NATIONAL CHILD DAY

In 1993, the Government of Canada designated November 20th as National Child Day to commemorate two historic United Nations events: the adoption of the Declaration of the Rights of the Child on November 20th, 1959 and the adoption of the Convention on the Rights of the Child on November 20th, 1989.

National Child Day addresses the rights of children and youth under the age of 18. It recognizes their basic human rights and gives them additional rights to protect them from harm. The Day also recognizes the important role of the family in bringing up children.

In Canada, we owe the celebration of a special day for children to the efforts of Our Kids Foundation in Ottawa and Results Canada. Their action was supported by individuals and community groups, including the Canadian Coalition for the Rights of Children.

National Child Day is being celebrated across the country with special activities and events on November 20th. Events include community days for children and their families, the launching of special initiatives and programs to protect children's rights, and special workshops and public exhibits to promote National Child Day and children's issues.

National Child Day does something else too. Something simple. It celebrates children ... just for being themselves. It reminds us that children need love and respect to grow to their full potential. It's a day to listen to children, to marvel at their uniqueness and all they have to offer.

That's something to celebrate! The Bonnie Glen Pavilion in Alexandria will play host to a special event on November 14th to celebrate National Child Day, with table displays, contests and activities organized by local businesses and organizations showing their involvement not only with their community but also with their dedication to youth. This event will be open to the public between the hours of 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. People are encouraged to wear their blue ribbons that day in honour of the children.

The Original Swiss Army Knife was created in a small village in central Switzerland called Ibach. From those humble beginnings emerged a phenomenon that's now recognized in more than 100 countries around the world.

In the late 1800's Master Cutler Karl Elsener designed a multi-functional pocketknife, the Soldier's Knife, that he sold to the Swiss Army in October, 1891. Other models quickly followed, most notably the patented Officer's Knife in 1897.

Charles Elsener, the fourth son of the hatmaker Balthasar Elsener-Ott decided to become a cutler. At the age of 24, after his journeymans' years in the South German district of Tuttlingen, he returned to his home and in 1884 opened his own business in Ibach near Schwyz in Switzerland.

In those days there was hardly any industry in the district of Schwyz, and many of the young farmers were compelled to emigrate to North America, Australia or New Zealand. In order to create new employment opportunities, Karl Elsener took the initiative in 1891 to form the Swiss Cutlery Guild with the main aim of producing the soldiers' knives which the Swiss Army had up to that time purchased from Solingen in Germany.

In October 1891, the first delivery to the Swiss Army was made. Thereafter, Karl Elsener began producing other ingenious pocket knives which he did not identify with numbers but with names, such as Student Knife, Cadet Knife and Farmer's Knife.

The Soldier's Knife was very robust and also relatively heavy. Because of this, Karl Elsener developed a lighter and more elegant knife which, apart from the blade, awl, can opener and screwdriver on the Soldier's Knife, also had a second small blade and a corkscrew. Its design was officially registered on June 12th, 1897.

Maryse Pommier, of Pommier Jewellers, has long been intrigued with the infamous Swiss Army Knife and recently, along with her brother Andre, hosted a contest which was held at their store on Second Street. People passing by the storefront had the opportunity to guess how many logos were on display and were eligible to win a number of prizes.

Government Butts Into Cigarette Sales

(CORNWALL) Smokers will be coughing up more for cigarettes, but it still doesn't come close to what they're paying in terms of health, says the local medical officer of health.

"You can't put a price tag on good health. Tobacco smokes including second - hand smoke, costs us all and takes its toll on our hospitals, workplaces, communities and our families," said Dr. Robert Bourdeau of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit.

The hike means smokers will pay an extra $1.20 per carton, in provincial and federal taxes_putting a carton price more in line with American products.

Dr. Bourdeau says the hike could help deter smokers_especially young smokers. Local statistics regarding teen smokers are among the highest in the province.

"Any step towards making cigarettes less appealing or readily accessible to young people is a step forward."

For more information about tobacco issues or the Health Unit's cessation workshops, call Health Line / Appel-santé at 930-7080 or 1-800-267-0852.

Local Woman Steps Up To The Challenge

St. Anne de Prescott's Karen Nagy-Boulay discovered a way to connect with her new community and to fuel her passion, by putting one foot in front of the other- literally.

"I was out for a walk with my son and it just clicked: A women's power walking group" says Nagy-Boulay. That was just over a year ago. This month, the group welcomed 34 members to its second session.

The certified aqua fitness instructor is quick to credit the support and direction of one of the first people to hear of her ambitions: Lyne Lacroix, of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit's Hawkesbury office. A home visitor with the health unit's Healthy Babies, Healthy Children program (SEE SIDEBAR), Lacroix met with Nagy-Boulay who was having difficulties breastfeeding newborn son Noah.

"It's not unusual for new moms to be overwhelmed or a little out of sorts, especially at the beginning. But it can be even more stressful if you're new to the area and you don't know who to turn to," says Lacroix. It was while talking about that isolation, that Lacroix learned of Nagy-Boulay's "secret ambition," and put her in touch with another health unit initiative: the Healthy Rhythm Coalition.

And while the health benefits of power walking are many (SEE SIDEBAR), Nagy-Boulay is equally proud of the group's other benefits. "The group is an ideal way for women of all ages and backgrounds to meet, socialize in a friendly, healthy environment-in heir own backyard," says the former Montrealer.

It's important, she says, that women have a place where they feel secure and comfortable.

"It's a women's group because women's issues differ from men's issues. But it's not about being exclusive, it's about being inclusive." The group also focuses on the "inner strengthening through education and exploration."

The "complete wellness for all women concept" includes Tae-bo style aerobics, and guest speakers, such as health unit nutritionists.

For more information about the Power Walking Club, contact Nagy-Boulay at 674-3272, or boulay@hawk.igs.net. For information about the Healthy Babies, Healthy Children call 1-800-267-0852.

National Child Day

November 20th, 1999, marks the 7th anniversary of National Child Day. In 1993 the Government of Canada designated November 20th as National Child Day to commemorate two historic United Nations events; the adoption of The Declaration of the Rights of the child November 20th, 1959 and the adoption of the Convention on the Rights of the Child November 20th, 1989 and this year marks the Conventions 10 year anniversary and gives us great reason to celebrate.

Here in Cornwall we will be celebrating for the 5th year. Our City Council has proclaimed November 20th, 1999, National Child Day within the city limits. We invite everyone to come and join in the celebrations. Look for our clowns delivering balloons to our sponsors all over town, they will also be visiting the sick children and the newborn babies at the Hotel Dieu Hospital. There will be radio interviews on Blaze November 18th with students from East Front Public from 9 to 10am. On November 19th and 20th, C.H.O.D. FM will do an interview with students from Marie Tanguay and Notre Dame from 10 to 11am.

The Trouble With Television

H.B. KANTERS

There are many things I do not understand about television, both the actual shows and the way things are scheduled. Like all true Canadians, I spend an enormous amount of time watching TV and I don't pretend I don't. But I never seem to catch the same shows most of my friends talk about, maybe that's because I rely on a good, old-fashioned antenna stuck on the roof. This gives me CTV from Toronto and CFCF from Montreal, the whole CBC network, TVOntario and three US based PBS stations, besides four different cable channels which I get by turning the antenna. Then there are at least four French stations coming in loud and clear, so I have decided not to make my TV-watching more difficult by getting a dish hooked half-way up the TV-tower for all the neighbours to see. Let them think I am behind the times, the truth is there already is too much choice for people like me. If I were a sports fan or addicted to movie watching, then I would think differently, of course. The way it is right now though, I turn on the TV mostly when I'm doing something else, such as cooking, rearranging furniture or shelves, cleaning out the pantry, that sort of thing. If I hear something interesting I move closer to the TV for a few minutes, then go back to what I was doing. Most of my chores of daily living get done this way.

All my adult life I have been one of those early to bed, early to rise people, which means no late night news for me. I don't understand why anyone would tune in at eleven just to hear about all the bad things that happened nationwide on this day. This is not to offend Lloyd Robertson, I agree with those who say he should be our next Governor General because whatever that man says, people believe it's the gospel truth.

What makes television different for me is that I do not consider it entertainment which is probably due to the fact that we did not have one until I was seventeen. Having the outside world brought into the living-room therefore has always been a learning opportunity. This is why I do not understand television comedy with the exception of Tim the Tool-man Taylor. He's like a lot of men I have known.

Sometimes I think about how it is possible that our society pays so much attention to the things we put into our mouths (food), and onto our bodies (clothes), and hardly anyone notices the garbage that constantly assails our eyes and ears via TV and radio. I know for a fact there are people who turn on the TV before they even say good morning to other family members. What does that say about a person's priorities in life? There's an interesting self-test in one of the second-year university psychology courses: do not turn on your television for five consecutive days and record your observations at bed-time each of those days. Most of us can not do this, for we are truly addicted.

According to reliable surveys, Canadians watch an average of forty hours of TV a week, up to six hours per day. I'm sure my set is often on much longer than that, but this does not mean I sit there and stare at it. The only time I do sit there and stare at it is when the PBS stations show those beautifully photographed nature shows, especially if it's underwater photography. Recently they aired Richard Attenborough's series on BIRDS and I actually saw most of those shows twice, on different channels. Every so often I think about getting a big-screen TV just because of those kinds of shows, and there is proof positive of my particular addiction - well executed colour photography.

It's a bit strange that so many people lie about the time they spend watching television. Could it be those are the same people who talk about reading a great deal? The time you spend in either of those activities isn't nearly as important as just what it is you are reading or staring at for hours at a time. Content is what counts, for a television program can lift the human spirit and inspire us as much as good music can, while the exact opposite is also true. This is why it's so important that parents monitor their children's television hours.

In the past few years there have been many changes relating to the control of the airwaves and the difficulty we experience because of proximity to US television. While all of this is very real, the truth of the 200-channel universe still is that we all have the power to choose. It may be disheartening that several cable channels send out what I consider obnoxious music around the clock, and others present a steady diet of pornography, but actually none of that has anything to do with my life, my reality. When all is said and done, I find it much easier to turn off that TV set than to drive past Tim Horton's on a windy day.

37 Students Share $7,400 in Bursaries

At the annual meeting of the Masonic Association of Eastern District, held recently in Cornwall, $200 bursaries were awarded to 37 local students.

The Masonic Bursary Program has been providing Bursaries to local students for the past 35 years. In keeping with the basic principles upon which Freemasonry is founded, Bursaries are available to students, irrespective of race, colour, creed or religion, who are pursuing post secondary education, up to and including Bachelor level of education, and whose home residence is within the boundaries of Eastern Masonic District.

At this same meeting, The Dundas Chapter of the Heart & Stroke Foundation was presented with a cheque in the amount of $4,330 which represents its share of a Duck Race, operated as a Joint Venture with the Masons, held at Iroquois, Ontario, earlier this year.

When The Well's Dry We Know the Worth of Water

If you could put all the water in the world in a 10-gallon container and you removed all the salt water, all the polluted water, and all the frozen water in glaciers and icebergs, you'd have only 9 drops of useable water left.

Iroquois Water has been providing a rapidly growing family of customers with pure spring water. Since its beginning, Iroquois Water has successfully combined state of the art technology and its commitment to preserving the purity of its ancient spring water source to become the premier supplier of bottled spring water in Eastern Ontario.

Iroquois Water operates on principles as clear and simple as the water that is bottles; quality comes first, customer service is a priority, and fast delivery, flexibility and efficiency are traditions on which wholesalers, retailers, and direct customers can depend. As a community minded participant, Iroquois Water has committed itself to ensuring its involvement with community minded efforts.

Night, Lights & Ice For Santa Claus Parade

The skirl of bagpipes, the beating of drums, the sounds of brass bands. They will all be bathed in a spectacular shimmer of lights as the Chamber of Commerce' traditional Santa Claus Parade presents its first ever evening affair. Starting at 6:30p.m. from the Cornwall Civic Complex, it promises to be one of the best Parades ever.

"Parade organizers and participants alike are excited about having an evening event", reports Parade Chair Calvin Killoran. "Not only that, businesses and residents along the route will be part of the parade and can win prizes by doing so. This year, Scotiabank is recognizing the best decorated business and Pommier Jewelers will award a special prize to the best decorated home".

