Fair Exchange A Potential Boost For Cornwall

Fair exchange is not only good for business, it can give a boost to the local economy. That's the view of the Cornwall and Area Chamber of Commerce.

"While many are concerned about the low Canadian dollar, there is a significant hidden benefit," reports Chamber Executive Manager Lezlie Strasser. "Because Cornwall is five minutes from New York State, there are thousands of potential customers on the city's doorstep. By aggressively promoting the current exchange rate, our local retailers stand to gain additional business."

The current 'buy' rate, the amount banks give in exchange for U.S. funds hovers around 56 percent. That means that a store giving an American customer a 56 percent premium on American funds can expect to recoup every penny when depositing the money.

"Consider the impact on our American neighbours," continued Strasser. A purchase of $156 costs them a mere $100. The store in question has a powerful promotional tool and it doesn't cost a dime. Not only that, there's an additional incentive for Americans. They can apply for a GST rebate thus making their purchases even more attractive."

Powerful Stress Management Solutions Coming To Cornwall

Feel more relaxed, peaceful, energized and confident with powerful stress management solutions mastered at a seminar entitled, "Don't Eat The Soup As Hot As They Cook It!" Coming to Cornwall on Monday, November 26th, 2001, this unique and high-impact stress management seminar will be conducted by Cameron Johnston, a seminar presenter and author from Kelowna, British Columbia. It will be offered from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Cornwall Public Library.

Thousands of participants across Canada and the United States have already benefitted from this compelling, effective and fun three-hour stress management seminar. It teaches you how to manage stress effectively and prosper in our 24/7 world. Using the analogy of cooling off soup, participants master eight practical and effective ways to cool off the modern stress soup. The seminar is designed to help anyone struggling with the pressures of modern life and needing practical solutions on how to cope effectively.

"Stress is a normal and enjoyable part of life," says Cameron Johnston, the seminar presenter. "But unresolved, prolonged stress can become a killer. The latest research indicates that stress is a catalyst in many of the most dramatic killers of our day including heart disease and cancer."

"Understanding and appreciating the joys of stress while learning stress management skills is essential today," he continues. "Helping individuals develop effective stress management skills and improving coping reserves is the primary objective of this seminar. Participants will evaluate their stress, identify any sources of destructive stress, and develop a personal success plan to control stress."

The 11 immediate benefits for seminar participants are presented using the analogy of eating soup. They include learning how to cool off the soup by controlling the stress response, thinning the soup by using the relaxation response, stirring the soup with adequate physical exercise and playing with the soup with a good sense of humour.

Participants will learn how to make sure the soup is nutritious by mastering the seven key nutrition principles for increasing energy and endurance. They will also become aware of any poison in the soup like deep-seated stress and learn how to resolve it.

Plus a special feature on burnout, "What if you already ate the soup too hot?" This is one of the most helpful parts of the seminar. It covers the seven stages of burnout and how to avoid or recover from them.

Participant comments include from a manager, "Great seminar for executives in demanding positions," J. Brown, Toys 'R' Us, Kamloops, British Columbia, and from a policeman, "Excellent presentation. I gained more practical help in this three-hour seminar than in a recent two-day stress management workshop," Terry Fagrie, RCMP, Regina, Saskatchewan.

The presenter is Cameron Johnston, who has a Masters of Science Degree in Public Health and is an author and a certified seminar leader with the American Seminar Leaders Association. His thought-provoking and practical approach makes your seminar experience both entertaining and informative.

A demanding job, too many responsibilities, challenging family relationships and the fast pace of modern life leaves many exhausted. Add inadequate coping techniques to this cycle of chronic tension and anxiety and few can live for long without serious physical and mental breakdown. This stress management seminar can help you break the dangerous cycle. For more information or to register phone 933-1380.

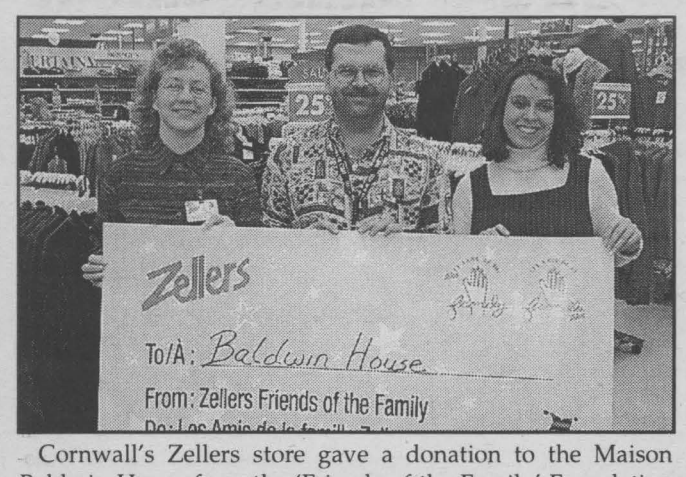
Zellers Makes Donation "The Wall Of Water"



Cornwall's Zellers store gave a donation to the Maison Baldwin House from the 'Friends of the Family' Foundation on November 15th, 2001. This was the second year a cheque of $500 was given to the local charity.

"We really appreciate their kindness," said Interim Staff Coordinator for Baldwin House, Rachel Poirier. "The money will be used to enhance the shelter because the funding we do receive doesn't provide for some of the items we need."

Zellers is widely known for its involvement with Cystic Fibrosis over the years, but 'Friends of the Family' also support many other charities through their fundraising efforts in groups like the Canadian Women's Foundations, Parent Help Line, and the Commonwealth Games.

Present at the donation were: (left to right) Sharon Gagne, personnel clerk for Zellers; Dan Eggleston, local Zellers Manager; and Rachel Poirier.

The United Way of Cornwall and District and Iroquois Water will be providing a special event on Saturday, November 24th, 2001 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The location will be the area beside Scotiabank - Brookdale Avenue.

The Iroquois Water company will construct a "Wall of Water" consisting of thousands of cases of water and these cases of 24 - 500 ml bottles will be sold to the public for a special price.

This special water sale will assist the local United Way in reaching its campaign objective of $535,000 to support the 19 member agencies.

Volunteer workers will handle the sale of water. You simply drive your vehicle alongside the "Wall of Water" and place your order for the number of cases of water that you wish to purchase. A volunteer worker will place the required number in your car and a volunteer cashier will collect the money due, then you simply drive away.

This is an excellent opportunity to purchase your Christmas water at a special price and help the local United Way at the same time.

Casanova Turns Killer

Crime Flashback

Max HAINES

You don't hear much about great lovers anymore. Apparently there is a dearth of those suave gentlemen who, with nerves of steel, manage to make love to many women at the same time.

I have turned the calendar back to 1892 to look in on the machinations of lover extraordinaire James Canham Read. Jimmy lived in various towns and villages near London, England. He was a six-foot-tall, charming hunk who, in a flash, could make unsuspecting members of the opposite sex completely forget the warnings mothers are so apt to pass along to virginal daughters. Jimmy spread the charm around. He had four women on the string at one time.

Let's have a review. There was Mrs. Read, who blessed the Read household with eight little Reads. Needless to say, of necessity she devoted most of her time to washing and cleaning. I only point out the existence of the original love of Jimmy's life because she was wife and mother of his children and deserves some recognition for that. Otherwise, she doesn't enter our story at all.

To give the rascal his due, Jimmy carried on his nefarious career without the advantage of having a great deal of money. Throughout, he was employed as a clerk at the Royal Albert Docks at a salary of 140 pounds per annum. Despite this obvious drawback, he did get around.

In August 1892, Jimmy, quite by chance, bumped into Mrs. John Ayriss, the mother of four robust children. Jimmy, an expert in such matters, took only a few weeks to convince Mrs. Ayriss of the desirability of sexual intercourse. In time, with the proper tutoring, she became a terrific lover.

It was toward the end of September that Jimmy and Mrs. Ayriss were strolling along rainswept Clapton Common when they bumped into Mrs. Ayriss' younger sister, Florrie. Our boy did a double take. Florrie had a figure that would make Big Ben go ding dong. Mrs. Ayriss dutifully introduced her sister to her friend. That was a mistake. Jimmy made up his mind; Florrie would be a definite asset to his stable of lovers. Within a week he was leading not a double life, but a triple one. He had his wife back home washing and cleaning while he alternately bedded down with Mrs. Ayriss and her sister.

In due course, Florrie and Jimmy slipped up. Mrs. Ayriss discovered that her sweet little sister was romping in the hay with her lover. She decided to swallow her pride and not make a fuss. After all, if you are cheating on your husband, it is difficult to complain that your younger sister is sleeping with your lover.

You would think Jimmy would be satisfied with three women in tow, but no, he had room in his stable for one more. Alice Kemper was a sweet morsel who clerked in a confectionery store. Jimmy strolled into the store, took one look and decided the sweetest thing in the whole store was Alice herself. To be on the safe side, he passed himself off as Edgar Benson, a commercial traveller. Jimmy turned on the charm. Alice was smitten. She was soon conveniently set up in a cozy love nest called Rose Cottage in Mitcham, never realizing that she was number four in Jimmy's private menagerie.

Illustration: drawing by Pam Davies

Jimmy serviced all four women to the best of his ability, which apparently was more than adequate. Quite possibly this rather pleasant state of affairs could have continued indefinitely had not Florrie informed her lover quite bluntly, "I'm going to have a baby and it's yours."

Jimmy didn't take the news well. Of particular concern was the threat that Mrs. Ayriss would find out that her little sister was an expectant mother. Then there was the practical consideration of just how many children are enough. There was only one solution. Florrie had to be silenced. Permanently.

The not-too-bright plan was put into action. On June 24th, 1893, Jimmy met with Florrie to discuss their mutual problem. The couple walked hand in hand near the village of Prittlewell. Florrie felt there had to be a solution, never realizing that her lover had a wife and eight children at home, was bedding down with her sister and had Alice Kemper, happy as a Turkish Delight, stashed away in Rose Cottage.

Jimmy produced a gun and shot Florrie in the head. No one heard the shot, giving him time to toss Florrie's body over a hedge. He then walked all the way back to London, which took him all night. To establish an alibi, he called on a friend in Leyton. He then washed, shaved, had breakfast and showed up bright as a peacock at his clerk's job at the Royal Albert Docks.

That evening, Jimmy returned to Alice Kemper, with whom he stayed for the next four days. It is one thing to seduce women, but quite another to take a human life. He was nervous. It was all too much to bear. Surely he would be traced.

In desperation, Jimmy decided to get out of London. Impetuously, he opened his employer's safe and grabbed 160 pounds. With more than his yearly income clasped in his sweaty palms, he left the premises, planning on becoming Edgar Benson forever.

Florrie's body was found. A medical examination revealed that the murder victim was pregnant. She was immediately identified as Florrie Dennis. Mrs. Ayriss had reported her sister missing. Jimmy had not reacted quickly enough. Before he could flee, Scotland Yard detectives showed up at Rose Cottage and arrested the great lover.

On November 13th, 1894, Jimmy stood trial for murder. Despite his cautious retreat from the murder scene, the prosecution came up with a veritable bevy of witnesses who had seen him on the fateful night of Florrie's demise. One nosy Parker testified that he had seen Jimmy walking with Florrie close to the hedge where the body was found. Then there were the individuals who were asked for directions in the early morning hours as the killer made his way to London. Jimmy even asked directions of a constable.

Perhaps the most touching witness of all was Alice Kemper. For the first time, Alice was made aware that she was only one of four of Jimmy's lovers. She testified that he had been extremely nervous, hardly leaving her side for four days.

Jimmy's defence counsel tried. He pointed out that there was no proof that the accused was the father of Florrie's unborn child. In addition, police had not been able to recover the murder weapon and had not been able to prove that Jimmy had ever owned a gun.

Despite this gallant effort, the jury deliberated only a half-hour before finding the defendant guilty of murder. All appeals failed. James Canham Read professed his innocence to the bitter end. On December 4th, 1894, he was hanged in Springfield Prison, Chelmsford.

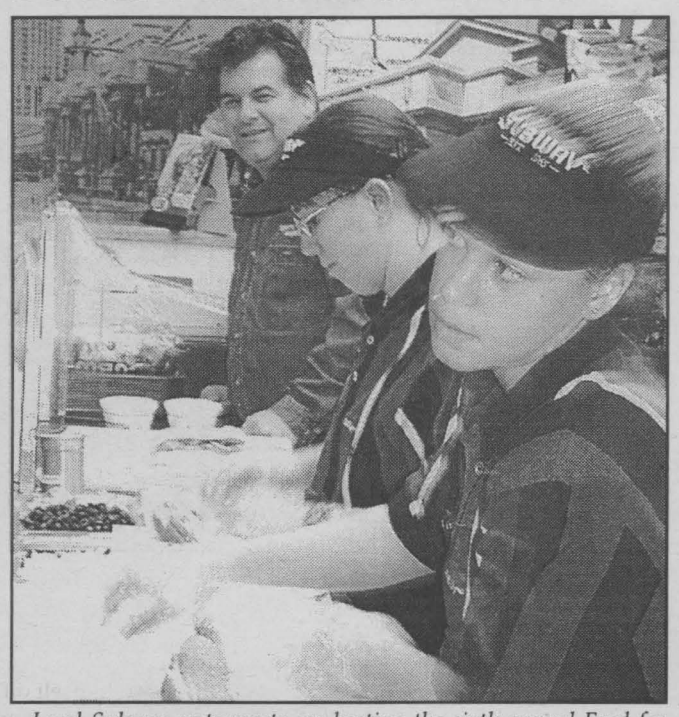
Food For Food Drive



Local Subway restaurants are hosting the sixth annual Food for Food Drive on Saturday, November 24th, 2001 from 1 to 3 p.m. They are asking the community to bring in a non-perishable food item and receive a free six-inch sub. In the photo, Amanda Brim, Sonia Thuot, and local Subway owner Louis Gaulin are just a few of those that will create the tasty six-inch sandwiches for your food donations.

