downtown East Side of Vancouver, two drug users test HIV positive every day - possibly the highest rate in North America.



As for HIV treatments, recent research suggests that AZT, a so called thymidine analog drug and one of a combination of drugs commonly used to fight HIV, is less effective than it might be due to a fundamental flaw in its chemical structure. This flaw prevents AZT from being effectively metabolized in the body. As a result, less AZT is available to attack HIV. Researchers suggest that this structural flaw accounts for some of the resistance that develops with prolonged AZT use, and for some of its side effects.

RRSP Contributions — Pay Now, Save Later

Most people with registered retirement savings plans (RRSPs) try to put in as much money each year as they can — up to their prescribed limits — hoping to get the biggest tax refund possible as soon as possible. Sometimes, though, it may make better sense to pay now and save later.

"Making RRSP contributions and not deducting them until a future year is an often forgotten wealth-building idea," says Stephen Thompson, CA, a tax partner with Wilkinson & Company in Trenton.

For example, explains Ed Ramsay, CA, a tax manager with Hyde Houghton in London, "if you have the money to contribute to an RRSP but your taxable income this year is very low, your tax deduction would be at a low rate. If you defer taking the deduction until a year where your income and tax rate are much higher, you'll save much more." He notes an RRSP contribution of, say, $13,500 deducted in a year when your tax rate is 27%, will save you $3,645 in taxes; in a year when your tax rate is 50%, that same contribution can save you $6,750.

Moreover, adds Thompson, "you can take advantage of the benefits of compounding tax-free." Investment income earned inside an RRSP is not taxed until the funds are withdrawn. "Accordingly, portfolios inside an RRSP grow faster than portfolios outside an RRSP." Combine this with the fact that, the longer you leave an investment in your RRSP, the more the effects of compounding will result in tremendous growth. "So, if you can contribute to your RRSP but your income is so low that you won't get much of a tax deduction, still consider making the contribution to take advantage of tax-free compounding."

Ramsay advises that, similarly, interest earned by money in investments outside an RRSP is fully taxable, whereas interest earned by money inside an RRSP is tax-sheltered. "If you have the money and the RRSP contribution room available, invest in your RRSP first even if you plan to take the deduction later."

Thompson points out that your children will also find this strategy great for creating wealth. "If your children have part-time jobs, make sure they file a tax return, even if they don't have to pay tax. This establishes RRSP contribution room. Then, encourage them to make RRSP contributions but to not claim the deductions until they are taxable. Once they are working full-time, they will have a nice pool of RRSP contributions they can deduct."

This planning provides a number of benefits, Thompson says. "First, your children will see the benefits of making RRSP contributions and are more likely to continue to contribute in their adult life. Second, by starting early, your children are taking full advantage of tax-free compounding. If they earn even a modest return, your children will have a substantial nest egg when they retire. And, your kids will really thank you when they finally get that tax refund."

Ramsay warns, though, that this approach could lead to accelerated taxation. "You're committing money to your RRSP. You are allowed to withdraw the unused contributions within certain time limits. But, if that time has passed and you need the money before you've taken the tax deduction, you won't be able to pull it out without incurring a tax cost."

There are many factors to consider when planning an appropriate RRSP strategy. Ask a chartered accountant to outline the options that will save you the most money.

The Lung Association In Desperate Need of Support

Lung disease is a major problem in our area and of great concern to us all. Each year The Lung Association conducts their Christmas Seal Appeal, in their effort to raise funds for much needed research, programs and services. At present they are about the 1/2 way mark; $21,000 short of their objective of $60,000, which is not an unrealistic goal since it has not increased for the past 5 years.

"Your past financial support to The Lung Association was all about saving and improving the lives of others," says Catherine Sabourin of The Lung Association. "This year your donation will do exactly the same thing. We are proud to say that 84% of your contribution goes directly into research, education and community service programs. Only 16% is directed to fundraising initiatives and administration. In comparison to other organizations that's phenomenal!" says Sabourin.

"Our budgets have been trimmed to the bare bones," she says. "We know that our lung/health education programs help keep hospital and doctor visits down. All year, Lung Association staff and volunteers can be found in schools, senior support centres, hospitals, etc. in the five United Counties promoting healthy lifestyles, asthma awareness and maintenance programs for people suffering from lung disease," she added.

"We know that times are hard for everyone, especially now in light of recent events. However, as a contributor, you are the lifeline of this voluntary organization which has been serving Cornwall and area residents for the past 50 years," she says. The Lung Association depends solely on direct mail and supplementary fundraising. The Christmas Seal Campaign which is fast coming to an end is The Lung Association's most important source of funds. There is no door to door canvassing, support from the United Way or financial assistance from the Provincial or Federal Government.

One in five Canadians suffer from some form of respiratory illness. 27,000 Canadians die each year, that's 10 each week from a lung related disease. Please consider how your donation could help in the work toward a "healthy future". Progress has been made in the battle against lung disease, but there is still more to do. It's not too late to make a donation. In the past, Cornwall and area residents have always responded to the challenge. Please answer this year's appeal today or call The Lung Association at 932-4999 or toll free at 1-800-450-5202, and remember always that .. When you can't breathe, nothing else matters.