Parade organizers are anticipating a huge public response along the parade route which begins at the Civic Complex, runs east to Marlborough, north to Second, west to York then south to Water Street and back to the Complex. They'll be looking to see every house and business along the route festooned with tastefully arrayed lights and decorations. Unfortunately, fire eater Sergio Booteeno, originally scheduled to perform at this year's parade, will not be able to attend.

There's much more to this year's parade than lights, bands and floats. Moms and Dads are invited to bring the whole family to the Ed Lumley arena, immediately following the parade for skating, hot chocolate, candy canes, and other treats. It will be a wonderful family way to round out such a special evening.

The night time splendour of the 1999 Santa Claus parade promises to capture the hearts and imagination of the entire community. Be sure to bring the family out early and find a great spot to view the entire show.

Chamber Seeks 1999 Citizen of the Year

One of the most prestigious awards bestowed on Cornwall's citizens is the "Citizen of the Year". The Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations for the 29th such person to be named for 1999.

Each year we receive a number of extremely worthy candidates for this honour," explained Chamber President Brian Gilmour. "The awards committee must carefully weigh the contributions of each one and then make its decision. With so many worthy people in our community, the committee has a monumental task as it makes its selection."

The candidate chosen as "Citizen of the Year" is measured against a number of criteria. Generally speaking, those who have been selected in the past were chosen because of excellence in community service and because they substantially enhanced the health and well being of both the City and the citizens who live here.

"Past winners have much in common," continued Gilmour. "They have all given selflessly of themselves, spending countless hours in activities which helped others and made Cornwall a better place to work and to live. Their contributions were generously given without a single thought towards personal or financial gain. In fact, many of them sacrificed much so others would benefit."

Nomination forms for the "Citizen of the Year" are available from the Cornwall Chamber of Commerce. By telephoning 933-4004 and making a request, a form will be mailed. They can also be picked up at the Chamber office at 55 Water Street, Suite 130.

National Child Day Nov. 20th

"National Child Day is simply a gentle reminder to try to break from our hectic schedules and enjoy some quality time with our children."

*Create a family time capsule, and include items important to each family member.

*Invite grandparents or relatives over, along with their own baby photos, for a "matching" game.

*Read a book, take a walk, listen to music together.

Maynard's Independent Grocer Recognized

Awarded by the Canadian Federation of Independent Grocers.

The Canadian Federation of Independent Grocers announced on November 1st the 1999 winners of the Independent Grocer of the Year Awards at its annual Awards Gala Evening at Grocery Showcase Canada '99 in Toronto.

MAYNARD

Among this select group of independents who have distinguished themselves from thousands of retail grocery operations throughout the country is Maynard's Independent Grocer in Cornwall. Bruce Maynard and staff were awarded the National Gold Award in the large surface category (more than 20,000 square feet), making their Maynard's Independent Grocer Canada's best overall large surface independent grocery store.

The Independent Grocer of the Year Awards Program is in its 19th year and was created to recognize Canada's outstanding independent grocery stores.

Grocery Showcase '99 is presented by the Canadian Federation of Independent Grocers (CFIG), a non-profit trade association founded in 1962.

MUSIC UPDATE

Paul McCartney "Run Devil Run" EMI. A pure Paul McCartney rock and roll album featuring energetic renditions of oldies but goodies from Elvis' "All Shook Up" to Rick Nelson's "Lonesome Town" which the lads performed nightly at various gigs as the Quarrymen in the late '50s. Rock on!

Nigel Kennedy "The Kennedy Experience" Sony Classical. Violinist extraordinaire Nigel Kennedy has just released a personal album inspired by one of this century's most important creators, Jimi Hendrix. The music (Purple Haze, Fire,...) is vividly coloured, almost garish in its bright, dazzling effects.

Yvan BRUNET

Tori Amos "To Venus and Back" WEA. A uniquely conceived 2-CD set boasting new Tori Amos songs as well as in-concert highpoints from her 1998 "Plugged" world tour. Check out "Bliss" concerning the relationship between father and daughter as well as the beautiful love song "1000 Oceans" glistening with liquid synths.

Mindy McReady "I'm Not So Tough" RCA. A third offering from country singer Mindy McCready, filled with songs that help her convey her vision of women as equal, direct and strong. The first single "All I Want Is Everything" is a jangly, Buddy Holly-style tune with defiant lyrics. The remaining tracks are equally poignant and youthful.

Dave Harris "Going Home" Slim Chance. Toronto-raised singer-songwriter Dave Harris is one-man-band in the tradition of Jesse "Lone Cat" Fuller. His new album boasts original material as well as heartfelt renditions of works by Big Bill Broonzy, Tampa Red and the like. A must-buy for folk-blues aficionados.

John Ottman "Goodbye Lover" Milan. "Goodbye Lover" (the movie) is a wry look at life starring Patricia Arquette. John Ottman's music score for full orchestra recalls Alfred Hitchcock's films whose music intended to chill.

Elvis Presley "The '68 Comeback Special" RCA. This double album sports earthy, no-frills, previously unreleased material recorded live in some 1968 sit-down sessions with Elvis singing, playing, talking, joking and reminiscing with friends. There are moments.

John Berry "Wildest Dreams" Universal/Lyric Street. Country artists John Berry has the ability to convey passsion and emotion in his songs as witnessed on this fourth studio album. Check out the first single "Power Windows" a cover of a Billy Falcon hit.

Various Artists "Woodstock '99" Epic. Music fans turned up 250,000 strong last July in Rome, New York along with some of the biggest names in rock and roll to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Woodstock Festival. Think of it as a festival for Generation X and Y with entertainment by Metallica, Korn, Red Hot Chili Peppers and the like. All in all, a 2CD set boasting 48 fiery tracks for those so inclined.

EDITORIAL OPINION

PERSPECTIVE

"Free Speech" At City Hall

There is more than meets the simplistic eye in the issue of "free speech" for employees at City Hall.

As newsreaders will know, the city is drafting a policy to allow its staff the "right" to publicly criticize council decisions.

Bob
ROTH

The issue was formally raised by Councillor Korey Kennedy who put forward a motion that council allow its employees more latitude in publicly uttering their opinions on council positions and policy.

The motion was a outgrowth of incidents where some city staff did speak out and were warned (and even punished) by City Hall for offering their unflattering opinions.

While the knee-jerk reaction among some journalists has been to greet this motion with unqualified support as a major victory for "free speech," I think it is important to not oversimplify the principles at stake here.

There is a dilemma: city staff have a dual role to play, that of citizens of the municipality and that of loyal employees. There are rules of behavior — according to tradition and English Common Law — that apply to employee/employer relationships.

For example, if an employee at Zellers or Canadian Tire were to make public comments critical of the way his or her employer was doing business, it would be grounds for dismissal. Employees are expected, by law, not to undermine their employers' business.

In other words, you're not supposed to bite the hand that feeds you.

Employees, by the very nature of their jobs, often have access to special or privileged information. They are entrusted with this knowledge on the basis that they will be loyal to their employer and not use it to damage the employer's business or reputation. Again, abuse of this trust is grounds for dismissal.

For any organization to operate at maximum efficiency, it is important that the relationship between employer and employee be one of mutual trust and respect (and that works both ways, to be sure).

It is difficult to believe that employer/employee relations at City Hall would improve if Tom, Dick and Jane wrote critical letters-to-the-editor after every council meeting telling their bosses what a bunch of bozos they were (as true as those statements might be).

In short, the difficulty for City Hall is to develop a staff policy on "free speech" that can reconcile the dual — and sometimes conflicting — roles that public employees have.

Would every passing comment made by a manager in the workplace be fodder for public commentary in next day's newspaper?

What about the release of privileged information, or access to information not normally available to the general public?

Should employees be allowed to criticize only council decisions, or could they criticize individual councillors?

What if subordinate staffers disagreed with a departmental recommendation to council? Would those employees be allowed to publicly criticize the recommendation of their boss — and even question his or her competency?

Could subordinate staff issue critical news releases every week outlining alternatives to their own department's policies?

Would management be allowed to respond via counter news releases?

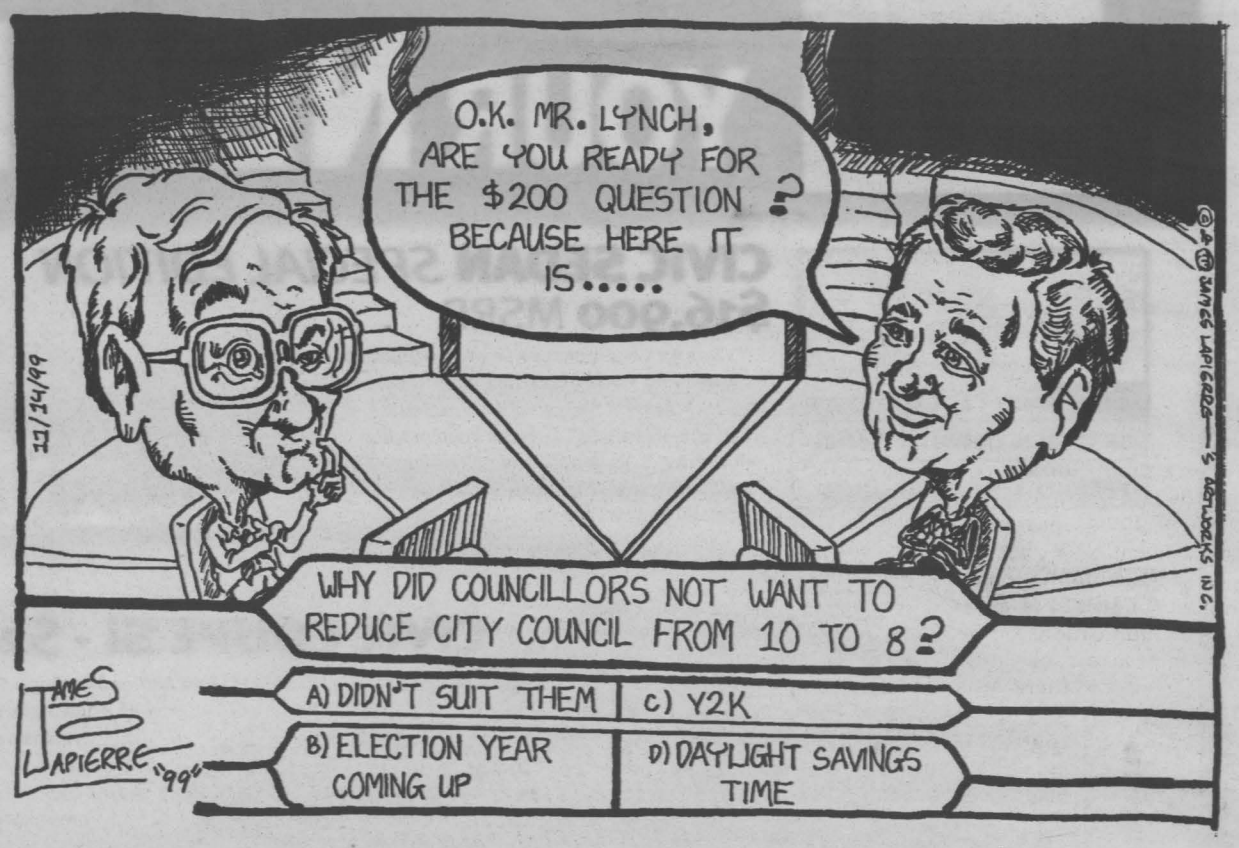
What about an employee about to be dismissed for incompetency making a public statement highly critical of council policy; it would be the "perfect" defence.

Would free-for-all verbal warfare between employees and senior management enhance the City's image — or its ability to function efficiently?

Or would mistrust, hiding of information and a general breakdown in respect seriously reduce the City's ability to do business efficiently?

This matter is not as simple as it may appear on the surface.

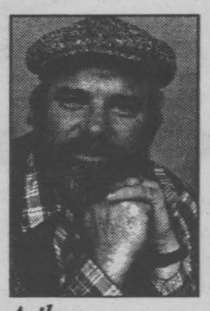
I wish council and staff the best of luck in coming up with a workable policy.