On Saturday, November 24th, 2001, local Subway owner Louis Gaulin is holding his sixth annual Food for Food Drive to support the local St. Vincent de Paul food bank. The idea is for the community to bring in a non-perishable item to any of the nine participating Subway Restaurants and receive one free six inch sub of any style.

"When I first came to Cornwall, I did this as a promotion to let the public know we were here," stated owner Louis Gaulin. "I kept the drive going every year to help St. Vincent de Paul food bank. It is great to see so many new faces during this drive and it always thrills me to see SD&G be so generous and supportive towards the less fortunate."

The event will be held between 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, November 24th, 2001 at Subway locations in Morrisburg, Long Sault, Monkland, Alexandria, and five sites in Cornwall. Participants are asked to make sure the items donated are non-perishable.

"We have had a hard time to surpass the 3,000 can level," added Gaulin. "But this year we hoping to pass that with everyone's thoughts on the September 11th, 2001 tragedy and this being the giving season of Christmas. We do welcome everyone to participate."

2001 Memory Tree

This December, Bereaved Families of Ontario – Cornwall and area, once again will be marking the holiday season with the lighting of our memory tree. The Centennial Choir will be performing for this special occasion and "Bless This Tree" written especially for BFO by Joan Grainger will be sung at the lighting, along with other numbers.

Bereaved Families of Ontario invites you, your family and friends, to join us on Saturday, December 1st, 2001 at 11 a.m. for this lighting ceremony.

The tree will be displayed at the Cornwall Square from December 1st through December 23rd, 2001. If you would like to help out at the tree during these three weeks, if only for a few hours, please call us at 936-1455.

Safe Driving Presentation

On November 12th, 2001, Mr. Hugh Primeau Sr. and Mr. Hugh Primeau Jr. of Ue's Skid School Driver Training and Senior Constable Carole Pirnat of SD&G OPP attended Rothwell-Osnabruck High School in Ingleside for a presentation on Safe Driving given to grades 11, 12 and 13.

Cst. Pirnat reminded the students that driving in Ontario was a privilege and not a right. She also talked about the different classes of driver's licence and the consequences of not respecting the traffic laws, the importance of slowing down and the wearing of seat belts were also reminded to students.

Mr. Hugh Primeau presented a video on winter driving and reinforced the importance of slowing down at all times.

They then went outside for a demonstration with Mr. Hugh Primeau's skid monster. Two students, Jeff Croney and Katy Zeran and vice-principal Mr. Brian Loucks, had the chance to try the skid monster and quickly learned how easy it is to lose control of a car in a curve even though the speed of the car did not exceed 10km/h.

We hope with this presentation that students will take driving more seriously. It could save their lives.

The Safe Driving presentation was also presented at Tagwi High School in Avonmore.

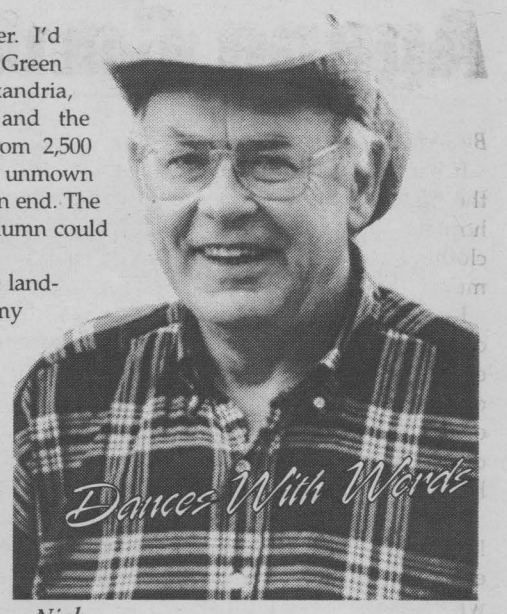
Why There Is No "Dances With Words" This Week



Nick
WOLOCHATIUK

Att: Editor
cc: Readers

Because I had to mow the lawn, there will be no "Dances With Words" this week. Please accept my sincerest apology.

Let me explain. From May 16th, 1976 until October 2nd, 2001, I lived at "Nut Hill." At that place, it took about two and a half hours to mow the lawn. No, I wasn't that slow, it's just that there was a lot of grassy areas to mow. Even though those lawns were completely surrounded by a large forest, I hardly ever had to rake any leaves in the autumn. It seems there was some sort of agreement established between the forest and the lawn. The grasses didn't try to invade the forest and the trees didn't leave their droppings on the lawn. That was just great for all three of us.

I am now living at TLC ("The Last Concession"). This place has just about the same amount of grassy areas, but is not surrounded by a forest. However, the lawn is interspersed with a wide variety of trees that have been planted by the last hundred years of occupants.

Due to many problems, other pressing jobs and several distractions, I've only been able to get at the job of mowing the lawn until this weekend. I placed a higher priority on getting three and a third cords of firewood in for the winter. I'd rather live with an unkempt lawn than spending a winter in a cold house.

When I came home from teaching on Friday evening, I intended to mow the lawn then write my column, but someone invited me to have dinner with them, then watch CBC TV's Friday comedy fare. The column, and the lawn, could wait.

My intentions were good on Saturday morning. Fortunately, Eric McAuley called Saturday morning, inviting me to accompany him to do some shopping at Ottawa's MEC (Mountain Equipment Co-op). That sounded much more interesting than mowing the lawn. The lawn could wait.

As soon as I got home from Ottawa, I intended to do the lawn. However, Steven Gunn, an Innuit student pilot at Cornwall Regional Airport, mentioned that he had a fresh Arctic char that was looking for a place to be cooked. I invited Steven, his flight instructor, two of my other aviation buddies – and the Arctic char to come over for dinner that evening. The lawn could wait.

I still haven't found the dining room table, so a spare closet door and two sawhorses became its reasonable facsimile. The company, the warmth from the wood stove – and the char, garnished with Hollandaise sauce, made for a delightful evening of hangar flying.

The Leonid meteorite shower was supposed to peak at about 5 a.m. Sunday, so TLWD and I got ourselves out of bed by 4:30 and stumbled to the unobscured horizons offered by the abandoned farm lane that adjoins TLC. To our disappointment, a veil of mist robbed us of what promised to be one of nature's best fireworks displays. Off we went, back to bed, to catch up on lost sleep. Hopefully, when the Leonids return in 2099, my part of the sky will be clearer.

When dawn arrived, I was full of good intentions. I had resigned myself to the fact that the lawn could not wait much longer, for it would soon be covered in snow.

In order to get my Yard-Man LT12.5/38 ride-on mower out of the shed, I had to move dozens of yet-unpacked boxes out of the way. In the process, I finally found the can-opener that went missing, a box that contained some negatives that had to be reprinted, the mislaid shelving brackets and another box of aviation books. Of course, I just had to spend a few pleasant hours leafing through those books. The lawn and the column could wait a bit longer.

My leafing was interrupted by an invitation from Andy Le Gourrierec and Wade Flynn to have breakfast with them at the La Chute Airport restaurant. Of course, the best way to get to an airport restaurant is to fly, so fly we did. The lawn and the column would have to wait just a bit longer. I'd rather gaze at Green Valley, Alexandria, Vankleek Hill and the Carillon Dam from 2,500 feet than stare at unmown lawn for hours on end. The lawn and the column could wait.

As soon as we landed at La Chute, my eye was caught by a Pegazair-100, a very unique home-built aircraft. Yves Renaud, its proud builder, was preparing it for a flight over the Laurentians. Our conversation led to an invitation to go flying with him. Breakfast could wait. That Pegazair became the 231st different type of aircraft I have had the pleasure of flying in.

As we flew over the Morin Heights ski slopes, I was amazed to see that hundreds of skiers were zig-zagging down its two snow-covered runs. Obviously, they, too, had decided that their lawns could wait.

When I finally got home on Sunday afternoon, I decided that the lawn could wait no longer, and that the column would have to wait. I set myself to the task of mowing the lawn. It took much longer than I had anticipated. (Most things do these days, but that's yet another story.)

On one of the early passes, a clang and a shower of sparks came from the leaves under the mower blade. It had hit a much-nicked 'Keg of Nails' protruding rock. If you saw the classic film

"Mon Oncle Antoine," you'd know what I mean. For some reason, the generations of previous owners had not bothered to remove it.

Out came the shovel, pick ax, pry bar and wheel barrow. This rock was to be dug out and removed from harm's way. Two hours later, I realized that this was not a mere rock, nor even a big boulder. It was the tip of a mountain. From then on, I'll just mow around it, not over it. It'll still be here when I'm long gone.

Another problem: unlike at "Nut Hill," the lawn at TLC is covered with leaves. I stopped every five minutes to empty the two collecting bags. Unfortunately, I didn't stop every four minutes. The lead-in chute that connects the blades and the bags got clogged every time. The chute had to be disassembled every time, a time-consuming and irritating process.

It wasn't the grass clippings that were doing the clogging, it was the abundance of leaves. Fortunately, the ride-on has headlights. When I finally quit for the night, the lawn got done, but it was too late to start on my column. That's why there's no column this week.

As my head hit the pillow, I began to ask myself, "Even though I have much fewer trees, I have much more leaves. How come?" The only conclusion I could come to is that all my neighbours are secretly dumping their leaves on my lawn. One of these days I'm going to find out who's doing that. Then, one of these nights, I'll gather up all those leaves, and my own, and scatter them all over their lawn.

Then I'll have the time to write my column.

Agape Centre Lives For Hope

By Judy Dancause

It has often been said that donations and volunteers are the lifeblood of the Agapé Centre, but did you know that hope is our heartbeat? The Agapé Centre gives out food, clothing and other necessities to those in need in our community, but what keeps us going, in our heart, is hope.

Hope is that elusive feeling that we all need when we consider our futures. In light of the recent tragic world events, hope and faith are something that we all need in our lives – regardless of personal circumstances. For some of the men, women, and children in our community who do not have the basic necessities of life, hope is all they have.

The volunteers and staff at the Agapé Centre are privileged to see the hopes and dreams of people come true every day. There are no words to describe how we feel when clients come through our doors for the last time! It is truly a wonderful feeling when someone we have helped, whether it has been for a couple of months or longer, does not need us anymore.

Last week, a lady (we'll call her Beth), who had been coming to the Agapé Centre for the past 24 months, came by to give us a small donation. After months of looking, Beth has found a full-time job. It's not a fancy job, but she now makes enough money to pay the rent, feed and clothe her children and even rent a movie every now and again for entertainment. Beth gave us a $20 donation and is hoping to volunteer at the Centre in the future. The smile on Beth's face as she made her donation is what the Agapé Centre exists for. Her smile said that her hopes for the future have started to come true.

There's another client at the Centre, a man we'll call John, who's hope for the future is a work-in-progress. John is a single father of two adorable little girls. John quit high school at 17 when his parents passed away. He has a part-time job pumping gas and has been taking night courses for what seems like forever (his words, not mine). John now has his high school diploma and almost the equivalent of two years of college. He hopes to one day work full-time in the computer or high tech industry. John thinks it'll take another few years for him to complete his education while working part-time and raising his girls, but in the meantime he has his hopes for a brighter future for his family and is determined to see it happen.

At the Centre, we often focus on the tremendous difficulties people in our community face every day. After all, providing necessities for people in need is our mission. But our hope for the future is that there will come a day when our Centre is not needed anymore.

Until that day comes...If you are interested in volunteering at the Agapé Centre for our fundraising events or in our Food Bank, Soup Kitchen or Thrift Shoppe; or if you have been redecorating or going through your cupboards and closets and would like to donate gently loved clothing, household wares, toys, and of course non-perishable food items, the Agapé Centre is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 231 McConnell Avenue. Evenings and weekends you can leave donations at the Olco Station on the corner of Montreal Road and Belmont Street. You can also call 938-9297 and we would be happy to make arrangements to pick your donations up at home! Donations, big or small, make people a partner in our mission to help those in need.

As Christmas and the cold winter months fast approach, it is the immediate hope and wish of the Agapé Centre that every person in our community be well fed and warm this holiday season. God Bless.

Christmas At The Lost Villages

The second annual "Advent Christmas Service," sponsored by the Lost Villages Historical Society, will be held on Sunday, December 2nd, 2001 at the Sandtown Advent Christian Church, Lost Villages Museum. Services will be held at 3:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. The Lost Villages Museum is located on Fran Laflamme Drive, three kilometres east of Long Sault, off County Road 2.

Both services will be under the direction of Bill and Rosemary Brown and family, and there will be a celebration of music, poetry and readings. The candles will be lit, the oil lamps will flicker, and the wood stove will provide warmth to those who assemble at the Sandtown Advent Christian Church. The church's antique pump organ will sound out many of the "traditions" of Christmas. The service will conclude with the ringing of the church bell. Telephone 534-8445 to inquire about availability.

Counties Reject Hospital Tax Levy

Cornwall City councillors are too quick to pick the taxpayers' pockets and should be finding more innovative ways of raising money for the area's hospital system.

That's the central message that came out of Monday's meeting of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

SD&G councillors made it clear they have no intention of supporting a special levy on taxpayers to cover the $14 million cost of restructuring the city's two hospitals.

Perspective
Bob
ROTH

Both counties staff and politicians made some very astute comments – many of which tend to bolster the argument I made in last week's column about putting too much of a strain on the property tax base by using it to fund social and health programs.

Chief Administrative Officer Mike Waddell warned that a "special levy" (the euphemism city politicians are using to describe a property tax increase) for the Cornwall-based hospitals would only be the tip of the financial iceberg because other hospitals in the area will also need money for renovations.