Cornwall Disaster Relief Committee

The Cornwall Disaster Relief Committee was established on January 21st. It consists of nine members and has two subcommittees of it; they are the Fundraising Committee and Claims Committee. We are in the process of setting up an office with staff where the claim forms may be obtained.

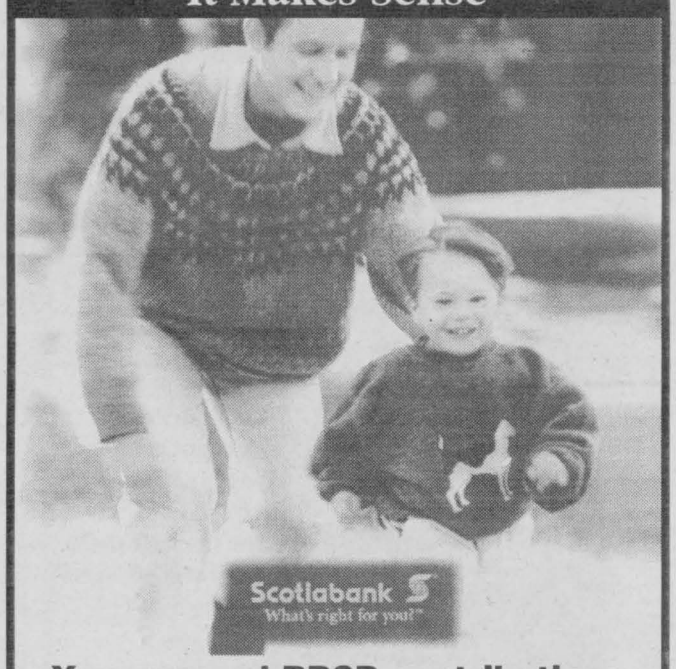
The Fundraising committee has set up a bank account at the Toronto Dominion Bank for those who wish to donate to the Cornwall Disaster Relief Committee. All funds that are received will be matched by the province. The ratio could be 3 to 1 or higher, but this will be decided very shortly.

The Claim Settlement committee is now advertising for an appraiser, and finalizing the form and claim process. Anyone who may have a claim should retain all receipts and any documentation that may support this claim.

At this point in time the Federal and Provincial governments along with the eight other Disaster Relief Committees are putting together the criteria for your claims. There has never been a storm like this, so we are breaking new ground. These Disaster Committees are autonomous.

The Scotia RRSP Catch-Up™ Loan

Borrow money to save money. It Makes Sense



Your unused RRSP contributions don't expire.

That's right. Just because you haven't taken advantage of all your RRSP contributions doesn't mean you can't. Any unused contributions, beginning with your 1991 contribution limit, can be carried forward indefinitely. But the sooner you use them the better. (Think compound earnings). So why not maximize your contribution this year, and take advantage of all your unused contributions at the same time?

Here's how it works.

This is one time where borrowing really makes sense. And it's simple, and easy. Here's an example.
The following illustrates the benefit of borrowing $15,000 to invest in your RRSP with the intention of repaying it over a 10 year period at a loan rate of 6%. However, you'll note that if you apply your tax refund against the loan, the loan can be paid off in just over 5 years.

❶ Borrow $15,000.
(or as much as $50,000‡ at rates as low as Prime*)

❷ Get back $6,000 on your tax return and pay down your loan
(Assumes a 40% tax bracket. Yours might be different)

❸ Pay back $167/month.
(Seems possible? If need be, you can take up to 15 years to repay.)

❹ Watch your RRSP grow to $22,909 in 5 years and 6 months, when your loan is paid out. In 25 years, you'll have $102,727.

Here's how you can start to Catch-Up.

Arranging a Scotia RRSP Catch-Up Loan is simple. Just call 1-800-575-8888 right now and talk to a Scotiabank representative. Call 930-2002 or drop by Scotiabank at 14 Second Street West and talk personally with one of our investment representatives.
They're available to answer your questions about the Scotia RRSP Catch-Up Loan, and can offer other alternatives to help you achieve your individual investment goals.
Wouldn't it be nice to have a little more gold for your golden years? And just a little less to worry about today? Think about a Scotia RRSP Catch-Up Loan. It could be what's right for you.

ASK THE DENTIST

Louis Cardinal, BSc, DDS, FAGD

What is Baby Bottle Tooth Decay?

Baby bottle tooth decay is a term used to describe the type of decay that infants and very young children develop which has a characteristic appearance. What makes this decay particularly unique is that often the decay is extremely aggressive and usually restricted to the front teeth, although more advanced cases will show decay that has extended to the back teeth. Furthermore the decay is initially located predominantly on the inside surfaces, which gives it's unique appearance, as well as making it difficult for parents to notice. A dentist will often recognize it as baby bottle decay simply by it's unique distribution.