BASIC BLACK

Heard Any Good Books Lately?

Many years ago the media guru Marshall McLuhan said something typically cryptic that translated as "books are dead".



Arthur
BLACK

I laughed and laughed. The book? Dead? What an idiot. I had a garage sale last Saturday and now I'm wondering if McLuhan wasn't on to something.

You see, I've had this set of Encyclopedia Americana that I've been lugging around for the past quarter of a century. Thirty-six volumes. I've moved house a half dozen times in those 25 years and each time I've lovingly packed up my Encyclopedias and risked a hernia getting them to my next destination. There I would once again, lovingly unpack them and set them up in their own bookcase.

I carried those books with me like a beloved pet. I dusted them. I displayed them proudly. What I didn't do is read them.

Not for at least the past five years, anyway. I'm on the Internet now, which is a whole lot faster and more in depth than my Encyclopedias were. Besides, the fact that I'd had them for twenty-five years meant that - while they still contained a galaxy of knowledge - they weren't terribly current.

So, with great reluctance I packed them into three cardboard boxes and consigned them to the Garage Sale.

I wasn't expecting to make a lot of money out of them even though I paid a bundle for those books when they were new. I just hoped they would go to a good home -- somewhere that kids could paw through them and discover the delights of reading without having to go to a library.

What the hell, I thought, it's a garage sale. I'll let them go for twenty-five bucks.

Garage sales are a full-contact sport where I live. The early birds showed up at dawn and by 9 AM bargain hunters were swarming down the driveway and fingering the goods. In the first hour we had lots of folks and they bought all matter of gew gaws and junk that's been cluttering up my house for too long. But nobody so much as glanced at the Encyclopedias.

It wasn't that they were illiterate - they gobbled up all the paperbacks I had on sale. Maybe - incredible as it seems - twenty-five bucks is too much to ask, I thought. I got out the magic marker and slashed the price to ten dollars.

"Ten dollars for 36 hard-cover volumes containing more knowledge than anyone could expect to accumulate in a lifetime" I muttered. "Somebody's going to get a bargain."

Two hours later I slashed the price to $8:00. Then $5:00. By the end of the day all we had left for sale was one wonky floor lamp, an inflatable kid's swimming pool that needed work; and a couple of shirts too ugly even for bargain hunters.

And oh yes - 36 volumes of the Encyclopedia Americana - even though I had scrawled FREE - TO A GOOD HOME! -where the price tag used to be.

Nobody wanted my Encyclopedias - even as a gift. I couldn't believe it. So I loaded them into the back of my car and took them down to the local Thrift Shop. I'd just unloaded the second box when I spotted the sign by the shop door. It read: "Please note that we cannot accept ripped or torn clothing, broken furniture or sets of Encyclopedias."

Grubby paperbacks by John Grisham or Danielle Steele they'll take. Dog-eared copies of classic Greek or Roman poets they can use, but beautifully bound sets of Encyclopedias? Sorry.

Wasn't long after that that I came across an item in the paper headlined: ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA GOES ON LINE FOR FREE. The story explained that the company, which has been producing the books since 1768, realized that it 'was becoming a dinosaur in the computer age. So they plopped all of their accumulated information - 44 million words, 33,000 pages - up on their website - free. They figure they'll make money by selling advertising and seeking sponsorship.

"We have decided our value depends on the number of people we reach. With one click, we can reach the whole world. In book terms, we would have to print and distribute six billion copies."

Good news for our forests, I guess - but I still don't think McLuhan was right. Books aren't dead - dead things decay.

And my 36 volume edition of Encyclopedia Americana show no signs of that. Unfortunately.

MEANWHILE

Why Are So Many Politicans So Stupid?

Fred SAGEL

Why are so many politicians so stupid?

That's right. You heard it correctly. The word is stupid.

In all the years I've studied politics, and watching politicians, I can honestly say that there are few people bright and capable enough to really make a difference in the political arena. Most people that enter it are not qualified and usually deserve the public's wrath.

As Pierre Trudeau--somebody who did meet the qualifications easily--once remarked: "When these guys (meaning MPs) get 100 feet away from Parliament Hill, they're all nobodies." He's right: most politicians are people who couldn't get a decent job that equalled their stay at the public trough.

And please don't give me all the nonsense about how difficult public life can be: I already know that. If you go into politics with an ideological zest, that won't matter. Unfortunately, most politicians are people without an agenda who hate being criticized. Too bad for them.

Take NDP leader Howard Hampton, probably the best example of somebody who's lost in the game. Here's a fellow who would really have a hard time making it in private life. Both his brainpower and work abilities are limited. As an acquaintance of mine who worked with him in the Attorney General's office once said: "You wouldn't want this guy working for you as a junior in your law office."

It is too bad that the ultra-competent Bob Rae was replaced by such a third-rater in his own party.

Mr. Hampton proved just how stupid and inept he is last week when he accused Ontario Environment Minister Tony Clement of thinking spousal assault was a matter of humor and showed widespread bad attitude in the Tory caucus.

What absolute rubbish. Too bad even the normally half-witted Francis Lankin of the NDP joined in. It shows what you'll do to get power.

Here's what happened: While being grilled in Question Period about a land development deal (something that in itself warrants questioning) NDP leader Hampton and the witless Ms. Lankin couldn't hit upon anything concrete, so they decided to ask silly questions.

Well, the silly questions elicited an equal silly answer from Mr. Clement: "I am not beating my wife, I can assure the Honourable Member of that."

Quite a witty answer. It was deserving of the stupid questions from both the NDP and the Liberal opposition whose benches are both sorely lacking in brains and finesse. (I mean, can you name one single member in that motley crew who has both?)

Not that there are a great number of erudite Conservatives either. Public life has a way of elevating otherwise incompetents by electing them. But the front bench of the Conservative Party is, by and large, quite capable.

The hapless Mr. Hampton was caught at his own game. Unable to come up with anything concrete and lacking in substance, he thought he would try and pin the minister with some sort of joking about wife abuse when, in fact, his comments had absolutely nothing to do with them.

At least Liberal leader Dalton McGunity had the good sense to stay out of this one. He didn't engage the NDP fanatics (and thank God they won't be running this province for a good long time) in their own game.

Why don't they go about their business and stop all of this silliness? People like Howard Hampton and Francis Lankin give politicians a bad name. It just reinforces in people's minds what jackasses they can be when they get to Queen's Park.

Here, in the trenches, where we admire politicians who are quick-witted and talented (the few there are) this sort of thing is sheer rubbish.

Buzz about "Buzz"

Basil "Buzz" Hargrove shows himself to be a master of understatement.

Appearing before the Senate committee on transportation and communications, the astute labor leader observed there was "a bit of controversy --heh, heh," over his endorsement of the Onex bid to take over Air Canada. As well, there "wouldn't be a consensus" on his stand from the 10,000 union members who work for the airline, noted Hargrove, as we imagined him picking feathers from the tar on his union-made jacket.

The envelope, please

Unfortunately Heritage Minister Sheila Copps, Reform leader Preston Manning, Deputy Prime Minister Herb Gray and other political notables who made cameo appearances on Canadian TV programs this year were not acknowledged at the recent Gemini awards ceremony. Neither were the following productions for which we offer our reviews. They in no way are presented simply because the House of Commons wasn't sitting for the week and there was little happening on the Hill. Trust us! And the non-nominees are:

Best Instructional film

Tears Are Not Enough: An "Idiot's" guide to filing income tax returns. Produced by Revenue Canada in cooperation with certified idiots. Three thumbs up.

Best Foreign Film

Focus on the Far East: A CIDA-funded documentary on the Maritimes. Investigative reporters infiltrate secret training ground of Celtic fiddlers on Cape Breton Island. Narrated by NDP leader Alexa McDonough and home-grown musician Ashley McIsaac.

Best Defence Department Documentary

Chariots of Fire II: The story of Canada's aging Labrador and Sea King helicopters and the brave pilots who fly them. Includes clip of Defence Minister Art Eggleton in House of Commons admitting that the 35-year-old Sea King helicopters have some ignition problems "...when they start them on the ground."

Best Farm Film

Top Crops: Equipment seizures and farm foreclosures prompt disgruntled Saskatchewan farmers to enlist the help of a crack team of custom combiners from North Dakota. Together they rid the province of federal Liberals once and for all. Then they go to work on the gophers.

Best Free Trade Film

The Mex-files: The truth about the Free Trade Agreement is out there somewhere. Agent Pierre Pettigrew, disguised as Canada's International Trade Minister, tells everyone he's found concrete evidence that aliens are benefiting from the FTA. As with his other claims about the universal advantages of the deal, no one believes him.

Best Made-in-Canada Sci-fi

ET admitted to ER, eh?: Viewer warning. Contains material not recommended by SRAAFE, the Society for the Removal of All Acronyms from the Face of the Earth.

Best Quebec Film (closed-captioning in French [huge, bold lettering] and English [miniscule, unreadable type])

The Pretender: Quebec Premier Lucien Bouchard meets with fellow head of state, U.S. President Bill Clinton. Pair discuss common interests, including the War of 1812.

Best "Sleeper"

The Sigh Factor: A day in the life of the Senate. Warning: Drowsiness may occur. Do not drive or work with mechanical equipment for at least two hours after viewing.

Other non-nominees at the Geminis were Bay Watch (a sequel to Eatons Watch), Law and Disorder (a Reform Party favorite) and The Outa limits (clips of House Speaker Gib Parent repeatedly calling MPs to be "judicious in your choice of words").

In the also-didn't-run category were memorable non-winners like The Malpractice, Dawson's Squeak, Ally McBile, Hollywood Scares, Saturday Night Slime and Due Souse.

But cheer up. There's always next year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Venting Frustration

Dear Editor:

My wife tells me all the time that if something or someone bothers you it is good to write it on paper to help relieve the stress, so dear, I am taking your advice.

What is this constant need to hire consultants? What is the problem? Our councillors cannot think on their own, that they have to spend money to hire outside help. Whatever a unionized worker received as an increase in his salary in the last ten years is what a non union employee should receive, no more no less. If within those ten years a non unionized employee received an increase in his salary above that of other workers, then his salary should be rolled back.

A consultant was hired to help with recommendations in ways to improve the east end. He focused on our strengths and weaknesses and not once did he ever mention that maybe, just maybe, that the presence of no less than ten bars in a community of less than two thousand citizens may be a negative factor. On the contrary, a recommendation was made that maybe we should have a liquor store to go with the ten bars.

Everytime I turn around one of my friends or relatives is being gouged because his no corrode sewer line has collapsed. What are we paying water and sewer taxes for? Why do we not hire a crew of workers just to contend with this problem? Have the City hire five men just to work on sewer lines year round. Have an insurance tax added to our sewer bill of twenty dollars a year to pay for these employees. Councillors, homeowners are living in fear when you hear that some homeowners are being billed anywhere from two to fifteen thousand dollars for repairing a sewer line.

Councillors, you have a duty to the citizens to come up with a solution to this problem, which in some cases burdens many of our good people. The city is in no position to profit at anytime when hardships befall citizens of the friendly city. As a good gesture on the part of the City it would be in their best interest to roll back taxes on homeowners who were forced to pay for sewer repairs in the last ten years. How can you expect a senior citizen on a fixed income or a young couple just starting out to cope with the additional stress of something that they have no control over?

Councillors, put yourself in their shoes. Make this a priority.

Yours truly,

Marcel Lepage,
Cornwall Ontario

The Children's Wish Foundation of Canada 1999 Poker Run

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Children's Wish Foundation of Canada, I would like to thank Seaway News for your advertising of the recently held Spokes & Mags Poker Run; only through the generosity of merchants, such as yourselves, can we have such a successful poker run. To date, a total of $18,235.74 was raised this year.

The demand for wishes from children with illnesses with no known cure continues to grow. Thanks to thoughtful people such as yourselves, we have never had to refuse a wish because of lack of funds. For those of us who work with the Children's Wish Foundation, our dream is that one day the "wish phone" will stop ringing, that medical technology will have advanced to the point where our kids can be cured and experience a full and adventurous life where they can live to their full potential. But until that day happens, Children's Wish will be there to help make dreams come true.

From our special children, their parents and all of us involved with the foundation, our heartfelt thanks.