Tip of the iceberg, indeed.

"Ice flows" have also been cited in Winchester and Alexandria where hospital restructurings could cost upwards of $16 million.

Little wonder, then, that Counties councillors are turning down the city's suggestion that they help crew the Titanic.

South Dundas Councillor Cameron Martel pointedly asked why no one has thought of setting up a foundation to raise funds, noting that the City of Brockville has done so and is already half-way towards raising $12 million for hospital restructuring.

"It is beyond me why the city has not set up a foundation," chimed in South Glengarry's Dave MacDonald. "Cornwall has almost three times the population of Brockville."

One word, Dave – "leadership."

If the past few years have demonstrated anything, it's that the city's pooh-bahs are not candidates for appointments to the World Bank. There has been one financial miscue after another at City Hall. Were it not for the windfall from Cornwall Electric that fell into council's lap, one can only speculate on what the city's financial picture would be like today.

As has been noted in the past, Cornwall already has one of the highest rates of business taxation in the province for a city its size. The ability of the local tax base to absorb more and more spending should be seriously questioned.

Of course, there are also potential dangers of funding the entire hospital restructuring with a fundraising effort. Many other worthwhile organizations in town depend on annual fundraising efforts and you can only go to the well so many times. Would a massive hospital fundraising simply rob Peter to pay Paul? (It might be worth looking at the Brockville case to see if there has been a corresponding drop in charitable donations to other causes.)

In my view, this is a no-win situation. As I said last week, property taxes should be used to fund services to property. The tab for services to people should be picked up by senior levels of government.

This problem of rising property taxes – or diminished local services – will become a recurring nightmare unless some change in thinking takes place at Queen's Park.

Today it's hospitals...tomorrow...

-Anonymous baseball club owner

Well, the baseball season is finally over and not a moment too soon, I say. I don't know how it happened but somehow the people who run The Show have managed to make the game boring.

Actually, I do know how it happened. It's the high scores. In the run-up to the world series this year we heard scores like nine to one and even 14 to three. What do those guys think they're playing - NHL hockey?

The other thing that's changed mightily over the last few years is the number of balls slugged out of the park. Used to be a time when a home run was like a royal flush in poker or a century in cricket - rarely seen and always amazing. But now home runs are as common as crabgrass. For 70 seasons, right up until 1997, the home run record was broken only once. Now it's been shattered twice in the last four years.

Who'd have thought we could get tired of watching home runs? But then, not all of us did. There are at every game a dedicated sub sect of fans who deliberately seek seats as far away from home plate as they can get. And they're not hard to pick out of the crowd. They're carrying baseball mitts.

These are the folks whose biggest dream is of leaping up in the bleachers and snagging a home run ball.

Alex Popov is one such fan. He's a San Francisco restaurateur who loves baseball and totes his baseball mitt to every game the Giants play in Pacific Bell Park. He was there with his mitt, waiting when Barry Bonds hit his 71st home run. He was in the stands squinting towards home plate when Barry Bonds hit his 72nd home run.

And he was there, punching his glove in anticipation when Bonds hit his record-shattering 73rd home run. But there was one difference this time: the ball was dropping out of the sky - and coming straight toward him.

Even as the crowd roared, Popov held up his glove and waited. The million-dollar ball floated down, down – and right into the pocket. Popov caught the most famous baseball in the history of the game. Unfortunately for Popov, he didn't hold it. A writhing ball of humanity descended upon him, knocking him to the floor and breaking his glasses. And when the crowd untangled itself, there was Popov on the bottom. With an empty mitt. Somebody else was holding the ball up and grinning.

So how does it feel to become both a millionaire and a celebrity for approximately one nanosecond? Popov's had a couple of bad moments but he's become pretty philosophical, under the circumstances. "I'm not going to get into the economics," he said. "I feel fortunate enough. I live fairly simply, I own a small business and I play golf every Tuesday with my good buddies."

Pretty classy response, considering.

But then if he's in search of consolation, Alex Popov can always look at the case of Todd McFarlane. Todd's a Canadian cartoon genius turned media mogul who bought the last home run record ball - the one Mark McGwire hit a few seasons back. Todd wasn't at the game to catch the ball - he just paid $3 million US to the guy who did.

And then Barry Bonds came along and turned McGwire's feat into a footnote.

Now Todd's got a baseball that used to be worth a fortune - and is now selling for $4.95 plus GST at my local sports store. If I was Alex Popov, I'd be feeling better already.

The Life Of A Student: Carefree, Fun And Filled With Lots Of Laughs

Meanwhile
Fred SAGEL

I spent the last weekend being a student again.

It was quite something, actually, to live the life that students do: it is carefree, fun and filled with lots of laughs. Even when the money runs short.

The occasion? It was McGill homecoming in Montréal, Québec. Since my son is now studying there in his fourth year and I had graduated from McGill with my undergraduate degree in 1970, it seemed like an appropriate time to visit.

So I packed up some belongings, got onto the train in Toronto, and arrived in Montréal four hours later.

When I got there just after 9 p.m., I was greeted by my son at the train station, where we promptly left to go to a Greek restaurant. After bringing our own wine, we settled in to enjoy some superb food and engage in some lively discussions about economics and politics. Then we went to a coffee shop at midnight to talk some more.

Junior's apartment, which he shares with two American students studying at McGill, was in about the same kind of state that I remember most student apartments in my era: messy. I happened to remark that it looked something like bombed out Afghanistan.

But not to worry. It just brought back some fabulous memories.

Next day, we got dressed up to attend the 32nd annual Leacock luncheon—one of McGill's finer homecoming events—to hear a splendid humorous talk by Hugh Segal, a very witty guy who wowed the crowd of 700 with his biting wit.

Lots of interesting people at the event, including Dick Pound, McGill's chancellor who was almost elected president of the International Olympic Committee earlier this year.

"A lot of people wanted to see me getting out of town," he joked to me after the festivities were over.

It was fun to see people who had graduated 30 years before—not to mention those in the classes of 1935-50, when McGill was in its heyday. We spoke of all the good times we had, even those that didn't seem quite as cheery at the time but now look glowing with the passing of time.

Then it was on to the McGill gym, where I had exercised three decades before. Talk about memories, especially since the place had hardly changed since I was there. It was a good bonding exercise, even though the kid I had taught to lift weights was now teaching me a few new tricks.

That night, it was back to one of the Greek restaurants again. More time spent on discussing politics and the current war.

Next day, we were back at the gym again, this time lifting weights again. We also tried the new McGill track, a wonderfully constructed athletic facility.

Later that day, we went to check junior's bank account. It was in overdraft and I quickly learned why, because something like that wouldn't have happened to me in my student days. Too many restaurant meals. It turns out that a lot of these students (rich and poor alike) spend a proportionately higher amount for restaurant meals than we ever did. That is partially why, I learned, the cost of education has increased fairly substantially in the three decades since I had graduated.

"I can count on the fingers of one hand the number of times I ever went to a restaurant while I was here," I said, reflecting on the financial disparity between two generations.

So I just joined in the habit even more.

In the evening, I took my son and his two apartment mates out to dinner. More wine. More Greek food. And lots and lots of lively discussion. What I found particularly interesting was how students today relate to the events of my day, especially those centering on the Vietnam war and all the passion it aroused among my fellow students.

"McGill seemed much more exciting then," said one.

"Maybe that was because the students were more committed to causes," I hypothesized. "They were very much caught up in the events of the day. That may well happen again as this war gets underway—for better or for worse."

That was the interesting thing: the way students—with their fresh insights and young eyes—view the world. No mortgages to pay, no kids to raise, no major responsibilities to take care of. All they have to do is live relatively carefree, study and test the environment around them.

Would I like to be a student again? Absolutely. I thought of it the moment I got on the Sunday night train back home. Lots of questioning, lots of learning, lots of carefree fun...I hadn't even considered what it was like before the weekend. But the three days in Montréal brought back lots of good memories.

And the messy apartment surroundings actually added to the atmosphere in a nostalgic way.

A Sunset Clause for Santa Claus...

The government's anti-terrorism legislation threatens to take all the fun out of Christmas (known in politically correct Ottawa circles only as "the festive season.") At least two provisions of the bill could not only deprive jolly old Santa of all of his jollies, but also expose future governments to class-action lawsuits from thousands of traumatized children everywhere. One of the provisions allows for the preventive arrest without warrant of suspected terrorists. That could give carte blanche for officials to arrest Santa Claus and any of his accomplices who fly into Canadian air space without a proper security check. After all, who's to say that terrorists from Osama bin Laden's al-Qaida network haven't learned to fly sleighs at some secret base in the North Pole and are hell bent on destroying what Canadians hold most sacred – Hockey Night in Canada. The second controversial provision of the act would force testimony from material witnesses to terrorist crimes. "Describe to the court, exactly – by tapping a hoof if necessary – the events of the early morning hours of December 25th, Mr. Rudolf." Civil libertarians say the anti-terrorism act is a slippery slope somewhat steeper than the kind that Santa may encounter on the rooftops of homes across the nation at Christmas. But if Santa is threatened by the bill, who's next – Harry Potter?

The Rainbow connection...

Left-wing New Democrats – as if there are any other kind – are among a group of lefties pressing for the creation of a new, leftist political party. Just what the country needs – no rights! The group, including MPs Svend Robinson and Libby Davies, and feminist Judy Rebick, held a newser on the Hill to make a pitch for their "New Politics Initiative" but couldn't say just how it would differ from the NDP. Neither of the left-coast MPs winced when Rebick, a former card-carrying NDPer, took a shot at their party, claiming that for young people "the NDP's not even on their map." Robinson wants the new party to be green, radical and democratic, prompting one hot-roomer in the Press Gallery to suggest the new party should be called the Red Green Party and that duct tape be handed out to everyone who joins up. The group proposed no name for the party but "New New Democratic Party" seems to have a certain ring of truth to it.

On to Kananaskis Country...

Police were both praised and vilified for their handling of the anti-globalization demonstrations in Ottawa during the G20 summit. The praise comes from government, conference and city officials – the vilification from protesters who numbered only slightly more than the battalion of RCMP, OPP and Ottawa Police officers on hand. As one who observed the circus-like scenes on the cordoned off streets of the nation's capital we emerged with several questions. Among them: Were the protesters who smashed the windows of a McDonald's restaurant engaging in a Big Mac Attack or did they simply decide that the restaurant "deserved a break today?" Why were some demonstrators throwing sticks, bottles of paint and other objects at the lines of police while chanting "We're not violent, how about you?" Were protesters covering their faces with bandannas, scarves and balaclavas as part of some religious observance? Why did police in their Darth Vader helmets need batons, shields, tear gas, pepper spray and dogs to keep the activists away when they could have done so easily with loudspeakers playing classical music? Oh well, there's always the summit in Kananaskis, Alberta next June. Overall, the Ottawa demonstration was a peaceful one. And all it took were millions of dollars and 630 police officers in riot gear to make it so.

Lose Black, gain Mandela...

Prime Minister Jean Chretien awarded an honourary Canadian citizenship to former South African president Nelson Mandela. The PM described Mandela as "A citizen of the world by excellence and forever more a citizen of Canada." That being so, we can only say congratulations and welcome, fellow taxpayer!

A Sad Display Of Democracy

Dear Editor,

I watched the November 13th, 2001 City council meeting with a great deal of disappointment and embarrassment. Once again, I found the actions of Councillor Korey Kennedy to be particularly disturbing. His actions and conduct in the Council Chambers are nothing short of a disgrace.

To hear an elected leader of our community state that our community is a "hell hole" and that "the City is going nowhere" is completely unacceptable. These comments are hard to believe in light of the fact that the city is experiencing extremely strong economic growth.

Cornwall has experienced in excess of $200 million worth of new investment in the last four years. The city has recently launched an aggressive advertising campaign to recruit employees to relocate to Cornwall, in response to the 5.2 percent unemployment rate in the region. This rate is below the provincial and national average and is the lowest in 25 years. Recently, Statistics Canada recognized the City of Cornwall for achieving the highest rate of job growth in the country for the period between 1996 and 1998. In excess of 2,400 new jobs in the industrial/manufacturing sector alone have been created in Cornwall in the last five years. Recently, Paul Fitzpatrick was recognized as the Economic Developer of the Year, due to the integral role he has played in the city's recent success.

Are these indications of a city that is going nowhere? I think not! I am proud to call Cornwall my home!

Further, I was disturbed by Councillor Kennedy's deliberate actions to monopolize the agenda and gain media attention. I certainly have no problem with the Councillor bringing new ideas to the table and believe that creative ideas are critical to the success of the democratic process. However, Councillor Kennedy's actions proved to be a detriment to this process and hampered Council's ability to conduct an effective meeting.

As a result of Kennedy's selfish actions, the agenda was not completed due to curfew. A number of key agenda items such as 10 tenders, mutual aid for our American neighbours, and the new economic strategic plan, were not dealt with. Some time-sensitive issues such as the snow dump project were delayed due to lack of time at the meeting. I would encourage Councillor Kennedy to keep the "big picture" in mind and that the effective operation of the city has to come ahead of his personal agenda.

Lastly, I am embarrassed by the insulting and abusive behaviour that he demonstrates towards his colleagues and city staff while at City Hall. His conduct in the Council Chambers is non-professional and inappropriate. However, I think his conduct at City Hall away from the TV cameras is even more disturbing. On countless occasions, he has been known to be exceptionally rude to all levels of city staff. His use of profanity and displays of immaturity have absolutely no place at City Hall.

I would encourage Council to not let the actions of one Councillor blur their collective vision of the important issues. The community is looking to Council for sound leadership on a number if issues, including hospital restructuring, 2002 budget deliberations, provincial downloading and others. Lastly, it is important for the residents of Cornwall not to mistake ego for intelligence. Now, more than ever, we need effective and focused leadership from City Hall.