This decay occurs when sweetened liquids are given in a bottle and are left clinging to an infant's teeth for a long time. Many sweetened liquids cause this problem, including milk, formula and fruit juices. Bacteria in the mouth use the sugar as food and then produce acids that attack enamel. Most of these liquids are not damaging when consumed as a drink, but the trouble occurs when they are left to trickle slowly over long periods of time, thereby slowly and continuously causing acid attacks on the enamel. Short term attacks are well tolerated and consuming these drinks at meal time is not harmful because the body produces large amounts of saliva to dilute and neutralize the acidic by-products. Please remember that it is how often and how long you expose those teeth to the sweetened liquids. Sometimes parents do not realize that a baby's teeth can decay that fast after they errupt, and by the time the problem is noticed, it may be too late to save them. The resulting premature lost of baby teeth creates space problems for the second (permanent) dentition. Furthermore, extensive dental treatment on such young infants is usually only possible under sedation or general anaesthesia.

You can help prevent baby bottle tooth decay by following these tips:

- As soon as teeth appear, they should be brushed after each feeding.
- Do not let a child fall asleep with a bottle of sweet liquid such as milk, fruit juices, fruit drinks, cola, etc...
- If your child insist on a comforter between meals, provide him or her with a bottle of water (preferably fluoridated).

This is easy if the child has never been introduced to sweet liquids in the first place. Changing this habit later will require more determination from both parents and child.

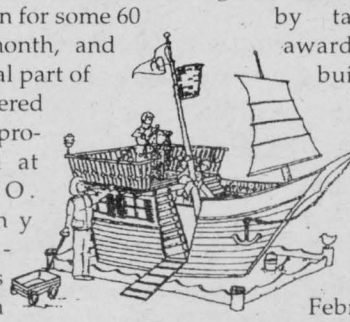
- Have your child see a dentist as soon as teeth are present, especially if you suspect a dental problem.

"Dr Cardinal accepts any inquiries at tel:938-8451 or fax:938-7647 and welcomes you to visit his webb site at www.netcom.ca/~cardina3 for other dental topics."

Unique Fund Raiser

Ottawa's Ronald McDonald House is a residential facility which served as a temporary home-away-from-home for the families of seriously ill children. Families from all over Eastern and Northern Ontario, and from as far away as Newfoundland, stay at our House while their sick child is receiving treatment at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

The Ottawa House first opened its doors in 1984 and has been a haven for some 60 families per month, and forms an integral part of the family-centered care provided at CHEO. Many families from the Cornwall area use our services each month.



Our House relies heavily on fundraising and community support to keep providing our warm, caring and friendly environment. We do not receive any ongoing financial assistance from any corporation and do not receive any monies from the Federal or Provincial Governments.

In order to raise the necessary funds to provide our families with the comfort they deserve, we must do several events each year.

This year the Friends of Ronald McDonald are holding our most unique fundraising project. Five lucky winners will be the proud owners of a one-of-a-kind designer playhouse. These homes are designed, built and donated by talented and award winning builders and renovators from the Ottawa area.

The houses will go on display February 12th - 15th, 1998 at the Rideau Centre, Ottawa; Place d'Orleans from February 26th - March 1st; and at Bayshore Shopping Centre from March 23rd - 25th. All five houses will be on display at the Street of Dreams in the Coliseum Building at the Ottawa Spring Home Show, March 25th - 29th at Landsdowne Park, Ottawa.

Raffle tickets are $10 each or three for $25. All proceeds form this event will go to Ronald McDonald House.

Good News From Africa - Cornwall Youth Made It Happen

Watching television can give the impression that Africa is filled with death and despair. Recent news tells of mass killings in Algeria and power struggles in Rwanda. But the media often misses the positive stories such as the work in developing countries funded by students from the Cornwall area. Their participation in World Vision's 30 Hour Famine has helped save lives.

Despite the wars with their front page coverage, peace and stability is reality in some parts of Africa. The official end of apartheid in South Africa marked a milestone in the history of humankind. In neighbouring Mozambique, millions of displaced people are returning home and rebuilding their lives after years of Civil War. Mozambicans are rediscovering productivity through agricultural packages provided by local teens who support World Vision's 30 Hour Famine.

Improved health care, using methods such as oral rehydration therapy, saves the lives of millions who could have died from easy-to-treat intestinal viruses. Life expectancy in Africa has increased from 40 to 51 years. Again, students from the Cornwall area have invested in these programs though World Vision's 30 Hour Famine.

This good news story does not grab headlines. But, thanks to people who are willing to see beyond the flow of negative media coverage, we are making a difference.

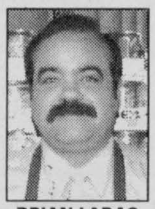
Eastcourt Market

... your community food store

Hi folks and welcome to your new community food store, Eastcourt Market. The store is locally owned by Louis Jasmin, Brian Ladas and families. Our dream started just over two years ago when the previous ownership decided to close its doors. We looked at the store and saw many positives.

LOUIS JASMIN



BRIAN LADAS

We did our homework to find out what problems had to be ironed out before opening. We asked many questions and many of you provided us with the same complaints. The answer was easy, clean-up the store, put in a fresh deli department, carry the most popular items, especially in smaller sizes, provide a complete butcher shop where you can actually see and talk to the guys in the back about what you need, carry first quality fruits and vegetables and last but not least, have the friendliest staff in town that treat you like the friend you are and not just another customer.