The Children's Wish Foundation of Canada

MOX Fuel Safety

Dear Editor:

If the Black Box Recorder in a commercial aircraft can survive intact the crash of that aircraft from 40,000 feet, what danger is there in the transportation of a small vial of MOX fuel that never leaves this earth and is even more strongly enclosed than a Black Box Recorder?

Yours truly,
John A. McDonald,
Cornwall, Ontario

Is it a Contradiction to the Citizens of Cornwall?

To the Editor:

Mayor Brian Sylvester's courage, energy and passion for speaking out against the shipment of MOX fuel to Cornwall is something to be commended. However, I am feeling somewhat confused as to his silence on the incineration of PCB's. Is it because he was too busy to comment on incineration or was it intentional or was it because of economic development (Jobs)? I invite Mayor Sylvester to explain this contradiction to the citizens of Cornwall. The silence of city councillors on the issue of PCB incineration is confusing as well. Korey Kennedy is known for not being part of a club, was he also too busy to comment on PCB incineration or was there another reason? Claude Poirier stated publicly he did not want to comment on Dr. Bourdeau's testimony re: MRR hearing until he had time to study the report on incineration. Still waiting, Claude, for your position. I am sure that other councillors have their reasons for being silent as well. I also invite them to state their position publicly on the issue of PCB incineration. Will they remain part of the confusion? Will they take a leadership role and state their position or will they remain silent?

The demonstration of natives group against the MOX fuel shipment was more than welcomed and I thank them for their courage to take such action. They have said publicly that they would resist the shipment of MOX fuel including human resistance. I feel somewhat confused by their actions as well. Have they forgotten the PCB's? Will they be resisting the incineration of PCB including demonstrating at the MRR gate? Will they take a leadership role and resist the first shipment of PCB including human resistance?

I was impressed that some residents of Cornwall participated in the demonstration on MOX fuel shipment. Will we be as passive as ever and accept incineration of PCB's?

Keep Christ in Christmas

To the Editor:

I am a person who has lived in three different provinces and a good many years besides. In these years, I have made many lasting friendships.

I am particular in choosing cards for these dear friends and Christmas cards are very special.

Recently, I ordered three boxes of cards from a well known company. Have I lost the meaning of what Christmas is all about? I was amazed when I received my order and glanced through the cards. There were several in each box of big polar bears, penguins and bears, Santas on polar bears, eight large faces of Santa Claus and eight Fatman and Robin. Not one of them had a scripture verse! Fatman was a Santa Claus. If you went by these cards, you would not know that Jesus was ever born.

I have returned the most objectionable of these cards to the company with a letter stating my disappointment.

Wake up everyone and let's keep Christ in Christmas.

Cultural Pride

Dear Editor:

Rule of language for French only services, in Cornwall has increased. Ontario residents assume a name called Francophone, suggesting and enforcing French with excuse of their culture survival. This latter culture survival, used for employment of Francophones only and overwhelmingly in Post Office, all trades, library, receptionists, sales people, administrative, school boards, etc. Francophonie is combative must be abolished, assimilation of Ontario residents, described as Francophonie and employment practices, with French language required, is illegal.

The most prominent Francophone, Mr. Jean Chretien, current Prime Minister of Canada, should repeal enforced Bilingual in Canada.

Cultural pride is a disguise to dismiss 30 nurses in Ottawa hospital with 30 Quebec unilingual nurses. Mr. Jean Chretien is a Francophone, his record is clear Assimilation is the mandate.

Wayne Gretzky should take up the liberal party leadership. Celine Dion should unseat separatists in their next election.

Our Canada deserves credible leadership.

P.V. Nathan,
Cornwall, Ontario

The Effects of PCB's

Dear Editor:

The environment assessment hearings are nearly over and a decision on MRR's application to burn PCB's etc., from the U.S.A., could be made in 6 to 8 weeks.

A prominent doctor in Cornwall is supporting this motion, despite a recent survey which shows people in Cornwall are indeed already less healthy than the provincial average.

Lung Cancer is a full 1/3 worse, Heart Attacks for women is 12% to 13% higher.

He sites social and economic factors contributing to the mortality rate. Less with Grade 9, less still here have attended university, fewer jobs, and family incomes about 1/4 less than the provincial average.

OK, so we pay $8.00 for a haircut instead of $16.00 or $24.00 like in Toronto, and we pay a buck or two to park our cars, not $10.00.

Does that mean our lifestyle is killing us? I think not! You'd think the high stress of life in Toronto and area would cause more heart attacks.

The doctor says we should trust people. This implies to "acceptance of something as true or reliable without, being able to verify it." (Websters Dictionary quoted here). PCB's will accept our air quality here, whether just a little occasionally, or a lot when the unexpected happens.

James Ransom represents the Natives and points out that he has only seen one paragraph on PCB water contamination.

What message are we trying to send out here. Come and tour our fine city and dine on local perch and corn in the PCB burning capital of the world? I can't believe council represents citizens of Cornwall when inviting this kind of industry.

Maybe country folk are smarter. Remember how they opposed the proposed Mega-Dumps? People in remote areas had their voices heard.

Have we not matured since the rendering plant days at Seventh & Cumberland? Carcasses of dead animals were trucked into town from all over the three united counties to be burned.

Oh sure, PCB's won't smell as much, and it won't look so bad. Well, beauty is only skin deep. We know what is inside, a pandora's box you don't want to open.

Someone has to burn the PCB's eh! Well, let someone else burn them. Those Americans who made them can burn them in their own backyards. Let's sell them the technology.

Just say NO! Say more than that. Let's hear what you think.

Yours truly,
Raven Van Leishout,
Cornwall, Ontario

Experts in Heritage Conservation To Attend Meeting in Cornwall

Cornwall LACAC has arranged for experts in heritage conservation to attend what may be one of the most important heritage information meetings to be held in Cornwall in recent years. It is all part of an initiative by the Cornwall Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC) to have Sydney Street between First and Sixth Street designated as a heritage district with the support of property owners and approval of City Council.

During a meeting earlier this year hosted by LACAC for Sydney Street residents, there were some property owners who still had questions regarding heritage designation. These and other questions will be covered at an information meeting to be held Saturday 13 November from 10:00 am to 1:00 pm in the Multi Purpose Room of the Cornwall Public Library. Stuart Lazear, Senior Heritage Planner with the City of Ottawa, will speak on district designation - the process, the implications and the benefits. He will also answer questions on what a designation really means for property owners.

Recently a study was released that could open the door to even further progress regarding designation. The study, conducted by Dr. Robert Shipley, University of Waterloo Professor of Urban Planning, concludes that if designation has any effect on real estate value, it is a positive one. Contrary to popular opinion, Dr. Shipley's study demonstrates there is no statistical evidence that recognizing the historical significance of a building has a negative influence on its resale value.

Trends in price histories of heritage properties were compared with the average market trend in each community studied and, in 74 percent of the cases, the heritage properties performed as well as or better than average. He notes that it doesn't seem to matter whether these properties were expensive, upscale houses or more modest buildings; they still do well in the market place when sold. "Interesting as well is the rate of sale," he noted. "Individually designated properties sold more often than the average. Perhaps most important of all is the fact that the prices of heritage properties seem to resist down turns in the real estate market."

All interested citizens are invited to bring their questions, comments, suggestions and concerns to the meeting. Cornwall LACAC will have available copies of the extensive historical research material that has been gathered as part of the work to date on the designation of Sydney Street as a heritage district.

Juicy News About Pasteurization

Vitamin and calcium-enriched, low pulp, no pulp----reading and understanding a juice label has become tricky stuff. Possibly the most important word on that label, however, is not even there. It's "pasteurized." Most juices and ciders sold in Canada have been pasteurized, and don't need to say so on the package. But unpasteurized juice must be clearly labeled.

"Consumers need to know if the juice they're buying has been pasteurized. If it hasn't, they must be aware of the possible health risks," says Jocelyne Sarault of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit.

The risks involved in drinking unpasteurized juice or cider include E. Coli contamination. Consuming even a small amount of this bacteria can cause stomach cramps, diarrhea, fever and vomiting. The symptoms usually show up within two to 10 days of drinking the contaminated beverage. It's especially dangerous for babies, children, the elderly and the frail.

The bacteria comes from animal manure that's been in contact with the fruit before picking or during processing.

For more information about unpasteurized juice or cider, please call Health Line/ Appel-santé at 930-7080 or 1-800-267-0852.

As The Years Pass

During the 20th century, Canada's military forces, merchant navy, police forces and other para-military and civilian-based organizations have participated in one or all of five wars and a multitude of peacekeeping or peace restoration missions with the United Nations and other allied formations.

More than 1.7 million Canadians volunteered to fight in the major wars and thousands more have served their nation in the pursuit of world peace.

More than 114,000 Canadians have given their lives in the cause of freedom and the pursuit of peace.

As the years pass, however, there are fewer and fewer visible reminders of the horrible toll that these wars, conflicts and missions have taken on the men and women of this nation.

As Veterans of the world wars and the Korean war grow fewer and fewer, there is a danger that the Remembrance of those who gave their lives will be an ideal that will fade.

Since 1925, the Royal Canadian Legion has been dedicated to the perpetuation of Remembrance of those who served and died in the service of this nation and the care of those who survived. As the largest Veterans'-based community service organization in Canada, the Legion continues to ensure that the sacrifices of the past are not forgotten. However, as our Veterans become fewer and fewer, new means will have to be found to foster that Remembrance in a positive and tangible manner.

As a joint millennium project with Veterans Affairs Canada, the Royal Canadian Legion has implemented the staging of the "2 Minute Wave of Silence" to mark the beginning of the end of the 1900's.

The implementation of this event on November 11th, 1999 provided a significant reminder to all Canadians of the sacrifices made by those who fought and died in the wars, conflicts and military peacekeeping missions of the 20th century.

The project's objective was to have all Canadians pause for two full minutes as the clock struck 11 a.m. on November 11th, 1999. The plan, in part, was to have cars and buses come to a halt, workers to lay down tools, students to stand by their desks, stock exchanges to fall silent, production lines to stop and electronic broadcasters to observe the silence for a full two minutes.

As Canada is a large country with six time zones it was deemed impossible to have a whole country pause at once. As well, the significance of actually observing a silence at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month is a very strong tradition. It was at this time in 1918 that the Armistice ending the horrors of World War I, "The War To End All Wars", as it was called.

The wave officially started in Newfoundland and rolled across the time zones gaining momentum as Canadians from all walks of life paused to remember the debt we owe our Veterans.

The custom of observing two minutes of silence for a nation's war dead originated after World War I, but since then it has almost been lost.

The "2 Minute Wave of Silence" is intended to bring back that meaningful gesture as Canadians close out a century of war and move to the millennium. This particular gesture should help ensure that the tradition of Remembrance will continue to be one with which Canadians will continue to identify and honour.

Recruitment Strategies for Small Business Owners

(NC)—Finding and hiring the right people is a key to success for any growing company. Small business owners have a better chance of tapping into the talent pool by starting with these proven recruitment strategies:

Know the job: Review a job's responsibilities to define the skills you need, as well as the opportunities you can offer. An advertisement listing key responsibilities and qualifications makes it clear to candidates what a job entails, and assures a more focused response.

"It is surprising, but many small employers don't have a clear idea of the desired components of the job they're trying to fill," says Earla Fitzjohn, a recruitment strategies advisor with Royal Bank.

Start from within: In Fitzjohn's experience, the "very best people" come from employee referrals. It helps that the applicant knows something about the hiring organization.

"They've heard the good and the bad from the referring employee and come to the job interview with realistic expectations," says Fitzjohn.

Half of the companies in a recent Royal Bank survey on recruitment trends have employee referral programs; some even offer cash incentives. A more informal approach can also work, and can be as simple as posting job openings on the lunch room bulletin board.

Advertise wisely: You may not have the resources to actively recruit on college campuses, but most post-secondary institutions have Internet sites where you can advertise positions. And, while advertising in major newspapers may not be in your budget, you may want to consider placing your ads in community or alternative papers. Not only is it less expensive, but you can target recruits from a specific area or community.