Chris Savard,
Cornwall

Sharon Villeneuve Honoured By The Commissioner Of The RCMP

On Thursday, October 25th, 2001, in a ceremony held in Ottawa, Sharon Villeneuve of Cornwall, Ontario was presented with the RCMP Commissioner's Volunteer Award for her tremendous contribution to our community.

In celebration of the International Year of the Volunteer, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police presented Commissioner's Volunteer Awards to 16 volunteers across the country. Sharon Villeneuve was selected as the volunteer's award recipient for the province of Ontario.

Sharon Villeneuve has worked with the RCMP, Cornwall Detachment, as a permanent Public Servant for the past five years. Throughout this period of time, her co-workers are quick to mention that she is not only a great asset to Cornwall Detachment but also to the community at large. Sharon has volunteered numerous hours at the municipal, provincial and federal levels through her involvement in promoting programs to combat impaired driving. Sharon's role consisted of delivering her message to police services, schools, municipal councils, local businesses and service clubs.

Ms. Villeneuve's extensive voluntary community implications would be difficult to assess. Just to name a few of her contributions, Ms. Villeneuve served on the City of Cornwall Mayor's Task Force – Anti-Drinking and Driving Committee, which later became known as the committee for the program 'Community for Sober Highways and Waterways.' She has also actively participated in the 1993 launching of 'Operation Lookout' for the SD&G Counties and the Akwesasne Mohawk Territory as well as 'Operation Lookout – Marine.' These programs solicit the help of community members to combat the problem of impaired drivers by reporting suspected impaired drivers to the police.

Ms. Villeneuve's involvement at the provincial level consisted of providing presentations to Accident Prevention Groups and Safety Councils and to Health Unit members from other communities to help them implement programs in their communities. She has also assisted in the launching of 'Operation Lookout' in communities such as Ottawa/Carleton, Kingston, Leeds/Grenville, Casselman and Embrun. Ms. Villeneuve is also responsible for developing a network to support such committees throughout eastern Ontario.

At the national level, Ms. Villeneuve actively participated in the development of an informative manual on how to start up an 'Operation Lookout' which was distributed to all Police Services in Canada. She also volunteered her time to help create the Operation Lookout website for the use of all Canadian citizens.

Ms. Villeneuve's ultimate goal as a community volunteer is to increase public awareness on impaired driving issues. She has done so by reaching out to the community by providing numerous presentations, recording public announcements, participating in cable television programs, erecting billboards, and partnering in seasonal promotions with numerous police services. Her efforts and expertise have led Ms. Villeneuve to publish articles in "Crime Prevention Canada" as well as serve as a guest speaker in provincial conferences.

Since November 2000, Ms. Villeneuve has expanded her community service into a youth program in which she can utilize her great leadership abilities and her compassion as a youth mentor through Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Cornwall.

This Commissioner's Volunteer Award is one in a series of awards and recognitions received by Ms. Villeneuve. This particular award has made her co-workers at Cornwall Detachment, her family and friends very proud of her dedication and hard work. It is people like Sharon Villeneuve that make our communities a better and safer place to live.

Racing Against Drugs

Cornwall Armouries was host to the Fifth Annual Race Against Drugs campaign from November 5th to 9th, 2001. The yearly event saw 1,650 children in grade 6 from 54 different schools in SD&G involved in various events.

"We do this to give the children a chance to have the tools needed before they go on to high school," stated Constable Jean Juneau of the RCMP. "The children get to learn and participate in 11 different pit stops. Yes, we are showing them a theme of racing, but the fact is that there are so many thrilling alternatives to drugs. Our goals are to provide our participants with basic information related to drugs such as: What is a drug? What are the consequences to the usage of drugs? How can they say no, and what are some great alternatives? I would also like to thank everyone who participated this year because without the team, it wouldn't have been possible."

The organizing committee is comprised of representatives from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Cornwall Community Police Service, Ontario Provincial Police, Addiction Services of Eastern Ontario, Club Optimiste de la region de Cornwall, Centre de Santé communautaire de l'Estrie, Studio 13-18 Youth Centre, and the Community for Sober Highways and Waterways.

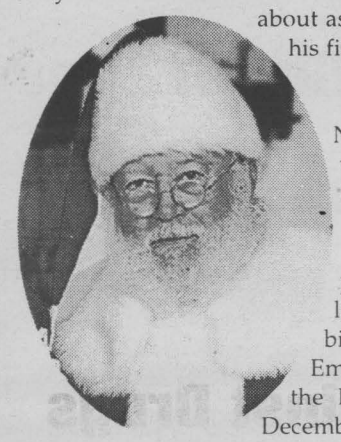
Legendary Beginnings of Santa

By Brian Stewart
Compliments of MyMerryChristmas.com

Like many internationally famous individuals, Santa reached his greatest prominence far from the borders of his original hometown. He started in what is today the Middle East nation of Turkey as Saint Nicholas, archbishop of Myra. How he ended up at the North Pole as jolly old St. Nick is lost to the dry pages of history yet unwritten and likely unknown. But let it suffice to be say that the red suited one had to travel about as far as any person in history before he settled into his final career.



Little is actually known about the historical Saint Nicholas, but the legends that surround him provide the template for the character we now know as Santa Claus.

What we do know is this: he was born around the year 245 A.D. to wealthy parents. He devoted his life to the church, eventually becoming the archbishop of Myra. He was tortured for his beliefs until Emperor Constantine changed the official religion of the Roman Empire to Christianity. And he died on December 6, sometime around 350 A.D. The Catholic Church has set aside that date as a feast day in his honor.

But even much of this information is suspect. The main source is a biography that was written by a monk some five centuries after he died.

More important then the facts, though, are the legends that have grown up around him. Most of these are the run of the mill saintly miracles -- such as him calming a particularly nasty storm. But there is also a saintly tale of Saint Nicholas resurrecting three boys who had been murdered and then pickled. (Let's hope the killer went through the trouble of pickling in order to hide his crime and not to keep them fresh for winter consumption).

Still, there are several stories that exist that show Saint Nicholas performing acts that we now come to associate with the lovable figure of Santa Claus. One of the most interesting of these tells of his convincing a group of thieves to return their stolen goods -- thus causing him to become the patron saint of thieves (not patron saint in that he helps them rob but, rather, in that he helps them repent). This seems fitting considering Santa Claus, who sneaks into our houses in the wee hours of Christmas morning and leaves us presents, is a sort of anti-thief, undoing the deeds of those nefarious people Saint Nicholas is said to look after.

The most famous tale, though, recounts the story of a once wealthy businessman, who, having lost his fortune, decided to sell his three daughters into prostitution to raise some money. Hearing of this, Saint Nicholas went to the man's house at night and threw three bags of coins into the man's window, one for each of the daughter's dowries. The young women were thus able to find good husbands and avoid the degrading lifestyle to which they seemed destined.

Cementing the connection to the modern day Santa Claus, some versions of this story have Saint Nicholas arriving with the third daughter's gift bag but, finding the window shut, was forced to drop her coins down the chimney and into a stocking hanging on the mantle to dry. This not only seems physically unlikely, but so absurdly similar to today's popular Christmas traditions that it sounds almost certainly false.

The legend of Santa Claus grows with time. Whether your own belief is that he is real or that he remains a growing figure of modern mythology, there is no doubt that Santa Claus impacts society with each passing season. His name is associated with both good and evil. As are so many honored names of legend.

Holiday Gift Guide

Tired Of Bringing Wine To Holiday Parties?

(NC)–No holiday season is complete without attending those festive parties. The hostess is always trying to give guests a memorable event and the question becomes "What kind of hostess gift should one bring?" A bottle of wine is nice, but why not show that special thought has been put into finding the perfect "Thank you" gift. Maille offers an assortment of gourmet condiments that are sure to appeal to the palette of any host or hostess and be enjoyed long after the holidays.

One of today's most popular and versatile condiments, Dijon mustard, will be on the wish list of many cooks this season. Maille boasts an array of Dijon mustards that are sure to compliment many holiday dishes, from salad dressings to appetizers and even desserts. But, Dijon mustard is not only excellent for cooking, it boasts medicinal, health and seasoning properties dating as far back as antiquity.

To make a lasting and tasty impression on the host or hostess, why not prepare a gift basket that contains Maille Dijon Originale mustard, A l'Ancienne (whole grain) and one of Maille's more exotic flavours, Honey Dijon or Fine Selection. Add savory Maille vinegars from Balsamic Vinegar of Modena to Red Wine Vinegar with Raspberry Juice. Finally, complete with one of Maille's new Original Vinaigrettes from France – Dijon, Bordeaux, Provençale or Normandy each inspired by specific regions in France.

Founded in France in 1747, the House of Maille has produced premium condiments for over two and a half centuries. Maille Dijon mustards, vinegars, vinaigrettes and ready-to-serve sauces follow the time-honoured tradition of flavour established by founder Antoine-Claude Maille.

This Holiday, Give The Gift Of Time

(NC)–Holiday gift giving can be a very stressful experience. Especially when you have no idea what to get for those people on your list. Many people overlook what can be the simplest and most memorable gift idea, the gift of time. Giving someone a timepiece sends a very precious message – let's make time for the important things in life. The selection process depends on many factors. Things to consider: the recipient, the message you want to give and the price range you'd like to stick with. The selection process can be simplified before entering a store by checking out gift ideas over the web. The largest watch distributor in the world, Swatch Group has some websites among the best to check out:

Compare eBay prices with other stores and online retailers – you'll be amazed at the difference. Plus, buying through an auction is fun and can add some excitement to Holiday shopping.

(NC)–If you're looking to buy this season's must-have item, odds are good you will find it on eBay.ca, even when you can't find it in any store. www.eBay.ca is the place to go if you don't want to disappoint.

What To Wear

Going to a party but not sure what to wear?

Black tie: Tuxedos for men or a black or dark navy suit with a tie. For women, black tie usually means a long glamorous dress with all the trimmings. But an elegant dress with a mid-calf asymmetric hem is acceptable.

Cocktail attire: Women will need something dressier than what they'd wear to work, but men will be perfect in a business suit (matching pants and jacket, please). Dresses are short (from mini to mid-calf) and stylish, shoes are sexy. This is the perfect time to wear your funkiest dress or your little black one.

Business attire: Dress your very best for work and you're ready to go to a business attire event. For women, that means a good quality suit or wool dress with pumps, simple jewelry or a single accessory that makes a statement. For men, it means a good-quality suit and tie.

Business casual: Khaki pants, a button-down shirt and a blazer or good sweater and loafers will take men to a roast or other business casual events. Women can dress similarly, or substitute a sweater set for the shirt and blazer and a casual skirt for the pants.

Holiday parties: The same rules apply, but be sure to add a festive touch such as a red tie instead of black at a black-tie event, or a brightly coloured vest with Santas or candy canes. Colour makes others happy and it puts a smile on their face.

Holiday Gift Guide

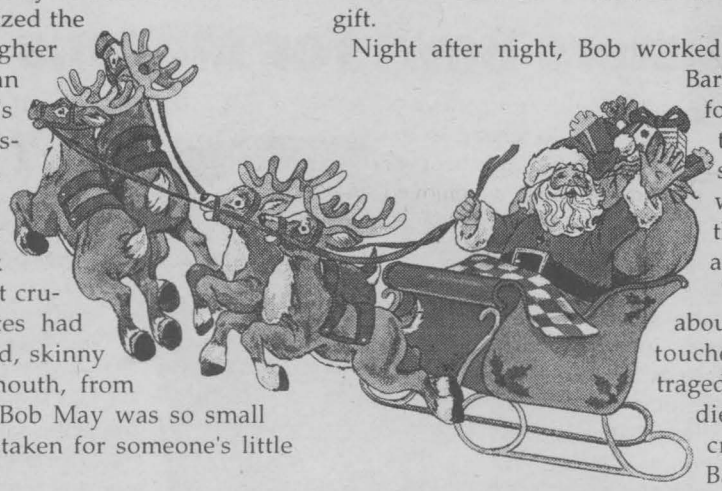
The True Story of Rudolph

On a December night in Chicago many years ago, a little girl climbed onto her father's lap and asked a question. It was a simple question, asked in children's curiosity, yet it had a heart-rending effect on Robert May.

"Daddy," four-year-old Barbara May asked, "Why isn't my mommy just like everybody else's mommy?"

Bob May stole a glance across his shabby two-room apartment. On a couch lay his young wife, Evelyn, racked with cancer. For two years she had been bedridden. For two years, all of Bob's small income and smaller savings had gone to pay for treatments and medication.

The terrible ordeal had already shattered two adult lives. Now, Bob suddenly realized the happiness of his growing daughter was also in jeopardy. As he ran his fingers through Barbara's hair, he groped for some satisfactory answer to her question.



Bob May knew only too well what it meant to be 'different'. As a child he had been weak and delicate. With the innocent cruelty of children, his playmates had continually goaded the stunted, skinny lad to tears. Later, at Dartsmouth, from which he graduated in 1936, Bob May was so small that he was always being mistaken for someone's little brother.

Nor was his adult life much happier. Unlike many of his classmates who floated from college into plush jobs, Bob became a lowly copy writer for Montgomery Ward, the big Chicago mail order house. Now at 33, Bob was deep in debt, depressed and sad.

Although, he didn't know it at the time, the answer he gave the little child on his lap was to bring him fame and fortune. It was also to bring joy to countless thousands of children like his own Barbara. On that December night in the shabby Chicago apartment, Bob cradled the little girl's head against his shoulder and began to tell a story .