Old fashioned services are something that we believe in! We have delivery service six days a week and if needed, we deliver on Sunday as well! We have packers and carry-out service and you will never pay for your bags. Our front end staff has been trained to automatically double bag if they feel that the bag is a little heavy, especially for those walking or taking a bus.

Our full service deli department has no rival when it comes to selection and price. We have brought in products that people usually have to travel to Montreal or Ottawa to pick up.

RICK LEROUX

Our full service butcher shop starts with the people working behind the counter. Rick Leroux (former owner of Quality Fruit on McConnell) heads up a team made up of Claude and Bob Giroux (former owners of B&M Meat). Between the three of them there is over 100 years of experience. Again, our belief is top quality at all times. We listened to you! We offer small sized packages as well as traditional sizes. Want a 32 oz. T-Bone? The boys in the back will be glad to cut if for you. All of our meat is cut from the old fashioned traditional style of side, fronts and hinds. This gives us the best tasting in Cornwall and we can actually boast, the only full size, full service, grocery store that offers swinging beef that is naturally aged for tenderness and full flavour. Looking for soup bones or just something for your dog to chew on, we've got it!

Our dream of opening on December 10th, 1997 after several delays was dashed when our computer went down at 4:00 a.m. With another delay at hand, we managed to work all day and throughout the night to be ready for the next day. Due to problems with the computer we were unable to effect sufficient price changes in the grocery department and for this we apologize. Within two weeks we were able to lower over 1,500 prices throughout the store.

Our families extend an open invitation to all to drop by our new store and experience the difference a full service, friendly store can do for you!

Anything we can do for you, our friends, is what we are here for. If you can't make it down to the store, give us a call, we'll gladly put an order together for you! Need a ride in, we'll send our driver to pick you up! Please call us at 932-8788 or fax us in your order at 932-5407.

Full service means more!!

Brian and Louis.

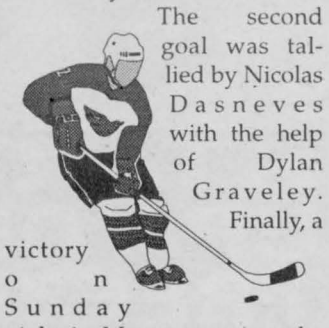
A Long Awaited Victory For Lally Blanchard Major Peewees

Once again the Rapids had a very busy week. It all started on Wednesday, January 21st when the Peewees travelled to Richmond and ended up losing 3-1. Thanks go out to Peter Barnett for scoring with the help of Nicolas Dasneves. The following night, they were bused to Kingston and tied the game 1-1. This time is was due to Patrick Turcotte's goal assisted by Dylan Graveley. Maxim Marion played an awesome game in net. On home territory, in Cornwall on Saturday, they came out short against the Nepean Raiders with a final score of 3-2. Dylan Graveley got the first goal assisted by Nicolas Dasneves.



The second goal was tallied by Nicolas Dasneves with the help of Dylan Graveley. Finally, a victory on Sunday night in Massena against the Gloucester Rangers with a score of 4-3. Steven Jarvo scored the first goal assisted by Patrick Turcotte. Timothy Owens and Patrick Turcotte then both scored unassisted goals. Then, with three minutes left in the game, Peter Barnett got the winning goal assisted by Nicolas Dasneves. Hopefully this will be the beginning of better things to come.

HOCKEY COACHING TIPS

Presented by 3M

Angling and Positioning

Do you spend enough time teaching your players effective defensive skills?

Angling/positioning skills allow a defender to check without using body contact, and are the foundation of all checking skills. Players must learn effective angling/positioning skills in younger categories before progressing to categories with body contact and body checking.

In angling/ positioning, a defender uses controlled skating and reads the degree of puck control to force the puck carrier in the desired direction. Angling/ positioning must only be taught once players have mastered all skating skills.

Here are some suggestions

- teach players to angle from the inside-out, using angle and speed to force the puck carrier to the outside, where there is only one route of escape and appropriate stick checks can be applied.
- players should use a controlled angle approach when the puck carrier has full puck control and pressure when the puck carrier has less control.
- emphasize that players should control skating speed, keep their feet shoulder width apart, head up and stick on the ice.
- stress that players must be aware of the "danger zone", the 3-4 metres in front of the boards, and to never push, bump or shove an opponent from behind.

To develop these skills, use drills where players must play one-on-one against a puck carrier coming out of the corner, using angling / positioning to force the attacker to the outside. This can be repeated in all four corners.

For more information on improving your coaching skills, contact the Canadian Hockey Association, 613-748-5613, or the Coaching Association of Canada, 613-748-5624; or write to the associations at 1600 James Naismith Drive, Gloucester, Ontario K1B 5N4.

Send A Personal Greeting To Hometown Hero ... Lori Dupuis

Canadians have an opportunity to send a personal greeting to the athletes participating in the Nagano Winter Games via the web with CANOE (www.canoe.ca), Canada's Nagano '98 site.

Voted the best Canadian site for the Winter Games in Nagano, Japan by Lycos - Top 5%, SLAM! Sports Nagano '98 (www.canoe.ca/SlamNagano) will track the competitive progress of Canadian athletes throughout the games, including Cornwall athlete Lori Dupuis in Women's Hockey.