Royal Bank provides valuable information for business owners who are looking for help in developing a human resources strategy. This resource – The Definitive Guide to Managing Human Resources For Small Business Owners – is available free of charge at your local Royal Bank Business Banking Centre.

Intel Introduces New Processors

John LESTER

Well, it's happening again. That's right, your computer is out of date again. Intel has introduced a new batch of Pentium III processors that reach speeds of 733 MHz.

Actually it's really not that bad. The good news is that as the faster processor chips arrive on the market place the price of the chips that we regular people use drops. In the last couple of weeks the price of the Pentium III 600 processor dropped by about $200.

Intel also released the new Mobile Pentium III processors for the notebook models with speeds of up to 500 MHz. Intel's new .18 Micron process technology allows for faster processing with a cooler running chip, perfect for mobile computing.

Watch out for organic light-emitting diode displays (OLEDs) in flatbed monitors, which are still very much in their early development stage.

So said Paul Semenza, director of market analysis for San Jose, Calif.-based computer research firm Stanford Resources. "OLEDs produce light from organic materials that offer lower materials and manufacturing costs."

Liquid crystal displays (LCD), traditionally used in flatbed monitors for notebook computers and are made of glass, will eventually be replaced by OLED plastic material, he said.

During the next decade, LCD monitors will make serious inroads into where cathode-ray tube (CRT) monitors have been dominant, according Semenza. With the demand for larger monitors with better resolution and more data carrying capability, the smaller LCD becomes a more attractive candidate.

"Put an 18-inch LCD panel next to the 20-inch CRT monitor – the latter is quite a hefty box," Semenza said.

PLANNING YOUR FUTURE

Plan Ahead With A Spousal RRSP

Spousal RRSPs can be used as an effective way to reduce the combined income tax paid by you and your spouse during retirement when one spouse has a significantly higher income or a superior employer pension plan. If your spouse will be in a lower tax bracket at retirement, you can shift retirement income by contributing to a spousal RRSP. The money in a spousal RRSP belongs to the spouse, not the contributor. Any withdrawals are taxed in your spouse's hands (unless the withdrawal is in the year of contribution or the two years following, in which case the income is attributed back to you).

Mark McDERMID

When you contribute to a spousal RRSP, you get the tax deduction for the full amount contributed, up to your annual maximum, and the funds will be withdrawn at retirement by your spouse at his/her lower tax rate. The tax deduction is applied against your RRSP Deduction Limit for the year, not your spouse's. Your spouse may also make a contribution based on his or her own RRSP contribution limit for the year. You can contribute to a spousal plan as long as your spouse is still under age 69, you have qualifying earned income, and you have unused deduction room.

The example illustrates how a spousal RRSP can be used t lower the income tax paid when withdrawing RRSP savings during retirement.

The table shows the advantage of shifting $10,000. in income from Spouse A to Spouse B at marginal tax rates of 52% and 27% respectively. By shifting the income to the spouse in the lower tax bracket, the total tax amount is reduced, thereby increasing after-tax income by $2,500.

Mark McDermid is an independent financial advisor sponsored by Balanced Planning Investment Corp.

	Spouse A	Spouse B	Spousal RRSP Advantage
Taxable Retirement Income	$10,000	$10,000
Marginal Rax Rate	52%	27%
Total Tax	$5,200	$2,700	$2,500
After-tax Income	$4,800	$7,300	$2,500

What Happens During A Earthquake

If you are near the source of an earthquake, expect a loud bang followed by shaking. If you are farther away, the first warning may be a sudden noise, roar or swaying of the building you are in. Next, you will feel shaking, quickly followed by a rolling motion that rotates up, down and sideways. It's bound to be a frightening experience. A moderate earthquake may last only a few seconds. A large earthquake could last several minutes.

EARTHQUAKE MYTHS

An earthquake does not cause the earth to split open and swallow up people and neighbourhoods. Building do not automatically collapse, either. However, you could be hurt by shattered glass, falling objects and heavy objects thrown around by the shaking. Broken gas mains and fallen chimneys can cause fires. Downed power lines and broken water mains can also wreak havoc.

TIPS ON WHAT TO DO BEFORE AN EARTHQUAKE

- Prepare an emergency plan for your family and household
- If you live alone, develop a plan for yourself with links to neighbours and friends.
- Take a first aid course, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).
- Know the safe places to be "and where not to be" in your home during an earthquake.

Practise taking cover in the safe places.

- Safe places: under heavy tables or desks; inside hallways; corners of rooms or strong archways.
- Dangerous places: near windows or mirrors; under any heavy objects that can fall; the kitchen where the stove, refrigerator or contents of cupboards may fall on you; doorways where the shaking may slam the door on you.

PREPARE YOUR HOME FOR EARTHQUAKES

Go through your home imagining what could happen to each part of it, if shaken by a violent earthquake.

- Teach everybody in the family how to turn off the water and electricity.
- Clearly label the on-off position for the water, electricity and gas.
- If your home is equipped with natural gas: tie or tape the appropriate wrench on or near the pipe, to turn off the gas, if necessary. (Don't shut off the gas unless there is a leak or a fire. If the gas is turned off, don't turn it on again. That must be done by a qualified technician.)
- If you live in an apartment block or a multi-storey building, you may experience more sway and less shaking than in a smaller, single-storey building.
- Work with your building manager or condominium board to decide how best to "quake-safe" your unit. Seek advice from professionals (building engineers, architects, emergency preparedness authorities) if you are unsure about what to do).

CHECK FOR HOME HAZARDS

Previous earthquakes show that you have a better chance of surviving and minimizing damage to your home if you take the following preventive measures now:

- Make sure the house is bolted to its foundation.
- Make sure the walls are braced.
- Repair loose roof shingles.
- Make sure the chimneys are strong and well-braced.
- Tie down the water heater and other heavy appliances (stove, washer, dryer) that could break gas or water lines if they topple.
- Secure top-heavy furniture and shelving units to prevent tipping. Keep heavy items on lower shelves.
- Affix mirrors, paintings and other hanging object securely, so they won't fall off hooks.
- Locate beds and chairs away from chimneys and windows. Don't hang heavy pictures and other items over beds. Closed curtains and blinds will help stop broken window glass from falling on beds.
- Put anti-skid pads under TVs, VCRs, computers and small appliances or secure them with Velcro or other such product.
- Use child-proof or safety latches on cupboards to stop contents from spilling out.
- Keep flammable items and household chemicals away from heat and where they are less likely to spill.
- Put plywood up in the attic on joists around each chimney to help prevent bricks and mortar from coming through the ceiling. (Check clearances with your local fire department.)
- Discuss earthquake insurance with your insurance broker. Check your coverage. it could affect your financial ability to recover losses after an earthquake.

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF DURING AN EARTHQUAKE

- Practising and reading about what you should do during an earthquake will help you remain calm, be better prepared to protect yourself and help others. Identify safe spots in each room in your home. Reinforce this knowledge by physically placing yourself in the safe location. This is an especially important step for children.
- Wherever you are when the earthquake starts, take cover immediately and stay there until the shaking stops.

If indoors:

- Stay there. Don't run outside.
- Take cover under a heavy table, desk or any solid furniture and hold on.
- If in a hallway, crouch down against an inside wall.
- Avoid doorways. Doors may slam shut and cause injuries.
- Protect your head and face.
- Move away from windows, glass partitions, mirrors, fireplaces, bookcases, tall furniture, light fixtures.
- If in a wheelchair, lock the wheels and protect the back of neck and head.
- If in a hotel, keep shoes under the bed; clothes close by; consider travelling with a battery-powered radio and flashlight and extra batteries; identify the safest place in your hotel room to take shelter (such as under a table); read all material on safety provided in your room and not the emergency exits on your floor.
- Do not use elevators. If you're in an elevator during an earthquake, hit the button for every floor and get out as soon as you can.

If outdoors:

- Stay there. Try to move to a safe spot away from windows, buildings, overhead wires or telephone poles.

If you are in a vehicle:

- Try to pull over to a safe place. Try not to block the road. Park away from bridges, overpasses and buildings, if possible. Stay in the vehicle.

If you are in a crowded place:

- Try to take cover where you won't get trampled. If you are inside, don't run outside where you may be hit by falling debris. Sidewalks next to tall buildings are particularly dangerous. In shopping centres, try to take cover in the nearest store. Keep away from windows, skylights, and display shelves laden with heavy objects.

If at school:

- Get under a desk or table and hold on. Face away from windows.

If on a bus:

- Stay in your seat until the bus stops.

Wherever you are, expect the ground or floor to move violently. Take cover. If you can't take cover, sit down in a crouched position and protect your head and face from falling debris and splintering glass. Remain in a protected place until the shaking stops. Expect aftershocks they may occur for some time after the initial quake.

DANCES WITH WORDS

How I'll Make My Second Million

Nick WOLOCHATIUK

I would have already made my first million if there were some truth in the saying "A picture is worth a thousand words". Mr. Kodak, Mr. Fuji and Mr. Pentax are the ones who made their million, thanks to guys like me.

Most photographers get paid less for their efforts than waiters and pizza deliverers. At least they get tips. Photographers don't.

I've not yet met a publisher that I've been able to convince to make that saying come true. As a matter of fact, Statistics Canada has discovered that writers are even more under paid than photographers. Writers are the very lowest on the national salary scale. Pierre Burton is the rare exception that brings the writers' earnings statistics a bit higher than they would otherwise be.

Most of the world's great inventions have already been invented. Wondrous inventions such as sliced bread, hula hoops, electric can openers, flavored potato chips, high heeled shoes and fluffy covers for toilet lids and toasters have made millions for their creators, so I've been thinking really hard as to how I'm going to make my second million.

The millionaire developers of duct tape have provided the genesis of the idea that will be my second big financial breakthrough. Yes, duct tape is good for many uses. I use it to keep the hem of my trousers from falling down. 'Care Packages' we mail to Alberta and British Columbia are secured with duct tape. If it weren't for an ample supply of duct tape, my well-used Carousel slide tray boxes would cease to be.

How often I've tried to eat an egg salad sandwich, or a hamburger or a taco while driving. Unfortunately, more of the contents end up on my lap than in my mouth. Fortunately, there's always the little white dog at the ready, eager to clean up any mess.

Duct tape is an essential component of any car's emergency survival kit. I keep a roll of it in my brief case when I go teaching. I put duct tape in my backpack whenever I go for a hike in the Adirondacks, or a canoe trip. It's invaluable!

However, I intend to take duct tape one step further along the road to perfection. I'll manufacture and market it in an edible form. Just think of the possibilities! My edible duct tape is sure to be an instant hit, a lasting success story.

I'll wrap my egg salad sandwiches, hamburgers and tacos in edible duct tape. No more messes on my lap, no need for lunch bags for my sandwiches. Just as the hot dog bun was a breakthrough in edible packaging, so also will be the edible duct tape.

There will be no more unsightly litter of fast food packaging, as edible duct tape will be used to wrap up all food. If the litterers don't finish all their edible duct tape packaging, the crows, gulls and raccoons will eat it with relish. They'll even eat it without relish.

Manufacturers increased the sales of potato chips and pop corn by adding flavoring. I'll do the same with my duct tape. It'll come in all the favorite flavors: ketchup, barbecue, vinegar and mesquite.

Survival gear duct tape is fine for splinting a broken leg and repairing a broken canoe paddle, but what good is it if the splinted leg isn't well enough to bring you out of the wilderness, or paddling doesn't get you all the way to civilization at the mouth of the river?

With enough of my edible duct tape, you can eat well for weeks, until rescue finally comes. No need to go hungry on that long canoe trip, as the edible duct tape can be used as fishing bait, and to lure deer and rabbits to your wilderness dinner table.

In order to produce the vast amounts of edible duct tape that will soon be in demand, the farmers of SD&G will have to increase their corn and soya acreage, as those field crops will be the raw material used to make the edible duct tape.

According to the O.P.P., there seems to be a lot of a variety of hemp being grown in the local farmers' fields. Those crops could provide the necessary fiber and aroma for my new product.

I'll buy up all the abandoned cheese factories that at one time employed the people of villages such as Lunenburg, Berwick, Newington and Bougie's Corners. They'll soon be humming as manufacturing facilities of edible duct tape.