"Once upon a time, there was a reindeer named Rudolph, the only reindeer in the world that had a big red nose. Naturally people called him "Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer." As Bob went on to tell about Rudolph, he tried desperately to communicate to Barbara the knowledge that, even though some creatures of God are strange and different, they often enjoy the miraculous power to make others happy.

"Rudolph," Bob explained, "was terribly embarrassed by his unique nose. Other reindeer laughed at him; his mother and father and sister were mortified, too. Even Rudolph wallowed in self pity."

"Why was I born with such a terrible nose?" he cried.

"Well," continued Bob, "one Christmas eve, Santa Claus got his team of husky reindeer - Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, and Vixen, and the others -- ready for their yearly trip around the world. The entire reindeer community assembled to cheer these great heroes on their way. But, a terrible fog engulfed the earth that evening, and Santa knew that the mist was so thick that he wouldn't be able to find a single chimney."

"Suddenly Rudolph appeared, his read nose glowing brighter than ever. Santa sensed at once that here was the answer to his perplexing problem. He led Rudolph to the front of the sleigh, fastened the harness and climbed in. They were off! Rudolph guided Santa safely to every chimney that night. Rain, and fog, snow and sleet -- nothing bothered Rudolph for his bright red nose penetrated like a beacon."

"And, so it was that Rudolph became the most famous and beloved of all the reindeer. The huge red nose he once hid in shame was now the envy of every buck and doe in the reindeer world. Santa Claus told everyone that Rudolph had saved the day, and from that Christmas on, Rudolph has been living serenely and happy."

Little Barbara laughed with glee when her father had finished. Every night she begged him to repeat the tale until finally Bob could rattle it off in his sleep. Then, at Christmas time, he decided to make the story into a poem like the 'Night Before Christmas' and prepare it in a booklet form with crude illustrations, for Barbara's personal gift.

Night after night, Bob worked on the verses after Barbara had gone to bed, for he was determined that his daughter should have a worthwhile gift, even though he could not afford to buy one.

Then, as Bob was about to put the finishing touches on Rudolph, tragedy struck. Evelyn May died. Bob, his hopes crushed, turned to Barbara as his chief comfort. Yet, despite his grief, he sat at his desk in the quiet, now lonely apartment, and worked on Rudolph with tears in his eyes.

Shortly after Barbara had cried with joy over his handmade gift on Christmas morning, Bob was asked to an employee's holiday party at Montgomery Wards. He didn't want to go, but his office associates insisted. When Bob finally agreed, he took with him the poem and read it to the crowd. At first the noisy throng listened in laughter and gaiety. Then, they became silent, and at the end broke into spontaneous applause. That was in 1938.

By Christmas of 1947, some 6 million copies of the booklet had been given away or sold, making Rudolph one of the most widely distributed books in the world. The demand for Rudolph sponsored products increased so much in variety and number that educators and historians predicted Rudolph would occupy a permanent niche in the Christmas legend.

Through the years of unhappiness, the tragedy of his wife's death and his ultimate success with Rudolph, Bob May has captured a sense of serenity. And as each Christmas rolls around he recalled with thankfulness the night when his daughter's questions inspired him to write the story.

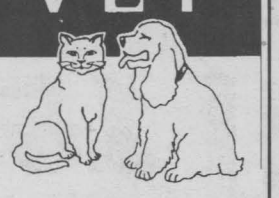
Friskies

ask the VET



Stop the downpour.
Fix your pet

Every year in Otnario, tens of thousands of dogs, and particularly cats, are euthanized (put down) because there are not enough homes for them. It all starts with one female cat, followed by her offspring, breeding for only seven years, and you have 420,000 cats. It takes slightrly less time for one female dog and her offspring to produce 67,000 dogs. Many companion animals will never find loving homes,e ven though most are young, healthy and friendly.

Pet overpopulation is at crisis levels in Ontario, and if we are to overcome this crisis, pet owners must tke responsibility for their companion animals by having them spayed or neutered.

If people had their pets spayed or neutered, many thousands of animals could be saved. Spaying and neutering are safe surgical operations that prevent animals from reproducing. Spaying is the removal of a female animals ovaries and uterus; neutering is the removal of a male's testicles. These procedures generally do not even require an overnight stay in a verterinary clinic, and can eliminate or significantly reduce the risk of an animal developing numerous health problems, some of which may shorten their lives. These include reproductive cancers and infections as well as behaviour problems such as territorial makring, destructiveness and aggression. Animals who have been spayed or neutered are much less likely to roam in search of mates. When female dogs and cats are not spayed, they go into heat and this can attract males. While searching for males, animals can get hit by cars, injured in fights, or lost and even stolen. Others end up in animal punds. Keeping animals inside doesn't guarantee safety, as they may escape by accident.

The safety of both male and female animals is dramatically increased if they are spayed or neutered.

Broken Dreams

Amazing Grace

Pastor Bob
BURGESS

amazinggrace@pastors.com

"That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection." Phil. 3:10

God wants you to know Him? God has a desire that you would have fellowship and a living relationship with Him every day of your life. He even allows situations to come our way and our dreams may even get shattered, but in the midst of it all, we come to know Him better as the one who truly cares for us.

The Bible says to "count it all joy when you fall into various temptations and trials" (James 1:2). Why? Because in the middle of it all, you will get to know Him more than ever. You see, when we are in trials or difficulties, especially in those too big for us to handle, our inner dependency shifts from ourself to Him and to His unlimited abilities. You see, when we are convinced that we are powerless or can't get out of a situation on our own, our inner man needs strength from another source and hence our spirit man cries out to God sometimes unknowingly and in that, we get to meet God in all His awesome goodness and love for us. This is why that during the September 11th, 2001 crisis and the days that followed, people were praying and crying out to God and in their crisis, they came closer to God. Politicians, heads of states, judges, policemen, etc. all of them were overwhelmed and one could hear their openly voiced prayers on national television. You know it's easy to profess being an atheist when things are going well, but who does an atheist pray to on days like September 11th or in our own personal tragedy?

The scripture above says that I may know Him and the power of His resurrection. You see, when Jesus rose from the dead three days after His crucifixion, an awesome power was loosed on the earth and that resurrection power is available to you and I in the form of the Holy Spirit who releases strength and power in our lives especially when we are fully depending on the Lord for His help.

God wants you to know how much He cares for you and sometimes it takes a wake-up call from Heaven to cause us to bend our knee, humble our hearts and throw ourselves on God's mercy. In all of that He lovingly responds to our cry and we get to truly know Him as Lord and Saviour.

Going to church is great! Giving of your time to help others is much needed! Living a good life and respecting others is honourable! But what God wants more than anything is that you would know Him personally in your life.

If you would like a deeper relationship with God today, pray with me, "Dear God, I want to truly know You deep in my heart. Thank you that Jesus made a way on the cross that I can pray this prayer and get to know You. Thank you for all the things You allow to happen in my life. I want to know You personally. I ask You to reveal Your love to me and bring me closer to you. Amen."

As always, remember God loves you! He really, really does!

Second Thoughts

1. God wants to give us an encounter with Himself!
2. God gives us what He thinks is good, what He knows is good. We don't always agree!
3. An encounter with God is the greatest blessing of all!

Music Update

Yvan
BRUNET

Madonna "GHV2" WEA. "GHV2" (Greatest Hits Volume 2) is a stunning collection of hits (1991-2001) from the most significant female artist in the history of popular music: "Don't Cry For Me Argentina," "Ray Of Light," "Bedtime Story," "Erotica," "Beautiful Stranger," "Human Nature"…

Toni Braxton "Snowflakes" Arista/BMG. With Christmas just around the bend, joyful sounds abound everywhere. The song titles of Toni Braxton's latest album say it all: "Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas," "Christmas Time Is Here," "Christmas In Jamaica" (with Shaggy), "Snowflakes Of Love," "Santa Please"…

Various Artists "Shallow Hal" Universal. There is a mellow guitar rock sound to this soundtrack with the likes of Neil Young (After The Gold Rush), PJ Harvey (Good Fortune), Sheryl Crow (Members Only), Shelby Lynne (Wall In Your Heart), Phoenix (Summer Days) and the like doing their thing. The music grows on you after a listen or three.

Shelby Lynne "Love Shelby" Universal. Country music's loss is rock's gain. On her new offering, Shelby Lynne ups the rock ante even further by joining forces with producer Glen Ballard (Alanis Morissette).

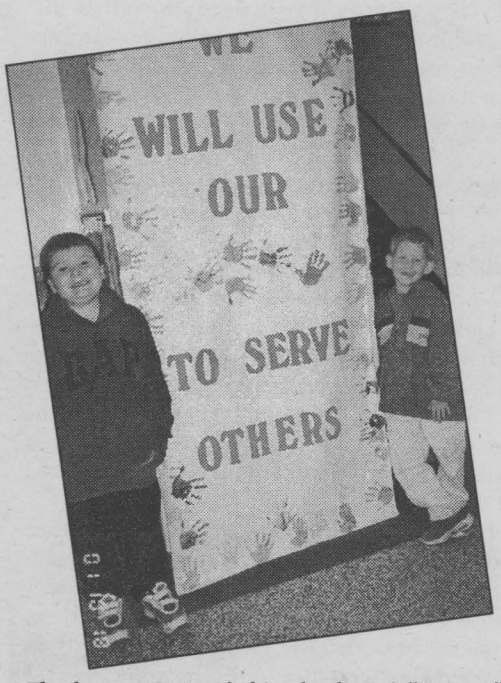
St. Anne's Catholic School



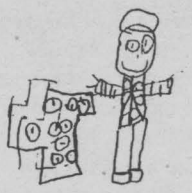
The theme at St. Anne's this school year is "To Serve". We celebrated Thanksgiving Mass at St. Francis de Sales Parish. Our grade 1 & 2 students initiated our food drive. Non-perishable food items were donated to the St. Vincent de Paul Society. They also had a draw on a beautiful basket. Proceeds being collected are for C.H.E.O.

Students generously supported The Salvation Army initiative in helping the victims of September 11th. Service by our 7 & 8 students included plant rescues, which were added to our Naturalization areas.

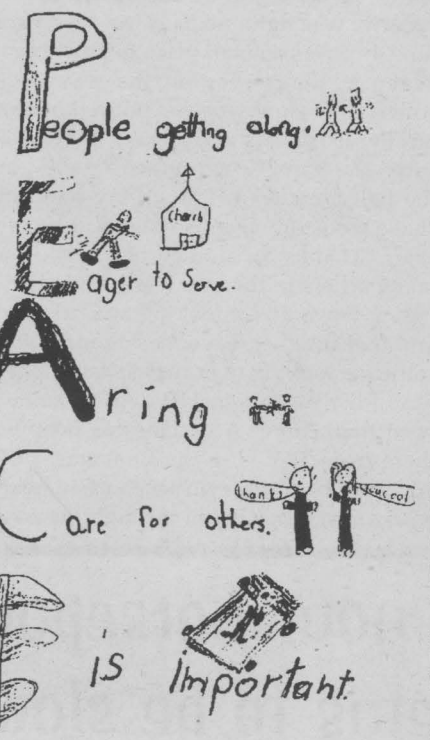
St. Anne's school community, including staff and parents have been active as well. Teachers have been busy with many in-services, professional developments and supporting fundraising initiatives.

Fundraising is well underway with the sale of tickets by students and parents in local malls. Our Harvest Fest Dance and Silent Auction was a great success. Everyone is busy working crafts for our 2nd annual Sugar Plum Fair as well as recipes for our school cookbook.

Great time, energy, care and devotion have been put forth by all of St. Anne's school community.



Peace as seen through the eyes of grade 3 students, Corey, Daniel, Taylor, Brettney and Stephan.



PEACE

Peace is knowing you are loved.
Knowing when you run home on freezing nights your family will be waiting.
Knowing in the summer time your friends will build a cabin with you.
Knowing your parents will stay by your side when you're sick.
And knowing your brothers will play with you when you are bored.
Peace is knowing you are loved.

Peace is knowing nature is always there.
Looking at the stars on a lonely night.
Swimming in the ocean with the sea creatures.
Hiking up the tallest mountains.
And coming right back to the place you know, your backyard tree house.
Peace is knowing nature is always there.

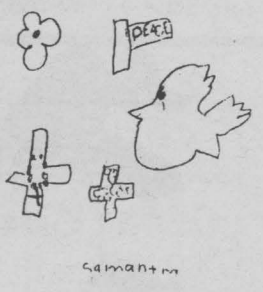
By Susan Cameron

We thank our sponsors, performers and everyone for their support!

St. Anne's has been a buzz of activity above and beyond the daily academic schedule this past month.

Field trips included, J.K. & Grade 3 enjoyed an outing to McMaze. S.K. students had fun at the Avonmore Berry Farm and Grades 1-5 combined fun and learning at Domtar Forestry Centre. Our Grades 7 & 8 had the opportunity to compete in a soccer tournament at the Kinsmen Soccer Field. The Grades 3-6 had fun at their own soccer tournament, here at St. Anne's.

Health and safety were important topics this past month. Students participated in safe bus evacuation, fire drill evacuation and toured, "The Smoke House". Our Grade 7 students had their Hepatitis B Immunization. We also had two students participate in a Healthy School Leadership conference.



Les Farceurs performed the play, "Don't blame me, he started it," addressing the issues of teasing and bullying in a comic way.

Pat
O'CONNOR

Hello everyone. I know it has been a long time since I last wrote, and judging by the comments I have been getting, many people have been wondering how I am and why I was not writing.

I wrote one column since September 11th, 2001 and have not had the urge to put pen to paper since. Watching what was happening and what so many other people were going through, I felt my problems and concerns were to be forgotten for the time being. The pain and sadness I felt for New Yorkers and Americans was very intense at times. Doing my meds also, combined with some cold and rain weeks ago, I was truly a mess for awhile.