Included in each athlete's bio on the Nagano '98 site is an e-mail address, available from the Nagano '98 homepage giving Canadians the opportunity to send best wishes to Team Canada's athletes in Japan.

In addition to features, profiles, medal winners and history of the individual sports, CANOE's Nagano '98 also highlights events, schedules, full results and analysis. "Nagano is the year's sports story, and CANOE will be there live with news as it happens from now throughout the games. Our audience will have access to news, columns, features, an Olympic Photo Gallery and a host of other news related products without any time delay," said Jim O'Leary, Executive Producer for CANOE.

"Put simply, that means whenever Team Canada medals, the CANOE audience will know. But in addition to the medal news, we'll also be able to provide full coverage of the sport, and of the winning athlete or athletes. It's the complete package," said O'Leary. "And, with our Olympic Chat site, our audience has the opportunity to share the experience with others on-line."

CANOE is a limited partnership between Sun Media Corporation and BCE Media Investments. Launched in March 1996, the site currently registers more than 30 million page views per. month, is staffed 24 hours per day and is a recognized leader in the Canadian new media landscape.

Miller Hughes Bantam "AA" Rapids

After a long layoff, the Miller Hughes Minor Bantam "AA" Rapids got back to playing the game they love. The Albany River Rats travelled to the Ed Lumley Arena for an exhibition match against the local team and put up a valiant effort, only to lose 1-0 on an unassisted goal by Philip Boots. Outstanding play from the goaltending duo of Jeff McIntyre and Devon Eveleigh provided the team with their well earned shutout. The Rapids' defense had one of their better games, with team veteran Ryan Major playing a fantastic and inspired game on the blue line. The Rapids outshot their opponents 24-18.

The following weekend had the Rapids playing two games, one a league struggle versus Outouais, and the second against Lac St. Louis Central from the Greater Montreal area. The Rapids lost to Outouais 5-1 at the new arena in the St. Lawrence Centre Mall in Massena. Although the boys played without three regulars, and were outshot 38-14, coach Geoff Smith was pleased with their play. He felt if his team could have cashed in on their missed scoring chances, the game could have gone in their favour. Penalty trouble also hurt the team as Outouais scored four power play goals. Scoring the lone goal for the Rapids was Jesse Winchester on a pass from Ryan Redmond.

Sunday found the team in Montreal playing an exhibition game and coming out on top with a 4-3 victory over Lac St. Louis Central. Trailing 3-0 after the first period, the boys finally got their act together and started playing some serious hockey. Scoring for the Rapids were Philip Boots (2), Jesse Winchester, and Jamie Smith. Assists went to Matty McNally, Marc Leroux, Ryan Redmond (2), Jamie Smith and Ryan Major.

Midget Girls Travelling Basketball Team

Cornwall Lion's Midget Girls Travelling Basketball team got back into action this weekend, their first games since December 20th when they lost of Goulbourn by a score of 59 to 14 and beat Elgin 48 to 19. On Saturday the Lions lost two games, the first to Naismith by 47 to 21 and the second to the Ottawa Xcels by 72 to 34. In the Naismith game, Tracey Bradley scored 6 followed by Terri Lalonde and Jennifer Baker with 4 each. Terri also had 5 rebounds. Robyn DeGray led the scoring in the Xcel game with 8, followed by Jennifer Baker with 6, Michelle Daigneault with 5 and Terri Lalonde and Kelly Stevenson with 4 each. Robyn DeGray had 7 rebounds.

On Sunday, the Lions beat Gloucester 28 to 20 and then lost to Lennox and Addington by 55 to 35. In the Gloucester game, Jennifer Baker had 7 points followed by Sheena Butt with 5 and Joëlle Michaud and Tracey Bradley with 4 each. Eleven Cornwall players scored in the second game, led by Terri Lalonde with 9, Robyn DeGray with 7 and Tracey Bradley with 4.

The Lions resume action on Friday with a weekend tournament in Ottawa where they will meet the Xcels again and play two Ottawa Shooting Star's teams.

CORNWALL BRIDGE

By Bert Mosher

""People are born to succeed, not to fail." - Henry David Thoreau

How do we succeed at bridge? By deriving the maximum amount of enjoyment from our game. Learning new techniques for many people means more enjoyment. Even if you are satisfied with your results a little branching out now and then could prove to be very pleasing.

One way you can very slowly build an exciting technique is to prompt. If you prompt do it more often. If you now prompt at the two level with a six card suit and at the three level with a seven card suit, once and while prompt at the two level with only five cards (providing it is a good five carder).

Many people think that preempting is not quite fair. Nothing could be further from the truth. If you lay down, people will walk all over you. So don't lay down but stand up and preempt.

Do not neglect the 2 Diamond prompt. This is just as effective as other prompts and occasionally even more so. Don't take my word for this - see Marty Bergan's article on page 63 of the December bulletin.

So always be on the lookout for a prompt that you can make, especially if you are not vul and the opponents are.

As always, if you have comments or questions I can be reached at 932-1700.