The rural economy will boom. Good times will return. Our high school graduates will no longer have to emigrate to Toronto, Calgary and Silicon Valley in search of jobs.

Thus, my edible duct tape will bring a long-awaited renaissance to Eastern Ontario, and I'll be able to invest my second million in some blue-chip stocks, such as Bre-Ex, Eaton's or Studebaker.

"How Far To The Bridge?"

"HOW FAR TO THE BRIDGE?" - Westbound drivers on Highway 401 are likely to be confused by this pair of signs. The first seems to say that the bridge is four kilometers away. However, the French language sign immediately next to it says that it's only one kilometer to the very same bridge! Bilingual Quebeckers must be wondering.

Christmas 1999 Gift Guide

The Holiday Season Brings the Family Together

The holidays are a time of celebration and happiness — a time when family and friends gather to share in the joy of the season.

To make this time special, people should plan activities that the whole family can enjoy together. Whether it's decorating the house or wrapping presents, this quality time can make the season brighter.

The Christmas tree becomes the heart of the home during the holidays, and it can bring the family closer, too. Selecting a tree can be a group activity. Mom, dad and the children can search for the perfect tree together, and once they get it home, they all can help decorate it. The family even can start an annual tradition by having everyone make an ornament, whether with construction paper and crayons, felt and glitter, or needle and thread. Not only is it heartwarming to have a tree covered with homemade decorations, but it also will bring fun memories to mind every time the family looks at the tree.

If putting up a tree isn't possible, people still can fill their home with the holiday spirit. Poinsettias and plants trimmed with lights and bows can add a festive flair to every room of the house. They can decorate their home together, or each person can have a particular area to decorate. Either way, the family will be working together.

Another integral part of the holidays is sending out Christmas cards. While mom usually ends up writing all the cards herself, that's not the way it has to be. She can divide the list among the family, so everyone has some cards to write out. Not only can it be fun to write personal messages to friends and relatives, but it can be touching for those receiving the cards, too. Grandparents will love to open a card and see that it's signed by their grandchildren.

It seems that homes always are full during the holidays, whether people are hosting out-of-town guests or entertaining neighbors who just stop by. While it gets hectic, it also can be a lot of fun. People see loved ones they haven't seen in a while, and they reminisce about old times. And, they're making more wonderful memories as they do so.

While entertaining brings the family together, so does preparing for the get-together. Everyone can do his or her part to make the gathering special. From making cookies together to shoveling the driveway to making up the spare room for guests, the family can have fun before the party even starts. For an added treat, the family can arrange to take breaks together from the household chores with a nice winter warm-up, like hot chocolate or tea.

One of the hardest things during the holiday season is shopping for gifts. While everyone may go to the store together, they usually go off on their own once they get there. To make gift-giving more of a family activity, the family can sit down together before the holidays and come up with ideas of what they want to get grandma, grandpa, aunts, uncles, cousins and close friends. They'll be gifts that truly come from the entire family.

Once all the presents have been bought, the family can wrap them together. The little ones even can make their own wrapping paper with crayons and markers, or they can make their own card for the family to sign. Everyone from the gifters to the gifted will appreciate beautifully wrapped packages that have that extra-special touch.

However people prepare for the holidays, there are wonderful opportunities to spend time with the ones they love the most.

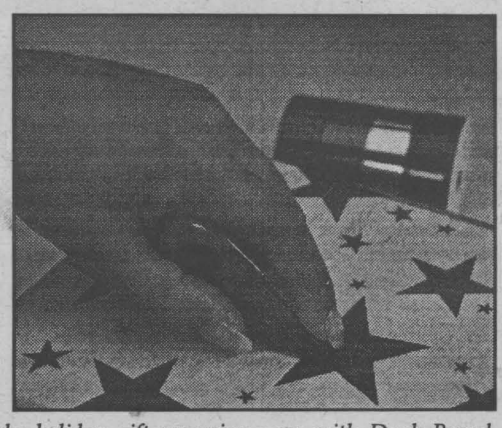
Don't Get Wrapped Up In the Stress of Holiday Gift-Giving



Make holiday gift-wrapping easy with Duck Brand OneTouch Invisible Tape, from Manco Inc.

(MS) — Giving gifts around the holidays always is enjoyable, especially when you find the perfect present. Treasured gifts frequently have little to do with their price and a lot to do with the thoughtfulness that went into their selection.

Presenting a gift can be as important as the present itself. Beautifully wrapped gifts provide greater pleasure and anticipation for the recipient. Unfortunately, wrapping a gift sometimes can be stressful and messy. Here are some simple tips to make this holiday task easier.

1. Carefully measure the wrapping paper accurately to save time and money. It is easier to work with the right-size paper, which also eliminates waste.

2. To accurately measure wrapping paper for a box, put one side of the box at the edge of the paper. Roll the package over to the next side. Continue to roll the package until all sides are covered. Add an additional inch of wrapping paper after you have covered the final side.

3. To cover the ends of a deep box, allow an extra amount of paper — at least enough to cover the depth of the box on each end.

4. Now it is time to tape the package. Nothing spoils the appearance of a beautiful package more than a messy job of taping. The tape should be applied along the edges of the wrapping paper. A new product introduced by Manco Inc., Duck® Brand OneTouchTM Invisible Tape provides a hassle-free, one-handed gift-wrapping solution to the annual frustration created by clumsy tape dispensers.

In the past, gift givers had to hold tape and apply it with two hands, at the risk of losing the crisp folds or edges of a well-wrapped gift. Duck Brand OneTouch Invisible Tape is held in one hand and rolls tape on the gift. With a simple twist of the wrist, the dispenser provides a precise, clean cut to the exact measurement of tape needed. This provides you with a professional-looking wrapped gift in a fraction of the time.

5. Fold a 1/2-inch hem at one edge of the paper so that no raw edges show. Tape the center inseam to the bottom of the box.

6. Wrap the loose end of the paper around the box. Make sure the wrapping paper is pulled taut to eliminate any possibility of wrinkles. Carefully apply the tape. Use the same technique to apply the tape to the final flap of the package ends.

After applying the wrapping paper, complete the presentation of the gift by adding colorful ribbons and bows to the package. Following these simple steps, you will have a beautifully packaged gift while reducing the stress of holiday gift-giving. Gift recipients will be pleased to receive such a beautifully wrapped gift, made more pleasant through the time and care put into it.

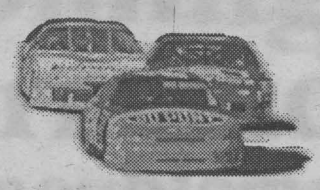
NASCAR Winston Cup Series



Burton Not Hurtin' After Phoenix

BURTON

It has been a topsy-turvy season for Jeff Burton. And Sunday's DuraLube 500K at Phoenix International Raceway would be no different for the driver of the No. 99 Exide Batteries Ford Taurus.

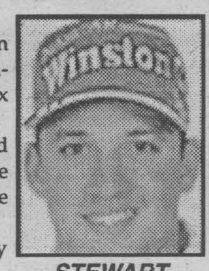
Burton's 1999 season started, as usual, with disappointment in his sport's biggest race - the Daytona 500 in February. A 35th-place effort was soon forgotten, however, with two victories in the next four races, and an average finish of 4.1 in his next nine starts. After 10 races, Burton found himself atop the NASCAR Winston Cup point standings.

Since then, it has been a season with plenty of ups, but too many downs to contend for the NASCAR Winston Cup championship. In 32 starts, Burton has a career-high six wins to go with 16 top-5 finishes (including Sunday's fourth-place effort at Phoenix). But he also has six finishes of 35th or worse, including two 36ths at Pocono Raceway.

Burton is giving 'em a run for their money for fourth in the standings. He gained some ground on Jeff Gordon, who now sits in fifth, 29 points ahead of Burton. But Burton lost ground to race winner Tony Stewart, who now leads Burton by 68 points.

Stewart Matches Allison With Second Win

Tony Stewart continues to fashion one of the most impressive rookie seasons in NASCAR Winston Cup Series history.



STEWART

The 28-year-old driver from Columbus, Ind., became a two-time winner in his first season on the nation's elite stock-car racing circuit as he sped to a comfortable victory in the Checker Auto Parts/Dura Lube 500 at Phoenix International Raceway.

Driving the Home Depot Pontiac out of Joe Gibbs Racing, Stewart dominated the event and went on to win by 2.081 seconds over Mark Martin in the Valvoline/Eagle One Ford. Stewart's first win came on Sept. 11 in the Exide NASCAR Select Batteries 400 at Richmond International Raceway.

Stewart is the first rookie to win two races in a season since the late Davey Allison did so in 1987, and only the second to do so in the history of the series.

The victory strengthened Stewart's position in the top-5 in the NASCAR Winston Cup Series point standings - he's fourth with two races to go - and should he hold it, he will become only the third rookie to claim a top-5 points finish. The others were James Hylton in 1966 and Shorty Rollins in 1958.

Stewart also has a very comfortable lead in the Raybestos Rookie of the Year standings with 313 points to 187 for Elliott Sadler.

2000 Winston Cup Schedule Released

The 2000 schedule will feature 34 NASCAR Winston Cup Series championship point events at 21 race tracks across the country and will show little change from the 1999 schedule, it was announced Tuesday by Mike Helton, senior vice president and chief operating officer of NASCAR.

Random thoughts, opinions and views...

Mick Foley's wonderful autobiography will be #2 on the New York Times bestseller list for the week of November 14 in the hardcover non-fiction category. We are so proud of Mick's success and I strongly encourage you to take the time to read this awesome book, "Have a Nice Day - A Tale of Blood and Sweatsocks." I guarantee that you will not be disappointed.

The Billboard Top Special Interest Video Sales is out and WWF Home Video is not only #1 but held 9 out of the top 10 spots. The only non-WWF video is his airness Michael Jordan. Back on the charts for a second run is Three Faces of Foley coming in at #16.

Do you think there are some folks with red faces about the over reaction to Al Snow's action figure, featuring Head? This really is a case of shoot first, ask questions later. There weren't many of the Al Snow dolls left anyway and the remaining ones are bringing a premium for collectors.

Lots of media stretch for the Rock this week in conjunction with Rock being named People Magazine's Sexiest Wrestler. Dateline NBC, Extra and Entertainment Tonight, among others, highlighted the Rock's success and accomplishments. Plus, the Rock rocked the house in Miami last Saturday before his Alma Mater, Miami, took on West Virginia. The 27 year old is rapidly becoming the man in this business.

What's in store for Arnold Schwarzenegger next week on Smackdown? The fans in Baltimore, the site of next week's program, could be in for a very interesting night at the arena.

Survivor Series has sold out well in advance and will no doubt be a great pay per view crowd. The Joe Louis Arena and the Detroit fans are tough to beat.

No truth to the rumor that the Undertaker is thinking about retiring.

I like the Big Show-Bossman rivalry for several reasons, including the fact that the experienced Bossman really pushes the young giant of a man, Show DX really adds a lot of excitement and unpredictability to WWF events. Like them or not, these guys work extremely hard and rarely fail to deliver.

Why don't we know more about The Dudleys?

Taz is anxious to start competing in the WWF and expect introductory vignettes about this stocky powerhouse to begin airing in the next couple of weeks.

Big Vis is quietly becoming more of a player in the WWF. If his abilities continue to improve, expect this huge man to earn a higher profile position.

Huge crowd on hand Thursday night in New York City to see the Outlaws and Y2J help launch the hot, new WWF CD!

The Search For Business Excellence

Business is shining in Cornwall and the Chamber of Commerce is on the search for the City's brightest lights. Nominations have begun to determine who the prestigious 1999 Business Excellence Awards winners will be.

"The Business Excellence Awards Banquet is one of the Chamber's premier events," reports Executive Manager Lezlie Strasser. "This year's banquet will be a particularly special one as the Chamber will celebrate 110 years of continuous service to the business community." Plans are well underway with the Best Western Parkway Inn and Conference Centre the host site.

Nominations for excellence are being sought in six categories: Entrepreneur, Salesperson, Small Business, Industry, Business, and Lifetime Achievement. Each category recognizes a firm which has distinguished itself by significantly increased sales, leadership and creativity, an expanding workforce, unique marketing success, and commitment to its community.