A few weeks after September 11th, 2001 I needed to visit New York State. I can't really explain the 'need' to cross the border, but I felt I needed to listen to their thoughts and grieve with them. I visited Massena once and had a few beers with some people. Talking around the bar about the disaster was good, but I left with my eyes swelling fast.

Visiting Syracuse a few weeks after for a football game, I made a point of thanking a fireman and policeman for just being there, around the stadium, for my protection. Security was tight, no bags inside, no going outside at half time, but was a small price to pay. Extra security was also heavy at the border on the way back into Canada as American customs agents poured over my vehicle. Seeing our Syracuse hats and jackets, they joked about how one-sided the game was (Syracuse won), and apologized for the half-hour wait. I stuck my hand out my window to shake a custom agent's hand and he seemed shocked as I said, "Thanks for doing such a good job." I don't think many others in the cars were doing the same.

As I drove away, looking at Chris and Matt in the back and their mother, Faye, beside me, I was thankful for that someone looking over these special people.

As for news about HIV/AIDS, some good things have been happening. A vaccine for people to take to protect them from HIV is in the final stages of testing in the lab and may begin human trials early next year. The vaccine works best when given through the nose in drops or nasal spray. Since HIV is primarily a sexually-transmitted disease, they are developing a vaccine that will induce immunity at the mucous membranes of the body. These are the linings of the genital tract, lungs and gut. Almost all infections we get enter the body through the mucous membranes.

Also last week in Ottawa some researchers' hopes were raised when they found the key to attack HIV where it hides in the body from other drugs. It gives hope that a drug one day will be developed to completely remove HIV from a person's body. The research is in its early stages. Today's drugs only act on the virus that is replicating. These are dormant reservoirs sitting inside cells doing nothing. As a result HIV remains hidden in cells even though patients like myself sometimes appear free of the disease. Researchers have found that once HIV-infected people stop taking their drug cocktails the virus returns. I know all about this also!

There was hope years ago that the virus may not return after stopping therapy with a low viral load, but unfortunately it does. It's good to see progress, even if it's slow.

Magic Johnson was also in the news last week as he has been HIV positive for 10 years now. He mentioned he "was doing his part, the drugs were doing theirs, and God was doing His." He also mentioned being positive about life, and trying not to "feel sick." I still remember the morning watching Magic on TV disclosing he had HIV. I had had HIV for six years already and wondered how people could still get infected.

People in general must remember, when you see someone out in public that is sick or on heavy medication, and that person is laughing or having a few pops and looking like they are fine, that this may be the only day that week they can let go a little. I often hear, "Pat, you look great," or hear people tell others, "he looks fine, he doesn't look sick." You must remember, that night or day, I am not taking my pills. I have to plan not to take them which is a difficult decision. The rest of the time I am at home, taking pills, resting and hoping I can feel well enough to take Elmo for a walk. Many of you have not heard or seen me often and this is why. A couple of my good friends thought I should mention this. It was a good idea.

Last week I passed out a couple of times at home. Fell down and couldn't get up is probably more accurate. The second day I was terrified something was terribly wrong as I was constantly dizzy with terrible headaches. It was a viral infection and seemed to disappear as fast as it came along, but I was so scared. I hate living in fear all the time. I am still on the "drug cocktail" and some days are bad, some are not so bad. My CD4 counts are on the way up again (240 from 196) so that is good.

Finally, I would like to thank everyone for their support, friendship, concern and kindness. Thanks to those who called or asked if I was OK last week. Thanks to Dr. Beaumont and his wife Fran for getting me in and out when I'm not feeling well. The dentists, physicians, pharmacists and all those who say hello, how are you – thanks. Thanks to my family and Faye's for putting up with me. A few people I have known, just found out I was HIV positive, you listened well, and don't be afraid to ask more questions. I still find it odd when people don't know of my illness.

I'm babbling on here and would like to thank Seaway News who continue to print my thoughts and words when I can. I do need a favour. I need to speak soon! Teachers, students, service groups or whoever, I really need to get out and do some good. I want to start feeling better and that would help. You can reach me through Seaway News. We cannot put HIV/AIDS on the back burner because of other world events. It's still a big part of the whole picture.

Dear Santa,

Hi from Brandon. I'm a big three years old this year. My Daddy says I have been a good little boy this year so I hope that you will bring a little something for me. I have a few little things my Daddy wrote down cause I am too little to write so Daddy helps me out.

I like playing with little cars and watching "Blues Clues," also colouring books. Anything will make me happy. Oh yeah, and don't forget my wonderful Daddy; I am too small to get him something. If you could help me out I will leave you and your reindeers some treats and milk and for your helpers, too.

Well, have to go. Will be good. See you on Christmas.

Hugs and warm treats,
Brandon

Dear Santa,

My name is Austin and I am 7 years old. I want to thank you for all the wonderful presents I got last year. Mommy and Daddy say I have been pretty good this year, as I am sure you know that. This year I would like a Bio-Bug, Beast Machine, and a X-Man toy, some Pokemon, dinosaurs and fake crystals would be nice, too.

I will leave some milk and cookies for you and carrots for your reindeer. I love you very much.

From Austin Ceasor

Dear Santa,

My name is Larissa Lynn Beaupre. I go to Iroquois Public School in grade one. I would like to thank you for last year's gifts. This year I would like a robot dog or cat, Barbie on a scooter, boom box and a CD, a horse set of three I Love Horses with brush and some clothes for me: pants and top, pajamas and slippers.

Thank you Santa. I will leave you cookies and milk and sugar for your reindeers.

Love you always,
Larissa Lynn Beaupre

P.S. Could you bring my Mom slippers and a nightgown because you know she will be having my baby brother soon.

Dear Santa,

Since Christmas is next month there is something special I would really like. I would like a Kodak C300 camera. I couldn't get a deal with my parents on my birthday. So please, I'm counting on you to get me this camera. I would really like to have a camera, since I don't have one.

Love Andrea Forrester

Dear Santa,

My name is Kameron Simpson and since I am only one year old, my Nanny Simpson is writing this for me. I'm a very, very busy baby so any type of toy that will keep me occupied would be very welcomed.

Please also bring my older brothers Christopher age 10 and Anthony age 6 some computer games and new board games. They will send you their lists a bit later.

All three of us will leave you milk and cookies.

Kameron Simpson

Dear Santa,

My name is Skylar and I am 8 months old. My Mommy is writing this letter for me because I am too little. I've been a very good girl this year. For Christmas I would like some toys to put in my toy box and some clothes for I am growing very fast. Could I please have my two front teeth. Please don't forget my Mommy and Daddy as well as Buster and Lucky, our two dogs. I will leave you some milk and cookies and sugar for the reindeers.

Skylar Boismenu

Dear Santa,

My name is Brittney Lynn Granger. I'm 6 years old now. I've been very good at home and at school. I've met many new friends this past year. Thank you for the gifts last year. How is Mrs. Claus?

I wish I knew what to say...my Daddy is waiting for an answer...

Guess it's present time. Could I please have a Nintendo Game Boy with the Super Mario game, Key Charm Cutie, Palm Puppy, and Volkswagen for Barbie.

Now it's my sister's turn.

My name is Amber Cassidy Granger, and I'm 2 years old.

I've been a handful for my parents, but they love me anyway. For this Christmas I would like a Baby doll to play with, cuddle, dress, even feed. I'm growing fast. Mom sent out an S.O.S. for new clothes. My Dad says "your curiosity will get the best of you." So send me anything that will enhance my curiosity please.

Love Brittney and Amber Granger

Atom "B" Selects

A very busy week for the Selects with two big season wins against Alexandria (4-1) on November 9th, 2001 and Kemptville (6-0) on November 15th, 2001. A solid team effort by all made it possible to gain four points in the stats. Travis Coughlin and Matt O'Neill, who recorded his second shutout of the season on his 11th birthday, were solid between the pipes. Daniel Viau with a strong week picked up three goals and an assist, and Brent Maxwell got two goals from some great passing plays by Ryan Herrington with two assists. Daniel Sullivan (2-2), Patrick Gilmour (1-2) and Ryan Winkenweder (1-2) performed very well together to help the team with some good goals. A couple of new players moving up to the team played well, and Chris Crawford picked up his first goal and assisted by Zack Kroeze along with Ryan Seguin for the third line. Jordan Aubin picked up two well deserved assists with some good defensive plays.

Matt O'Neill

The Selects then headed up to the Silver Stick Tournament in Pembroke from November 16th to 18th, 2001 and had a good start against Russell for a 1-1 tie. A beautiful bullet slapshot by Maxwell in the top corner and assisted by Ty Kinstler gave the Selects the lead in the second period, but Russell came back and tied. Coughlin played a very solid game stopping 20 shots. A 6-0 loss to a strong offensive Arnprior team put them out of the tournament. Then they lost to Smiths Falls 4-2 but not without giving a good team effort and some sense of humour when Brent Maxwell went to the bench for his first shift change only to find all the players had ducked behind the bench and there was no one to go on. Good one coach, we had a great laugh and a super time. Viau added both goals in the game with two perfect plays on net assisted by Daniel Bissonnette. Good luck next week in Brockville.

Cornwall Kinsmen Tournament

The Cornwall Kinsmen Bantom "A" are the Cornwall champs after competing in a tournament from November 15th to 18th, 2001. On Friday, November 16th, 2001 it was Cornwall vs Smiths Falls where they tied the game 0-0.

On Saturday, November 17th, 2001 at home vs Oshawa, they won 3-0. The three goals were all scored by Christina Julien. The first was unassisted, the second was assisted by Dayna O'Connor and Stacey Saucier, and the third goal was also assisted by Stacey Saucier and Dayna O'Connor.

Game three on November 17th, 2001, another home game vs Naha Winter Hawk ended in a score of 2-0. First goal went to Christina Julien, assisted by Stacey Saucier, and the second goal was scored by Tara Sinfield, assisted by Christina Julien.

Their final game, Sunday, November 18th, 2001 at home vs Nepean Peewee "AA" ended in another win, 3-0. Chantal Lortie scored the first goal, assisted by Christina Julien. Jessica Legue put in the second goal, with Christina Julien and Stacey Saucier assisting. The third goal was scored by Christina Julien on an open net. Goalies Vanessa Carter and Lauren Dallas each played two games and both achieved shutouts.

Coaching staff to be commended are Art Sinfield, Clayton Ouderkirk and Richard Carter. Thank you all.

Their league game on Monday, November 19th, 2001 against Rideau St. Laurent ended in a 1-0 win. First and only goal was scored by Christina Julien with the assist going to Stacey Saucier and Dayna O'Conner.

The Cornwall Best Western Novice "B" Royals hosted the South Stormont Selects for a league game at the Si Miller arena Sunday and won 5-0. The Royals remain undefeated in league action with a record of 7-0. The boys played textbook hockey with precise passing and lots of backchecking. Leading the attack was Mathieu Rochon with a hat trick and an assist. Jacob Ruest and Cody Stapley each with a goal and an assist. Kevin Dionne added two assists with singles going to Dominick Coyle, Michel Lefebvre, Tyler Prieur and Nick Quenneville.

Sports Chips

Bill Gallant

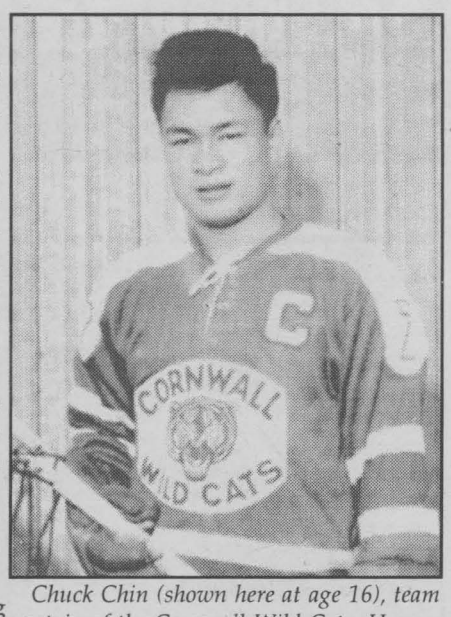
This week, Sports Chips is once again reflecting on the game of Lacrosse. Team names that readily arise when you talk local and area lacrosse are, Cornwall Wildcats, (Jr. B and the Seniors), St. Regis and the Rams. Then when the topic of players arises, one could spend an hour reviewing that long list. Certainly two of those names are the Robillard brothers, Ron and Richard. It will require two columns to share with you some of the fond memories that Richard can evoke from that era. Richard now lives and works in Ottawa and we are indebted to him for jotting down some of those memories for us. His very own words tell the story much better than I could, mainly because Richard played the game and lived the following times. Surely they will bring back some memories for many of our readers. Rich calls that storehouse of memories,"Cornwall, Youth and Lacrosse." This is his story, and I am happy to put it in print.

Part One

"I'm in my early fifties now. It's been over 30 years since I've held a lacrosse stick in my hands competitively, although two of the old hickory and catgut variety still hang in my basement. But I continue to look back, as I've often done over the years, with fondness and not a little yearning, to my younger days of lacrosse playing in Cornwall.

I was nine, I believe, when I was initiated into the game as an underage, substitute goalie for the "Red Devils" peewee team. I was 21 or so when I hung up my equipment for the last time, then a member of the senior level version of the Cornwall Wildcats Lacrosse Club. In between, as I recognized sometime later, were some of the best years and best memories of my life.



Chuck Chin (shown here at age 16), team captain of the Cornwall Wild Cats. He was voted top amateur lacrosse player in 1965 by Eastern Lacrosse Association and Lion's Club.

I remember being on some pretty good minor teams, initially as a goalie, with my summer pattern of ball-shaped black and blue bruises up and down my inner thighs and other areas of my anatomy. Goalie equipment then was a far cry from what you see now – usually a creative ensemble of hockey, football and baseball catcher's gear.