Next week - regular games at all clubs (Note to club managers - when you are planning on a special game, please give me two week's notice).

Shalteck Becomes Unplugged

On Monday, January 26th, Shalteck were bused to Richmond at the invitation to play the Goulbourne team. Goaltender Chris Gadbois must have felt ambushed as Goulbourne fired 4 third period goals, winning 4-1 over Shalteck.

Shalteck maintained a one goal lead up until the third period, but rapidly lost their composure. The lone marker was scratched up by captain Ian Boots and assisted by comrades Sebastien Chollette and Pierre Luc Marleau.

An arguable and very delayed whistle on a leg injury suffered by Josh Brownlee allowed Goulbourne to tie the game and upset the apple cart. Shalteck retaliated by taking numerous costly penalties and played short handed for the most part of the third. Goulborne capitalized on their power play.

It appeared at times the boys were on a search and destroy mission (self-motivated) or clearing brush and hydro lines (ha!) as the clock finally expired and ultimately paid the price.

Credits for prowess go to B. Crepeau, C. Legue, C. Gove, J. Lalonde, C. Bough, G. Belmore, C. Matte, J. Langlois and also Scott Cameron who played while ill.

SEAWAY NEWS ENTERTAINMENT

By the time you read this we will be closing the door on JANUARY '98. It's surely a month that everyone will long remember but will probably wish to completely forget for now. We still have the snow, ice and cold with us as daily reminders but with GROUNDHOG DAY just days away we can now start to at least contemplate some brighter days ahead. We could still suffer the wrath of MA NATURE during the remaining winter season but hopefully not the sort of troubles we faced over the last few weeks.

The folks at NATIVITY PARISH have the right idea. They will be closing out January with a fun-filled CARNIVAL. This Satuday, January 31st there will be games, activities and flea market between 10 a.m. -3 p.m. Also lunch with soup, hot dogs, fries, drinks & chips and a big Dinner & Dance. Sunday will feature a special breakfast starting at 10 a.m. until 1pm.

This coming Friday we will officially open the CORNWALL CARNIVAL '98. Official opening ceremonies will take place at Lamoureux Park starting at 7:00 p.m. The Carnival runs until February 16th and a full schedule of events is available here in the Seaway News or you can pick one up at Eastcourt Mall, Brookdale Mall and Cornwall Square. The event will feature fashion show, Queen's Gala, stage entertainment, fireworks, street dance and much more.

Entertainment - Special Events & Restaurant Review - By Bill Gallant

A couple VALENTINE'S DAY DANCES on the calendar to report. PORTO BELLO RESTAURANT will stage their Sweetheart Dinner & Dance on February 13 & 14th. You can enjoy fine dining with some special Valentine Meals on both Friday and Saturday evening and also dance to the music of HARRY YOUNGS AND THE NOBLEMEN each night. Reserve a table now by calling the Porto Bello. The dancing is scheduled to begn at 8pm.

There will be a social hour starting at 6 p.m. followed by a meal at the Valentine's Day Dance at the HERITAGE HALL on Second Street East on Saturday, February 14th. Members and guests of the Masonic will enjoy great dancing music with spot dances starting at 8:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to be there for the social hour to also enjoy some of BILL G.'S light and romantic Sweetheart music for the occasion.

A great place for single people over 30 to meet other singles is B.C.'S SINGLES DANCES held most Saturday evenings at the new Navy Club Building - 30 Sixth Street East, Cornwall. The dances are in full swing after the ice storm with Alley Cat performing, live on January 31st. The doors open at 8:30 and the dance is from 9:00 until 1:00. Although there is a dress code in effect this Saturday is "Dress Down - Denim Night." There are also dances scheduled for February 7th and a Valentine's Dace on the 14th. For more info. call 933-5903.

Still tickets available for the upcoming Glen Production of CRAZY FOR YOU. Terrific Gershwin Music will highlight the stage production to be staged on February 13th & 14th at 8:15 p.m. and a matinee at 2 p.m. on February 15th at Aultsville Theatre, St.Lawrence College. Phone 937-GLEN Monday to Friday.

Weather conditions look good for the maiden flight of the RCAF WING 424 "NITE-FLITE" scheduled to take off on Saturday, February 7th at 8:00 p.m. Actually it's the only "flight" that will be airborne without even leaving the ground. The imaginary, musical excursion will feature a full cargo of sentimental musical favourites for listening and dancing at the Wing 424 site. Contact any R.C.A.F.member for more information.

The tempo in the NHL is beginning to pick up now that the teams start battling for a favoured playoff position. BRETT HULL of the ST.LOUIS BLUES, just back from a hand injury, was outspoken a few days ago on the subject of all the "clutching & grabbing" thats been so prevalent in the games this season. As a fan I would hope that the NHL bosses would pay some attention to Hull and other players and former players that have been bemoaning these tactics that have taken too much of the excitement from the games. It occurs of course when any of the league's scoring stars close in for a shot or potential goal. Combined with the "trap" it has made for some real boring TV games. Thank goodness the OLYMPICS are not far off and will hopefully show the NHL brass how the game should be played.