In a unique twist, the Chamber's first Millennium banquet will depict a complete change of pace. To celebrate its century plus service to the business community, the entire theme will revolve around the days of its roots. Period dress will be encouraged, artisans from bygone days will ply their trades in various corners of the banquet venue, and even the delightfully sumptuous menu has been carefully chosen with the 1890's in mind.

A sparkling event reflecting Cornwall's business past, a prestigious event recognizing Cornwall's current best. The Chamber of Commerce 1999 Business Excellence Awards banquet. To acquire information on submitting nominations for the various categories, please contact Lezlie Strasser at the Chamber office.

Our City ... Our Heritage

Twenty years after the initial idea had been formed to move the site of the Woodhouse Museum, the S.D. & G. Historical Society have finally seen the ground breaking for the new site in Lamoureux Park.

Citing that members to the Society have seen their goals and aspirations come to fruition, Mayor Brian Sylvester, on behalf of the many volunteers and workers who have been instrumental in bringing the project to the forefront, congratulated those in attendance during the ceremonial groundbreaking on November 3rd.

Plans call for a two phase construction of the project, with a grand opening scheduled for early spring 2000.

Ontario Senior Games

District 8 represents the eastern region of the province, and is responsible for providing this area's participants to the Ontario Senior Games.

District 8 is looking for competitors, for, Ontario Senior Games' Winterfest which will take place from March 5th-7th in Collingwood, Ont.

Gary Ernst is spearheading the search for competitors in District 8.

District 8 has signed up to place competitors in the curling, badminton, hockey, skating, alpine skiing and nordic skiing competitions.

Competitors must be at least 55 years old, in the year 2000, to be eligible.

He doesn't anticipate having any difficulty organizing curling in this area says Ernst.

A curling rink would require two men and two women. There are already plans in the works to have a bonspiel to determine a winner.

A two-person mixed team is also required for badminton, while the skating and skiing events require one male competitor each from this district.

Ernst said the ideal situation would have local competitions to select District 8's representatives for Collingwood, instead of having just enough people to send a team.

While the curling, badminton, hockey and alpine skiing are strictly competitive games, the skating and nordic skiing are only competitive on the surface.

These two events involve a modified type of race, one in which competitors must try to predict their final time. The one who most accurately estimates his or her time is declared a winner.

Ernst explained that anybody can compete as long as they have skates or skis and can put them on.

There is a $5. per person registration fee for local competition, which Ernst explained is a required fee in the provincial process.

Added Ernst: "The local committee will be organizing transportation, but there will be a small charge for that as well."

He also said there will be some local fundraising to collect some more money for local participants.

The Ontario Senior Games was set up to promote fit and healthy lifestyles in Ontario's older population.

The following is a list of contacts for more information on the specific events: downhill skiing Harold Hinds 534-2980, cross country skiing, Cliff Merpaw 932-0932, hockey, David Cuggy 347-7675, badminton or skating Gary Ernst 932-7990.

T.R. Leger School

T.R. Leger School altnerative and adult education students across the Upper Canada District School Board are in the final stages of Trimester 1 which ends on December 8th. Full time students across the jurisdiction are scheduled to complete the three credits which they are presently taking, and begin three more courses on December 9th which marks the beginning of Trimester 2. The school moved to the trimester system three years ago when it was noted that students seemed to be more productive with three registration opportunities, one in September, December and March. The school now has 12 full service campuses across the UCDSB so all communities can access the benefits of lifelong learning. Each campus serves students aged 16 to adult in a flexible and user friendly fashion. Program leader Kevin Parkinson feels that one of the reasons fall enrolment figures have increased is because the school recognizes individual needs. "All of our campuse lead teachers are experienced in dealing with the needs of students of all ages. We think of our students as our customers, many of whom have home and child care responsibilities or part time or full time employment. We work cooperatively with our students so they have a schedule that works for them." By the end of October the T.R. leger School reported 2500 students across the UCDSB which represents a 21% increase over last year. This increase reflects campus expansion and the growing need for adult and alternative education. Most high school credit courses are available at the school. Most campuses now have up to date pentium computer labs with the latest applications such as MS Office and Corel Suites 8. Tuition is free and campuses are registering now for December 9th. Call your local T.R. Leger School for further information or call 1-877-875-3437.

"We have very good personalities around the table right now" ... Councillor Perry Lalonde says during a debate on reducing council from eleven to nine. However, the majority opinion in the community is that this is the weakest and poorest council in memory.

Although I am legally blind, I get around quite easily. One afternoon as I was leaving a building, a man in front of me said, "Hello." Being a friendly sort, I responded with "Hello."

"How are you?" he asked.

"I'm fine. How are you?" I replied.

But then the conversation took a strange turn and it didn't make any sense to me. That's when I realized - the man was speaking on his cell phone.

The C.M.L.A. is organizing a bus trip to Maple Leaf Gardens to see the Toronto Rock of the National Lacrosse League play against the Buffalo Bandits featuring John Tavares and Mike Benedict Jr. of the Akwesasne Thunder. The game is on Saturday Feb. 26th, 2000. Bus leaves at 9 a.m. and the game is at 4 p.m. Cost for game ticket and transportation is $55.00 per person. Tickets accompanied by a 50% non-refundable deposit are required by November 26th, '99. For more information please contact Roy Ledoux 938-6686, Larry Herrington 938-1263, Shane McRae 932-7666, Henry Tracey 932-1936, Grenville Killoran 938-9654 or Rod Pecore 932-1706. Thank you very for helping us spread the word.

Caller has informed us that you can now bring your used Brita water filters to Home Hardware at Pitt & 13th Street and drop them off in their special recycle bin, rather than just throwing them in the garbage. Everyone today would like to do their part to save the Earth by recycling.

Seems the City Department in charge of traffic lights doesn't think that the synchronized lights on Pitt Street is a problem. Maybe we should have Councillor Kennedy look into it. We may get better results.

FAT!! FAT!! FAT!!

On the lighter side. A simple, no cost, test to indicate if there is too much fat in your diet.

Fat is lighter than water so it floats. Look at your stool after passing it. If it is floating there is too much fat in your diet. The fat makes it float. Try reducing your daily fat intake until one day your stool sinks. Then you are taking in less fat. Of course this is all before you flush the toilet. Good Luck!!!

Stretch your gift dollars ... on shopping trips, keep a notebook with you so you can jot down items, stores and prices. Later, after you have done your comparison shopping, go back and make educated purchases, knowing you're getting the most for your money.

Take one black cat, a very dark Halloween night and "The Jersey Farmer" and what do you have? A very funny story! Ha Ha!

Like many travellers, I settled into my seat on a commuter flight and ignored the safety announcements given by the flight attendant. But along with the other passengers, I quickly perked up when the attendant said: "Good afternoon. My name is John and the other flight attendants are my fiancée, Beth and my former wife, Diane."

John smiled at us. "Now that I have your attention," he continued, "please listen to these safety instructions."

Caller thinks that a price hike of $1.20 per carton for cigarettes is not going to get people to butt out. The person who wants to quit has to quit for themselves, not anyone else!

I would like to vent about people delivering flyers and newspapers that cross over my lawns and flowers.

They don't seem to care where they walk as long as there is a short cut. I've planted shrubs and plants on both sides of my property with short fences and they just jump or walk right over them making a path across the lawns and tramping on precious flowers that might not be seen but are trying to come up.

It's amazing how much garbage has flown around in the city last week with those gusty winds. If everyone would pick up their own garbage, our city would be so much more beautiful!

Another big winner at the Mohawk Bingo Palace, in the game room ... on October 4th, 1999, Tammy Comins of Massena, NY won $26,307 on the Rocket Bingo game.

Caller disappointed with the fact that the East end of the city does not have a pharmacy open on Sunday. Not accommodating for seniors and people without transportation, who are sick and in need of medication.

Are you making cookies for that special someone this Holiday season? If you're mailing them, pack them in popcorn. They will be less likely to crumble and your recipient will have two snacks, instead of just one.

The giving spirit of the Holidays has a way of making us feel a little too generous. With this in mind, try to buy most of your gifts with cash. This way, you'll only spend what you have and you won't be faced with a mountain of credit card bills in January.

It's never too early or too late to start a family tradition. At a family conference, parents and kids can jointly decide on the traditions that mean something to them. If children pooh-pooh everything, challenge them to come up with other activities, that would make it special for them. They may want a game night or an annual family quiz (a tradition my family now holds every Labour Day weekend). And they may be more open to certain rituals if their friends can be included. Traditions give a sense of continuity and familiarity and reinforce identification.

Intelligence

Two men were digging a ditch on a very hot day. One said to the other, "Why are we down in this hole digging a ditch when our boss is standing up there in the shade of a tree?"

"I don't know," responded the other. "I'll ask him." So he climbed out of the hole and went to his boss.

"Why are we digging in the hot sun and you're standing in the shade?"

"Intelligence," the boss said. "What do you mean, 'intelligence'?"

The boss said, "Well, I'll show you. I'll put my hand on this tree and I want you to hit it with your fist as hard as you can."

The ditch digger took a mighty swing and tried to hit the boss' hand. The boss removed his hand and the ditch digger hit the tree. The boss said, "That's intelligence!"

The ditch digger went back to his hole. His friend asked, "What did he say?"

"He said we are down here because of intelligence."

"What's intelligence?" said the friend.

The ditch digger put his hand on his face and said, Take your shovel and hit my hand."

I'm scuttlebutting you in regards to your October 29th Seaway News Scuttlebutt that contains comments regarding Mrs. Brunette's letter to the editor about "Sewer Laterals" not having been published yet.

If you're referring to a Mrs. Marjory Brunette's letter to the editor about her sewer problems, I guess some of you must have really been snoozing, as her letter was published in the Seaway News this past summer, as I saw, and read her letter myself. I also read it to my family, as well as showed her letter to my next door neighbor to read. So I don't know why anyone should be wondering why her letter hasn't been published yet, or why the Seaway News is apologizing for the delay, saying you haven't had the room to print it yet.

Editor's Note: The letter we are apologizing for was published in a recent edition and not the summer, althouth a similar letter appeared this summer. We apologize to Mrs. Brunette for not publishing her letter before a meeting she had scheduled concerning the sewer laterals issue.

A popular weatherman on one of our local TV stations was called in suddenly to replace the regular newscaster. All went well until he reported the death of an 82 year old man with the following words: "He was 82 degrees."

Clever Gift Wrapping: Make your gift wrap functional and it becomes part of the present. For example, use a pretty scarf, cloth napkin or tea towel to wrap the gift. Then decorate the package with hair accessories or dried flowers.

Anyone who had a chance to check out the Heritage Valley Arts & Crafts Show at the Civic Complex last weekend got a real treat. Lots of gorgeous items to choose from and lots of great gifts for Christmas.

Why not start a Christmas box for the animals at the Cornwall Shelter? Pick up a few extra cans of pet food or treats when shopping for your special pet. Drop them off at the shelter at 550 Boundary Road. "All for the Animals."

Get dressy for less ... if you will be attending a formal affair during the Holiday season, save money on your evening attire by renting party clothes or buying them at consignment shops at discounted prices.

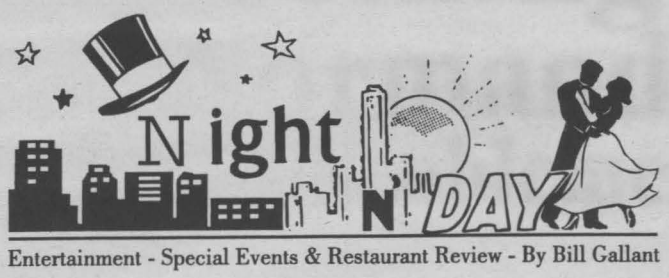
SEAWAY NEWS ENTERTAINMENT



Entertainment - Special Events & Restaurant Review - By Bill Gallant

Those great Harvest Celebrations just continue to happen ! This Sat. Nov.13th you are invited to join members of the Glen Walter Fire Dept. at their HARVEST DANCE to be held at the K of C Hall in Glen Walter. It's your way of supporting your local fire department and the cost is just $5:00 per couple.