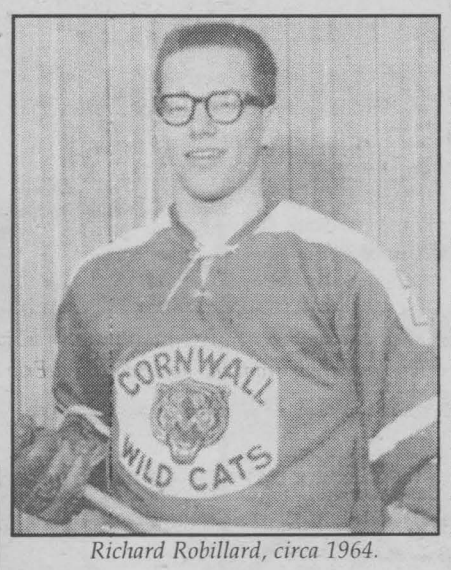
I remember my "breakout" game at the bantam level when, between the second and third periods of a losing effort, I took off the goalie equipment for good and started my "career" as a sometimes forward, a sometimes defenceman, usually on the 'power play' and almost always on the 'penalty kill' (which explains the small collection of faded stitch scars on my face).

I remember my first "away" competitive tournament as a bantam all-star going to Peterborough, where we upstarted eastern Ontarian's gave the western Ontario lacrosse centres an indication of things to come by (surprisingly to them) winning a few games, before being completely outclassed in the semi-final by a team of physical giants (at least to us at the time) from Long Branch.

I remember our "Hodgins Lumber" midget championship team, when I played on a line with Ron Thompson and Chuck Chin (later Chuck Li) – the year before many of us moved up and formed part of the initial version of the Junior B Wildcats, the first opportunity I had to play on the same team as my older brother, Ron.

I remember a break-away play with Rick Desrossiers during an exhibition game against the powerful Oshawa Green Gaels, Junior 'A' national champions at the time. If Rick had only scored after receiving my pass, that would have been a truly memorable moment. You see, Rick was our goalie at the time and when he saw me break out of a scrum in our end, he sprinted the full length of the floor to create a two-on-one opportunity. I've occasionally thought back and asked myself whether I should have taken that shot myself – but after his mad dash, I just had to give Rick his shot at entering the annals of local lacrosse lore. A good memory, nevertheless, Rick, and I thank you for it."

Editor's note: We thank Richard, and his biggest fan, his Mom Dorothy, for allowing us to re-print page one of those memories. Next week, Richard will reminisce about some of the builders of the local lacrosse story he participated in, as well as some of the players and teams he both played on and against.



Richard Robillard, circa 1964.

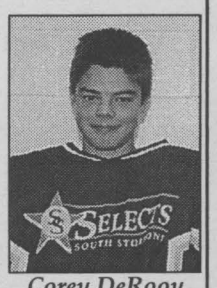
South Stormont
Bantam "C" Selects



Corey DeRooy

It was a busy weekend for the South Stormont Bantam "C" Selects as they played three games in three days.

In Massena, New York, the Selects were led by a two-goal effort from Corey DeRooy as they skated to a 6-2 exhibition win over their hosts. Singles were added by Chris Labelle, Marc Brunet, Brad Montgomery and Tyler Galindo.

The Selects then played back-to-back UCMHL games against Ogdensburg, New York and were somewhat snake-bitten in both games. In Ogdensburg, the Selects were stymied by a hot goaltender and fell 4-1 despite outshooting their hosts 24-18. Kory Willard was the lone marksman.

In the return match in Long Sault, the Selects allowed a late third-period goal to settle for a 5-5 tie. Marc Geneau registered a hat trick, with Doug Alguire and Galindo adding singles.

Sharks House League

The South Stormont Sharks house league team played TLS on the weekend and came away with a 4-4 tie.

Scoring for the Sharks was Graeme McDonald with three goals, and Jonathan Dunbar with one. Assists went to Andrea Maloney, Kevin Hope and Martin Maloney. John Cleary played a great game in nets for the Sharks.

On Sunday, the Sharks played the Long Sault Wildcats and came away with a 7-2 victory. Scoring for the Sharks were Kevin Hope with five goals, and John Cleary with two goals. On November 16th, 2001, South Stormont made the road trip to Winchester and defeated the North Dundas team 2-1. Goals were scored by Ryan Ward and Derek MacDonald. Atom "C" Selects

The South Stormont Atom "C" Selects continued their winning ways last weekend with victories over North Dundas and North Glengarry-Stormont. T.R. Leger To Open Suspension Centre In Cornwall

The T.R. Leger School of Adult, Alternative and Continuing Education has been awarded $50,000 in funding from the Department of Justice, National Strategy on Community Safety and Crime Prevention.

The T.R. Leger School will use the funds to establish a Suspension Centre in the City of Cornwall. The mandate of the Centre is to meet the needs of UCDSB students between the ages of 11 and 15 who are suspended from elementary and secondary schools for three days or more. The Centre will provide life skills and social skills training for up to six students who are under suspension. The curriculum will address the behavioural issues that caused the students to be suspended. Topics including anger management, conflict resolution, effective communication, and drugs and alcohol awareness will be addressed.

This community safety and crime prevention initiative is a proactive investment by the federal government. The assumption is that students who are out of school, unsupervised and without structured activities, are often drawn into situations leading to crime and violence. A major focus of this pilot project will be to collect statistics for the government, and to document the short term gains of having such a centre.

The Centre is located on Brookdale Avenue at a commercial site. Students can only be referred by the UCDSB home school principal and they must supply their own transportation. The Suspension Centre will open December 3rd, 2001 with operating hours from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Homeopathy and Menopause

Paulette Poirier
Homeopath

It should be a special time in a women's life. Unfortunately many women suffer from sweaty flashes, insomnia, depression, migraines, irritability, ... Joan, a teacher, suffered hot flashes that would often be followed by fainting spells. perspiration would drip off her forehead, the back of her neck would be all wet, her body would be get clammy. She felt like a wet rag, a very tired wet rag. The only relief would be to loosen her clothes - not always possible halfway through mathematics. These symptoms often woke her up at night.

The cure: Joan had discussed hormones with her doctor and since there was cancer in the immediate family, like many women, she decided to look at homeopathy to help relieve the symptoms of menopause. She wanted to keep her sanity, and find a natural way to get relief. The homeopathy remedy Lachesis matched her menopausal symptoms. After 5 weeks the dosage was reduced since the symptoms had diminished by 50%. A further consultation was needed to continue the work of balancing the hormones so that Joan's life would resume.

Mary, my wife, owned and operated a Native-Canadian restaurant in Winnipeg. Shortly after it opened, she met the chief of an Indian reserve located a fair distance away. He told her he'd visit the restaurant and asked her to make a reservation for his family.

When the chief arrived, Mary overheard the receptionist ask him "Do you have a reservation, sir?"

"Yes, I have," he smiled. "About 35 miles northeast of here."

"Turkey?" the lady repeated.

It was obvious his studies were still on his mind when he replied, "Domesticated, flightless land fowl."

Pet Tip of the Week: Every dog that spends any time outside alone in cold weather should have a well insulated doghouse, sized just for him. As for cats, it's best to keep them indoors. And don't forget to have your pets spayed/neutered to prevent the overpopulation of cats and dogs.

Even though the City had placed barrels all along the route, the streets were full of litter. Oink! Oink! One of the guys cleaning up told us that the barrels were virtually empty.

Sunday, November 25th is "Shopping Reminder Day" ... only 1 month before Christmas!

Tip o' the Hat for Norman at Bathtub Magic ... Great job done, not only on my old sink but other jobs I needed done. He will definitely get more work from me!

If Only Life Could Be Like A Computer

If you messed up your life, you could press "Ctrl, Alt, Delete" and start all over!

To get your daily exercise, just click on "Run!"

If you needed a break from life, click on suspend. Hit "Any Key" to continue life when ready.

To get even with the neighbors, turn up the sound blaster.

To add/remove someone in your life, click settings and control panel.

To improve your appearance, just adjust the display settings.

If life gets too noisy, turn off the speakers.

When you loose your car keys, click on find.

"Help" with the chores is just a click away.

Auto insurance wouldn't be necessary. Instead, you would use your diskette to recover from a crash.

And, we could click on "SEND NOW" and a Pizza would be on it's way.

Rumours are swirling ... is it true?? Is "The Jersey Farmer" really starting a New Business? Apparently he's been spotted washing windows and installing Christmas lights. Now if only Barb could get him to do some of that around home!!

Election campaigns are like cleaning a window. The dirt is always on the other side!

Why, why, why would the City buy the corner of Pitt & Second? Especially when we (taxpayers) already own the old Cornwallis site!

Never Too Young To Attend "Car Class"

"Where did you learn that?" This question pops up frequently in households with young children. Kids tend to pick up on what's happening around them. That's why the Car Care Council's Women's Board is urging parents to use travel time to teach their children about cars and driving.

"As a mother of a kindergartner and first grader, I spend an average of seven hours a week in the car with my kids. Lots of parents I know spend twice that," says Donna Wagner, director of the Women's Board. "Recently it occurred to me that most of our car time is not very productive."

That's when Wagner decided to teach her little ones about the automobile that she sometimes feels is their second home. Because the boys were fascinated with gauges, the instrument panel was the natural starting place.

"I explained the speedometer and the importance of speed limits," says Wagner. "Since then, they've been very vocal if I go too fast. They know how to check a speed limit sign against the speedometer."

That's another important benefit of using the car as a classroom, says the Women's Board. Children learn or enhance skills like math and science.

"As soon as we get in the car, the boys write down the odometer reading. At our destination I do the subtraction with them, and they see how many miles we traveled. When they get a little older, I'm going to teach them how to check their miles-per-gallon."

Wagner also explained to her sons why the engine temperature gauge rose to normal when the engine was warmed up. The boys learned that if the needle moved too far to the right the engine was running hot. She also showed them the check engine light, the engine oil pressure and battery charge lights. The class wouldn't be complete without discussing the fuel gauge. Having a little one who can remind a harried parent that it's time to stop for gas can be a big plus.

Like other children's activities, car class is more fun when it's made into a game. Wagner lets the youngster who correctly answers her "car quizzes" listen to his favorite tape or CD. Of course, before she could teach car class, she had to educate herself.

"I am fairly knowledgeable, but I re-read my owner's manual as a refresher. You can't explain it to your kids until you're familiar with it."

According to the Women's Board, car classes teach life skills, and you can start class as soon as your child is old enough to converse. Like getting into the habit of fastening their seat belts, these kids are likely to be tuned into their cars forever.

Of course, the instrument panel just scratches the surface of what can be taught. From tires to headlights to brakes, travel time is the perfect time to fill those little heads full of something they can use.

Parking Lot Security Test

Some of the most aggravating and sometimes dangerous driving experiences occur not on the road but in a parking lot. What would you do under these circumstances, as posed by the Car Care Council:

1. You're involved in a minor collision which, you discover after turning off the engine and looking around the car, produced no damage. When you get back behind the wheel to go home the car won't start. The probable reason is that the impact has:

a) loosened a battery cable;

b) actuated a safety switch;

c) caused the accident-prevent mode to engage.

2. You left your lights on, running the battery down. A good Samaritan comes along with jumper cables. The correct hook-up is:

a) positive cable between both batteries should be done simultaneously;

b) positive cable to positive post of the dead battery and negative cable to negative post on the other;

c) positive to positive, negative to the engine block or other good ground connection on the vehicle with the dead battery.

3. You return to your car from several hours of shopping to find one tire nearly flat. Your best choice is to:

a) roll up your sleeves and put on the spare;

b) dig out that can of pressurized air that was given to you for this emergency;

c) since it is not entirely flat, drive to a service station to get it fixed.

4. As you walk to your car you notice fluid underneath. Not knowing whether it came from your car or someone else's, your best procedure is to:

a) back up far enough to see if you can tell what kind of fluid it is; then check under your hood to see if any of your car's fluids are noticeably low;

b) have all of your fluids checked at your earliest convenience;

c) do not drive your car. Instead, call for a qualified technician to come to the location and inspect the vehicle.

Answers

1. b) is correct. In the event of an impact, a safety device (on most vehicles) disengages the fuel system and must be reconnected by pushing a button. Check the vehicle owner's manual.

2. c) is correct. To prevent a spark near the explosive gases that can seep from a battery, make the final (ground) connection as far as possible from the battery.

3. a) is your best choice, possibly your only choice if the leak is progressing too quickly. It's a good reason to become familiar with the spare tire procedure before the need arises. The pressure can or a battery operated pump may be a good "plan B" to help you limp to a service facility where the tire can be repaired.

4. a) is correct. Oil (brown/black), brake fluid (usually clear), antifreeze (green) or power steering fluid (red) or transmission fluid (also red or brown). In warmer climates you also may see water (condensation) from the air conditioner, which is normal.

Yield To Emergency Vehicles

Emergency vehicles are involved in several traffic collisions each year. Motorists who don't yield to their approach are at fault at least 75 percent of the time, according to a study by a southern California auto group. Here's how to avoid collisions with these vehicles, courtesy of the Loyola University Medical Center Injury Prevention Program:

- If the emergency vehicle is close behind you, don't stop.
- Pull over to the right and stop. If you are in the centre lane, move as far to the right as possible.
- Don't block an intersection. If you are already in an intersection, proceed through, then move right.
- On freeways, always pull over to the right, not left or centre median.

R & R For Your Car

You say you need a new car? The old one is shot? It could be a state of mind, says the Car Care Council, who contends that most vehicles today lend themselves to "R & R" (repair and restoration) as opposed to retirement or a ride to the recycling yard. Thanks to technology, even a badly accident-damaged car can be given new life.