Movies this week feature TITANIC, SPICE WORLD and GREAT EXPECTATIONS at the Brookdale Cinemas. At the Port Theatre on Montreal Road catch DESPERATE MEASURES.

There will be a special CANCER SOCIETY BENEFIT SPAGHETTI DINNER held this Sunday, February 1st at the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 297. You are invited to come out and enjoy the meal and support the Cancer Society.

Until next week, G'Day and G'Night.

CAR CARE

Take an Active Role in the Safety And Maintenance of Your Car

(MS) — Taking an active part in the maintenance and safety of your vehicle doesn't have to be a major undertaking. Many car owners have never even looked under their own automobile's hood — it intimidates them. However, knowing how everything works is not necessary. All you really have to do is have someone who knows about cars show you where some key components are located.

The following, courtesy of the Automotive Cooling System Institute (ACSI), is a brief overview of various parts and basic maintenance checks (when applicable) within a vehicle's cooling system.

Coolant — Sometimes called antifreeze, it circulates through the system to keep the engine cool. It also is a rust and corrosion inhibitor.

To check: No specific maintenance checks.

Fan — When the car is at idle or being driven in heavy traffic at lower speeds, the fan pulls cool air through the radiator.

To check: Look for wobbling, bent or loose fan blades. A good fan should not turn more than 1½ turns if spun by hand when the engine is off and warm.

Heater core — Hot coolant warms up the core to heat the inside of the car.

To check: Visually inspect for leaks. If there is a puddle on the floorboard or the smell of antifreeze in the passenger compartment, heater-core failure is likely.

Blower motor — This motor blows air through the heater core.

To check: Noise with the component could indicate a problem. However, there are no specific maintenance checks.

Water pump — This mechanism circulates coolant through the engine block, radiator and heater core.

To check: Inspect around the pump for leaks. The first sign of failure is a small leak. Other signs include bearing noise, like rumbling or growling, loss of coolant and fan wobble.

Coolant temperature sensor — This sends the temperature of the coolant to gauges and the engine control computer.

To check: No specific maintenance checks.

THE CAR DOCTOR

Peter Millard

Persistent Drift

(NC)—I have a 1995 Thunderbird with a 4.6 litre engine. This car didn't steer properly from day one. I have had 4 alignments performed, the sub-frame re-torqued, the speed sensitive power steering replaced and the car still drifts to the right on a gradual basis. On the fourth alignment, the Ford representatives were present and told me the car steered fine for that type of car. I have owned a 1985, and 1990 through to 95 model of this car and the '95 is the only one that has had this problem.

I put on four new Michelin tires and balanced them myself and they are dead on (I am a retired, licensed mechanic). The car had 9,000 kilometers on it. One alignment was done by a top notch alignment mechanic at a Ford dealer. He took it out and came back saying that it still drifted and he was at a loss as to what else to do. I would appreciate it if you could give me your opinion. Thank you.

E.S.S.
Kitchener, Ontario

After the expert advice you have received on your 1995 Thunderbird's steering that drifts to the right, additional comments may be superfluous. One trick that you may not have tried, and I know this flies in the face of conventional wisdom, is to switch the front tires to opposite sides. I know you have new Michelins and this should have no effect, but give it a try. A final trick that might work as well is to vary the front tire pressures just a hair. Increase the right of lower the left no more than 2 p.s.i.

Special thanks to CINDY and BRIAN from ELCO ELECTRIC for arranging to bring generators from Guelph, Ontario, then lending them to people in need (especially when some businesses were raising prices of generators and emergency supplies). Thank You Elco Electric.

Sorry to see Freddy's has closed their dining room. The food was good and the service was great. I always thought of it as part of our City's history. Hope the "Royal Hotel" will be preserved as a historical landmark someday.

"MAJOR SPEED-BUMPS" all over the City. Check out the ones behind Bakers Dozen, Seaway Telecom and Seaway News.

Nerve Ending: I was a new branch manager at an office where discipline had been a problem. So when an employee violated a major company policy, I decided to set an example by taking serious measures. I called the worker into my office and told him he was being given a three-day suspension without pay.

"Can you make it five days?" the employee said. "I need a week off."

Now that the "Ice Storm" is over and everyone has started the clean-up and getting back to their normal routine, it's time for the outside Christmas decorations to be put away. There are still a lot of red ribbons, bows and ornaments throughout the City.

A recent study has proven what women have suspected for ages: Shopping can be as much fun as sex! But only if you leave your practical side at home. Instead, treat yourself to something beautiful you'll use everyday: a pretty cup and saucer or an elegant powder compact, or a gorgeous bunch of flowers in colours you like best.

What's going up next to Business Depot (the old Canadian Tire)? Does anyone know??

Did you know that a dog's first year of life is equal to fifteen in a human's. The second year is the equivalent of nine more years of human age. After that, each year equals four more years of human life. The smaller the dog, the longer its life. So when a pup has been with its owner for sixteen years, its age would be equivalent to an 80-year old human.

The Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Cornwall and District has three cheers to COGEGO Cable TV for their recent $1,500. donation through their community action program. The generosity of COGECO is greatly appreciated by the local Big Brothers/Big Sisters agency which is at present celebrating 25 years of service in Cornwall and S.D. & G.

...Getting back to those "mail carriers" in Apple Hill ...apparently BUD must think JOAN is really quick at getting in and out of the car (here's a hint, you might want to look to make sure your passenger is actually in the car before you proceed to your next stop). We also hear that bread just isn't a snack unless you have a drink!!

To save yourself the price of a face life, smile a lot. That's life!!

ANOTHER SMART IDEA ... STRESSED OUT?
Call a funny friend or watch a sitcom. Researchers found that laughter lowers blood pressure and boosts immunity, in effect, counteracting stress.

Well, it's about to happen ... FRED SAGEL is going to square off against the OSSTF. On February 16th at General Vanier Secondary School, PAUL INKSETTER, Vice President of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation will go head to head against Fred Sagel. The hot topic ... of course, is Bill 160. The words will begin flying at 7:00 p.m.

JUST ANOTHER SUPER BOWL!

A sports fan was sitting in the top row at the Super Bowl, barely able to see the field. He noticed a vacant seat about 3 rows back on the 50 yard line. It was still vacant when the 2nd quarter started, so he went down and asked the man seated next to it if anyone was sitting there.

The man said "No, have a seat." A few minutes later he asked the man if he knew whose seat this was and why they weren't here at such an important event. The man said that for ten years it had been his wife's but that she had passed away.

Feeling sorry for the nice man, the fan asked if he didn't have a friend or family member that he could have offered the seat to instead of just leaving it vacant.

Not taking his eyes from the field, the man replied, "No, they're all at the funeral."

Did you ever notice how people are leaving their shopping carts all over in the parking lots. Too lazy to walk over a few feet to the cart shelters? Shame, shame on all of you. You make it look bad for the others who do go the extra few feet.

From the Dumb, Dumber and Dumbest Category: A group of Russian counterfeiters produced a near-perfect run of bogus 50,000-ruble bank notes. Once the notes went into general circulation, officials agreed that it was an excellent job and appeared to be genuine currency. The counterfeiters only error was misspelling Russia.

Prime time isn't family time!! Eight to nine p.m. was traditionally TV's family hour, but not anymore. The Media Research Center, a watchdog group, found that in one month, between 8 and 9 p.m., there were 82 four-letter words uttered and 60 mentions of sex. Not what television used to be!!

I had always prided myself on being a no-nonsense mother, but hadn't realized how well I'd succeeded until our son was in basic training at CFB Cornwallis in Nova Scotia.

One of his instructors, after putting his group through their paces, asked, "How come you obey orders so well, Rempel?"

Kurt snapped to attention and replied, "My mother was a sergeant major, sir!"

Door To Door Canvassers Create Confusion

HEART AND STROKE FOUNDATION OF ONTARIO

In recent weeks the Cornwall and District Chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation has received numerous calls from residents about individuals canvassing door to door for Stroke.

There appears to be confusion amongst residents about these canvassers' relationship with the Heart and Stroke Foundation. The Cornwall and District Chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation recently announced that these canvassers are in no way associated with the Foundation. The Foundation clarified that their door to door campaign takes place during February.

"We take very special care to make sure that all our volunteers are easily identifiable. They wear Heart and Stroke Foundation buttons, have information resources with the Heart and Stroke Foundation logo and they carry charitable receipts with our name and number on them," said Bruce Tessier, Chapter President. The public service campaign reinforces this information with the public.

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the Heart and Stroke Foundation before February are free to drop by their office at 36 Second Street East in Cornwall. Donations go towards research efforts as well as local Health Promotion efforts such as the Living with Stroke and Heart to Heart Support programs.

Herbal Immune Enhancement

Quest for Health
Dr. Daniel J. Crisafi
PhD., ND., MH

(NC)—Echinacea is one of the most researched herbs, proven to help the body during infections. It is thought to be effective against both bacterial and viral attacks. It seems to prevent infection and repair tissue damaged by infection, partially through altering the activity of a certain enzyme found within our cells. Though echinacea is often referred to as a «natural antibiotic» its primary action is not antibiotic, but probiotic. It stimulates the body's natural defense mechanisms in a variety of ways.

There are several species of echinacea available in herbal supplements.

Echinacea angustifolia and Echinacea purpurea, however, are the most effective. According to most industry statistics, echinacea is the most popular immune supporting herb in North America.

Goldenseal, another popular and well researched herb, has been referred to as the «king of the mucous membranes», highlighting its beneficial role in the repair of both the intestinal and respiratory mucosa. The bacteria fighting properties appear to be due to an alkaloid found within the plant.

One of the major problems associated with the use of these three herbs has been that of quality. For an herb to be effective, those ingredients that are known to be the «active» ones should be present in sufficient amounts. Choosing a standardized product, one that guarantees the presence of these active ingredients, is very important to ensure results.

The combined use of standardized extracts of echinacea angustifolia, echinacea p purea and goldenseal off effective, time-proven s port for minor infectious c plaints such as the comm cold and the flu.

That's why when patients are suffering from cold or the flu I recomm Q u e s t ' Echinacea/Goldenseal mula as it contains species of echinacea and enseal to ensure the results.