It's a matter of improved materials: better upholstery fabrics, for example, which clean and wear better, improved paint and trim, advanced mechanical design that has extended the average age of a car from about 6 years in the early '60's to nearly 10 years today. In the same time frame we've tripled the miles driven.

So why do people buy new or newer vehicles? Advanced safety features and fresh styling are two good reasons. Another is that a major component in the old car has gone bad. An engine that's badly overheated, for example, can self-destruct in the time it takes to read this article. The transmission, whose cooling is derived from the engine cooling system, soon may be severely damaged if the engine is seriously overheated.

But that's not always a valid reason to trade, says the Car Care Council. An engine, transmission or virtually any component of a vehicle can be replaced with a new or rebuilt counterpart. Even older cars, although depreciated in dollar value, still provide excellent transportation. Is it worth putting a $2,000 rebuilt engine in a $5,000 car? Absolutely, if the car is basically sound and your objective is good transportation rather than status.

In fact, says the Council, there are some who consider a good old car a status symbol in its own right.

HOROSCOPES

NOV. 25 - DEC. 1

Aries – March 21/April 20
This week brings many invitations for adventure, but think about what you really want to do before you jump head-first into the plans. Are you thinking about taking a vacation? Something active will keep you interested — like skiing, snowboarding or downhill tubing. Romance could blossom on the slopes.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
If you've realized that there no longer seems room for advancement at your job, it could be time to look elsewhere. Don't worry about a sluggish economy, in your line of work the jobs are still plentiful. Take a breather on Wednesday to collect your thoughts and draft a plan of action. Good news arrives on Friday.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
Have you been a little moody lately, Gemini? Maybe you're not challenging yourself enough. Try signing up at the gym for an aerobics class like kickboxing or spinning. It really will keep your adrenaline pumping and your mind open for new ideas. Friends recognize your need for help and do.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
If your finances have got you down lately, Cancer, you're not alone. Everyone is feeling the crunch. Yet, you can't stop enjoying yourself in the meanwhile. Forget about practicality this week and treat yourself to something "naughty." Maybe a massage or a designer outfit could help turn your mood around.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Changes in your neighborhood have caused you to consider a change for yourself as well. Perhaps it's time to make a move to some place where there's less hustle and bustle. Don't worry about making friends — your outgoing personality will definitely get you noticed.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
If you're struggling at work, Virgo, you may want to seek the advice of your co-workers. You could find that you may have made a mistake in accepting this position. Aquarius looks to you for some personal advice on Tuesday and could need a place to stay for a few days. You could use a little company this week.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
You can't always get your way, Libra, and with a new opportunity at work you'll really have to fight to get noticed. Reflecting on what you really want will help you choose a course of action. You probably won't have time for much romance this week.
Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
Don't dwell on the past when it comes to a love interest. There's no use pondering what could have happened. Someone you interact with everyday could turn out to be the perfect match for you. Keep a tight grip on your money there may be some unexpected expenses Tuesday.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
Things at work have not slowed down since you started this new position. Have you felt your nerves getting frayed, Sagittarius? It's time to tell co-workers that they need to pull more weight to help you out. A pampering day off on Wednesday will help soothe your tired mind and body.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Does an old flame keep resurfacing, Capricorn? It could be fate trying to tell you something. While your current love interest seems like quite the catch, there's something being hidden from you. This time it may be wise the pursue the one that got away. Work and fun become difficult while your mind is engaged.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
You've been spending too much time at work lately, Aquarius. It's time to shake off some responsibilities for a while and set off on a spur-of-the-moment trip. How about visiting a landmark that you've never seen. Niagara Falls, the Grand Canyon, and Mount Rushmore are just a short plane ride away. Take along a friend.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Don't wait for change to come to you, Pisces — you have to be a go-getter this time. Work is tough this week and you're bound to see a few changes at the office. They may not be exactly what you hoped for. View them as stepping stones to success.

POETS CORNER

Grandpa

A tribute to all grandfathers lost in the World Trade Centre disaster:

Light a candle
Burn the rain
Spread a smile
Conquer pain.

Beautiful angel
where could you be?
Locked up inside
your own worst enemy?

No, the Lord let you go,
The Lord set you free
And now you are here
Safe inside of me.

So now, you'll rise with the sun,
And shine with the stars.
I'll never forget you
And all that you are.

Love In The Fall

Early "spring," bursting with surprises
"Love" comes in many disguises
A little attention, but not the right kind
An honest phrase, "Love is blind."
"Summer" stayed for a matter of years
More disappointments and too many tears
Sudden storms are hard to weather
The season ended, and things got better.
My "fall" softens the sun,
Fluffs up the moon
Then sprinkles the stars
This soft-spoken man who rolls his R's
Whether it's London, Wales or Paris
He makes me feel like I'm the fairest
Hoping "winter" will last for a very long time
My favourite season I've come to find
No storms to weather, just fun in the sun
"Love in the fall" should happen to everyone.

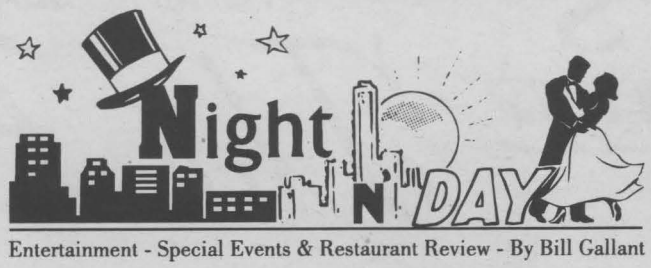
SEAWAY ENTERTAINMENT



Entertainment - Special Events & Restaurant Review - By Bill Gallant

It lit-up the November skies and the many eyes of the excited parade watchers that crowded on the city streets to enjoy the bright and creative floats in the SANATA CLAUS PARADE 2001. Congratulations to the Cornwall and District Service Club Council for their organizing efforts and most importantly to all the hard-working individuals who spent obviously long-hours preparing the individual float entries. It was a real class act and will be long remembered.

A busy weekend once again in Cornwall and area. This Friday, November 23rd there will be a ST. ANDREW'S NIGHT DANCE at Lancaster Legion Branch #544. Please wear a tartan, kilt, sash or tie and get ready to enjoy a meat pie with all the trimmings. A dance to follow featuring the 7-piece band, GAILURON.

Friday is also the day for the CORNWALL & AREA SNOWSUIT CHARITY AUCTION. It will be held at the Best Western Inn & Conference Centre. There will be an auction preview at 5:30 pm and the auction starts at 7:00 pm.

Saturday will be just as busy with the CHRISTMAS CRAFT SHOW in Monkland & District Recreation Hall. There will be the usual baked goods and lots of gift ideas. Hours are 10:00 am - 4:00 pm.

The Glen Walter Fire Department are holding their annual HARVEST DANCE this Saturday. It will be at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Purcell Road starting at 9:00 pm. All proceeds to purchase new equipment.

Had the opportunity to stop by the CASA PAOLO RISTORANTE ITALIANO last week to once again sample some of their excellent cuisine. They have a wide variety of items on their extensive menu and the service and friendliness is a treat in itself. You can enjoy a choice of steak dishes cooked to your liking, seafood specialties, chicken and some great pasta. Caso Paolo also have prepared a special menu for the Holiday Season. Look for their surf & turf, combination plates, veal and chicken delights and top it all off with a cup of Santa's Specialty Coffee. They are located at 1600 Vincent Massey Drive and await your visit someday soon. Oh, did I tell you that it was also a real fun-place with a on-going happy atmosphere.

Coming on Thursday, November 29th it will be the opening ceremonies for the FESTIVAL OF TREES at the Cornwall Armoury on 4th Street. Be there between 7:00 pm - 9:00 pm to preview the festival with the sponsors and volunteers and enjoy refreshments & entertainment. Tickets for this event are available at Cornwall and Seaway Valley Tourism or by calling 938-4748. The event is sponsored by the Lung Association and will run until December 2nd.

Here's a reminder about the upcoming SANTA CLAUS CHRISTMAS PARADE to take place next Saturday, December 1st in ALEXANDRIA. It starts at 6:30 pm at the Independent Grocer at the south end of town and will travel along Main Street to Glengarry District High School. Anyone requiring information can call 525-4639.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY to all the gang at THE JEWEL, Memories 12-20. They will be celebrating their first anniversary and will present special programming all day. The station is enjoying an ever-growing wide audience and they enjoy your cards, calls and comments. Have a very happy day folks !!

Until next week, G'Day and G'Night.

Intoxicating Mushroom Pasta

1 lb. (500 g) fettuccini or tagliatelle
2 Tbsp. (23 ml) butter
1/2 cup (125 ml) chopped shallots
4 cups (1 L) sliced assorted mushrooms
1 tsp. (5 ml) salt
1 tsp. (5 ml) pepper
3/4 cup (175 ml) brandy or port
1/4 cup (50 ml) chopped fresh thyme
1/2 cup (125 ml) julienned dried apricots
1 1/2 cups (375 ml) Sealtest 28% M.F. Dessert Cream
1/2 tsp. (2 ml) nutmeg
1/4 cup (50 ml) grated Parmesan
1/2 cup (125 ml) chopped walnuts
salt & pepper, to taste
Garnish: freshly ground black pepper

Cook pasta in large pot of salted, boiling water. Meanwhile, in a large saucepan sauté the shallots in butter until soft. Add mushrooms, salt and pepper and sauté until the mushrooms lose their moisture. Add the brandy, thyme and apricots, cooking until the mushrooms absorb most of the liquid. Remove saucepan from heat and stir in the cream and nutmeg. Reduce heat to low and return saucepan to burner. Cook the mixture for 2 to 3 minutes until some of the cream has reduced. Add Parmesan and walnuts and mix well. Add salt and pepper and serve hot. [Makes 6 side dishes or 4 main.]

Goodyear confident in tires

Many teams have expressed concern over how the November chill will affect tires during Friday's New Hampshire 300. But Goodyear insists there's no need for worry.

Harvick ready for New Hampshire

With but a single race remaining in the season, Kevin Harvick still has work to do -- namely, moving up in the Winston Cup standings.

Skinner raring to go for 2002 season

Mike Skinner suffered through a serious crash at Chicago and a painful split from RCR -- but he is ready to get things going with Morgan-McClure in 2002.

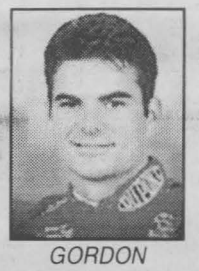
Lester finally gets shot with BHR

After a three-year quest, Bill Lester will finally get his shot at driving as he takes over the No. 8 Dodge in the Truck Series next year.

Hornaday, Foyt parting ways

Ron Hornaday won't be in the No. 14 Pontiac in 2002, a team source confirmed Tuesday.

Gordon's fourth title puts him in elite company



GORDON

Clinching the Winston Cup title Sunday at Atlanta Motor Speedway brought more to Jeff Gordon than just a trophy and a big payday -- it brought vindication.

Labonte wins when Nadeau runs out of fuel

Bobby Labonte took a stunning win in the NAPA 500 when Jerry Nadeau ran out of gas in the final lap.

Earnhardt Jr. continues late-season push

EARNHARDT, JR.

Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s continuous climb and other notes from the NAPA 500 at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

TV ratings on rise for Atlanta event

Going against NFL telecasts, NBC's coverage of Sunday's NASCAR Winston Cup NAPA 500 at Atlanta Motor Speedway doubled from last year to 4.0. Sunday's rating hit a high of 5.0 for the final half-hour, when Bobby Labonte won the race and Jeff Gordon clinched his fourth season title, Nielsen Media Research said Monday. National ratings won't be available until next week because of Thanksgiving. Last year's race, on ESPN, had the equivalent of a 2.0 network rating. The rating is the percentage of all homes with TVs.

Groups appeal Earnhardt autopsy photos law

Five journalism advocacy organizations are asking a state appeals court to declare unconstitutional a law limiting access to autopsy photos. The Florida Legislature passed the law in March, weeks after the death of NASCAR champion Dale Earnhardt in a crash in the season-opening Daytona 500.

Guessing game

With the green flag flying just hours after drivers arrive at New Hampshire International Speedway, it's clear that a lot of educated guessing will be needed to win.

Rusty's Rundown: New Hampshire

I like the race track and Mr. Bahre, the owner, and the people up there are real nice and they love racing. But, man, I gotta tell you -- we are all burned out and don't want to continue the year one more week.

Many of us personally feel that they should have refunded the money and just not run the race in respect to the Sept. 11th attacks.

I think the setups are going to be completely different because we are running different, softer tires than before. The softer tire will try and stick to the track in the cooler temperatures. I am concerned going into the race because it's the last race of the year and could really change the points around.

We're not going to qualify, and will start according to what the points were for the week we were (originally) supposed to run at New Hampshire. Because of that, I will be starting ninth and other drivers will be starting further back than where they are in points right now, too.

To show our appreciation to our customers, during the next few weeks, you can enter your sales receipts into a draw that will be held on December 22nd, 2001. The prizes include an adorable four foot teddy bear, a birch CD house, and a beautiful cotton throw.

The staff would like to thank all their customers in eastern Ontario, western Québec, and northern New York for choosing 'The Sap Bucket Craft Shop' located at 353 Montreal Road. Betty, Helene, Ubonone, Dean, and owner Jay Lalonde will be thrilled to help you with any of your purchase needs to complete your Christmas lists. They have extended hours for the month of December to ensure that all Christmas lists are filled in time for December 25th, 2001.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year from the staff of 'The Sap Bucket Craft Shop.'

The management and staff at 'The Sap Bucket' would like to help you with your shopping needs. In the photo, Betty Lalonde and Helene St. Martin show off the items that are being drawn on December 22nd, 2001.