Another area event happening this Saturday and Sunday is the Morrisburg & District Crafts Association CHRISTMAS SHOW & SALE. The hours are 10am-5pm on Sat. & 12noon to 4pm on Sun. There will be door prizes , free admission and it's to be held at the Morrisburg Canadian Legion.

Where's the Beef you ask ? There will be plenty to go around this Sunday, Nov.14th at Wing 424 on Water Street West. Members and guests' are welcome to order-up a platefull starting at 4:30pm . Just head down Water Street and when you see the plane turn-in. The meal will include potatoes and dessert .

Mr. Magoo may have had difficulty finding things but you can easily find ROSIE MAGOO'S place. Just head West on Third Street and turn in to the parking lot just before Pitt Street. This Friday & Saturday Magoo's is featuring the popular band "Just Put Together" from Ottawa. You can also enjoy any of their Lunch Specials or join the Karaoke crowd on Wednesday.

Want to keep track of the CORNWALL COLTS? Tune-in 101.9FM this Sunday, Nov. 14th for the game from Nepean.It starts at 1:55pm. Then get your tickets for Colt's next home game on Thursday,Nov.18th when the visitors will be Smiths Falls in a 7:30pm tilt at the Si Miller Arena.

Next week,Nov.18 to 21 will be the FESTIVAL OF TREES at the Cornwall Armoury.

You can enjoy a one-hour stage play on Fri.& Sat.,singing,dancing,caroling,a pie baking contest and a great turkey feast. There will also be a Christmas Brunch on Sunday between 10am to noon,and a Children's Breakfast on Sat. 8:30am to noon.

This is a happy time for the folks at NEW GARDEN on Montreal Road.They are celebrating their 30th Anniversary this weekend.

The celebration will include special Anniversary Draws for gift certificates. Just enter your receipt in the ballot box following your meal (until Nov. 14th,1999). The event also offers many special items in their famous Chinese Buffet.Congratulations to all the "gang" at New Garden !!

A perennial favourite is again coming to Cornwall. THE NUTCRACKER, with some bright and beautiful costumes,clever set designs, great choreography and a cast of talented dancers will be appearing in Cornwall at Aultsville Hall on Tuesday, December 14th. This will be the full two-hour classical version and tickets are available at Civic Complex.

Lately we've been hearing a lot about the proposed NEW aquatic center. This project has been discussed and debated for several years. Now our civic leaders are trying to decide how to arrive at an appropriate cost-sharing plan. Location of the building however is not a problem. The proposed site is still along the waterfront in Lamoureux Park. But what still concerns me is that other brick and mortar edifice that is also due to be erected smack dab in the middle of our City's Showplace Lamoureux Park ! They dug-up a big hole last week folks! That means another big hunk of our precious greenery will soon be gone. I know to many this may sound like a broken record, but can I again ask: "HOW much is" it costing taxpayers to move the Wood Museum remains to the new site?" WHY was it decided that Lamoureux Park should be the site, and will the completed structure be 50% underground?"Think about it folks and then add to this scenario the paved parking that will also be required for the patrons of the Civic Complex, Aquatic Center and Museum. Sure sounds like a huge slice of our park will soon disappear !!!

Until next week, G'day and G'night.

MISHCHIEF

On 05NOV99 police received a report of damage, in the area of the Morrisburg Mall, in South Dundas.

Persons armed with paint balls and eggs had caused damage to store fronts and vehicles during the late evening hours of 05NOV99.

Const. D. Canham is investigating this incident.

On 05NOV99 police began an investigation into a damage incident, which had occurred along County Road 43, in the former Winchester Township area of North Dundas.

A vehicle, which had been driven east bound shortly after 09:00 pm, was reported to have been struck by a shotgun pellet causing a small hole in the window, damaging the glass.

No injuries were sustained n this incident, and no hunters were located in the area.

The investigation into this matter is continuing.

THEFT

On 03NOV99 police began an investigation into a theft, which had occurred in North Dundas Township.

Overnight, an entry had been made into a garage at a private residence along Pemberton Road, which resulted in two firearms being taken from a locked vehicle in the garage.

Stolen were a 30-06 Browning rifle, and a Winchester 410 gauge shotgun, along with other hunting supplies.

Const. J. Bernard is investigating.

THEFT / RECOVERY OF VEHICLES

On 01NOV99 police were called to an abandoned vehicle, which had been burned in a quarry, in the Hallville area of North Dundas Township.

Police recovered the remains of a 1997 Buick LaSabre, which had been reported stolen from the city of Ottawa on 24OCT99.

Const. R. McGillis is investigating this recovery.

On 06NOV99 police received a report of a stolen vehicle from the village of Chesterville, in North Dundas Township.

Overnight, a Sears service van was taken from the driveway of a private residence on Harper Street in the village.

The vehicle was later recovered on 06NOV99 parked in front of the Brockville Country Club.

Const. B. Anderson is investigating.

TRAFFIC UPDATE

Over the past week police investigated 9 motor vehicle collisions in Dundas County. Other investigations resulted in two charges being laid under the Criminal Code, for drinking and driving related offences, three seizures being made under the Liquor Licence Act, and the apprehension of three suspended drivers. This brings the total of suspended drivers apprehended since August of this year to 26.

OPERATION IMPACT

In Stormont Dundas & Glengarry from the period 02-16OCT99 a total of 4,399 vehicles were checked as part of the OPERATION IMPACT program. The vehicle checks resulted in 29 charges being laid for seat belt offences, 2 charges for child seat offences, and 49 warnings being issued.

Cornwall Police Service

A Birmingham St. residence was broken into sometime between 2:30 & 5 pm on the 9th of November, 1999. The door was kicked in to allow entry, however nothing appears to be missing from the residence.

A Jobin Ave. residence was broken into sometime between the 4th and the 9th of November, 1999. The door had been pried open to allow entry, however nothing was taken from the residence.

A $50.00 counterfeit Canadian bill was found in the deposit of a local business by a local bank on the 8th of November, 1999.

There was an attempted break-in to a Laflin St. residence on the 7th of November, 1999. The culprit(s) cut the screen and made an unsuccessful attempted to pry the window open.

A 33-year-old Millville male was arrested and charged with uttering a death threat on the 8th of November, 1999. It is alleged that he attended his ex-spouse's residence and attempted to enter the residence. He was denied entry and at one point threatened the life of the 29-year-old female. Police were called, the man was arrested and later released to appear in court on the 29th of November, 1999.

Jeffery Phillips, 19, of Maxville was arrested and charged with theft under $5,000. on the 7th of November, 1999. It is alleged that he selected over $16. of merchandise and left the store without making any attempt to pay for the merchandise at a Ninth St. East store. He was released to appear in court on the 29th of November, 1999.

A 21-year-old male was arrested and charged with assault on the 7th of November, 1999. It is alleged that he punched his 19-year-old girlfriend in the face during an argument, cutting her lip. Police were called, he was arrested and later released to appear in court on the 6th of December, 1999.

A 15-year-old male has been charged with breach of undertaking after he allegedly failed to attend police headquarters to sign in on the 5th of November, 1999, as per his release conditions. He turned himself in on the 6th of November, 1999. He was released to appear in court on the 22nd of November, 1999.

A 14-year-old male was arrested and charged on the 7th of November, 1999, after he allegedly threatened the life of a staff member of an open custody home. The youth has been charged with threats and breach of probation, he was held in custody for a bail hearing on the 8th of November, 1999.

A 27-year-old male was arrested and charged with assault following a domestic dispute on the 6th of November, 1999. It is alleged that he and his 23-year-old girlfriend were having an argument when she was grabbed by the throat and pushed up against a wall. Police were called and he was arrested and charged. He was later released to appear in court on the 29th of November, 1999.

Culprit(s) attempted to pry open the door of an Eleventh St. West garage on the 5th of November, 1999. The culprit(s) were unsuccessful and possibly scared off as no entry was gained.

An Adophus St. residence was broken into sometime overnight on the 4th - 5th of November, 1999. Once inside the culprit(s) removed a Goldstar VCR.

A Birmingham St. residence was broken into on the 5th of November, 1999 between 9am and 3pm. The door had been kicked in, however, nothing appears to be missing from the residence.

An Alice St. residence was broken into on the 5th of November, 1999 between 10 & 11:30 am. The culprit(s) removed 180 cd's from the residence.

OPP Seatbelt Campaign

Between October 5th and October 16th, members of the Ontario Provincial Police joined with its road safety partners for a two week fall seatbelt education and enforcement campaign.

During the blitz, OPP officers stopped 474,118 vehicles, approximately 100,000 more than during the same period in 1998. A total of 8,268 charges were laid during the period, up 15 percent from last year. The number of warnings dropped slightly to 4,524.

Seatbelts are not a new safety feature but too many motorists and their passengers are failing to make use of this potentially lifesaving device. In 1999, the OPP are finding that non-use of seatbelts or child restraints has been a contributing factor for over 30% of the people killed in collisions investigated by the force.

Fatal collisons are such a pointless tragedy. Don't make them more so by failing to take a simple precaution that could save your life.

AUTO $ MART

Choice of Options Can Cost You Today Save You Tomorrow

(NC)-Today's cars are designed to be more comfortable and "automated" than ever before. But some options carry a heavy price tag - both in the purchase price and in additional fuel costs over the life of the car.

Features such as air conditioning and power seats, for example, boost the price of a car and are known to increase fuel consumption. In hot weather at city driving speeds, air conditioning can increase fuel consumption by up to 21 percent. Power seats use only a small amount of power but, more importantly, they add weight to the vehicle, which in itself can increase fuel consumption by two to three percent.

The good news is that some options can actually improve fuel economy. Cruise control, for example, allows you to maintain a constant, even speed on the highway - and that saves fuel and money. The exception is under hilly conditions, when cruise control may actually increase fuel consumption.

Block heaters can also be an effective and inexpensive fuel-saving device. Block heaters warm an engine before it is started - and a warm engine runs more efficiently and burns less fuel.

Some Engine Oils Can Boost Fuel Economy

(NC)-It's a well-known fact that regular oil and filter changes will improve your car's engine performance and fuel economy. But did you know that some oil products have been designed especially to boost fuel efficiency?

The best oils for fuel economy are marked "energy conserving" on the label. This indicates that the oil will reduce fuel consumption by two percent or more compared to a standard oil.

Synthetic motor oils can also improve fuel economy because of their good flow characteristics, but they are significantly more expensive than standard oils.

In any case, you should use only the type and grade of oil recommended in your car's owner's manual. If the manufacturer specifies a range of multi-grades, choose the lowest one possible for the expected temperature range. Most of today's vehicles are designed to use 5W30, although some manufacturers are beginning to specify 10W30 oil.

Fuel efficiency saves you money and reduces exhaust emissions that contribute to climate change and urban smog.

The Squeaky Hinge Gets The Lube

Isn't it annoying? You just open the car door, and suddenly it sounds like the front door of Disney World's Haunted House. Or maybe you drive a minivan, with a sliding door that just doesn't want to slide. Help is near at hand. As close as your nearest automotive store, in fact.

There are several products that can help you get the squeak out of your hinges. Most are packaged as spray cans so that you can spray lubricant into those nooks and crannies around door hinges. Some are more of a grease that you'll have to rub on.

Some of these products have graphite in them. Graphite is an excellent lubricant, but it can leave black runs on your paint. Spray oils are good, although perhaps not as long lasting as the graphite based lubricants.

There are also penetrating oils. When you have a frozen nut that just won't come loose, spray or drip some penetrating oil onto it, let it sit for ten minutes, and then try again to loosen it. If that doesn't work, repeat the application and then give the nut a sharp tap with a hammer to break the adhesion.

Many of the products in spray cans include a plastic tube that fits on the end of the nozzle. This is an excellent way to free up a stiff lock (before you break off your key in the lock in a fit of frustration). Simply insert the tip of the tube in the lock and give it a short squirt of lubricant.

Then work the key four or five times to make sure the lubricant is spread around the moving parts.

In winter, this technique can also help you free up a frozen lock. The spray of lubricant will drive out the ice and help you to get into a car that would otherwise sit there until spring (or a Chinook, whichever comes first).

It's not just car doors, of course. There are other moving parts that should receive attention. For example, the hood latch and the gas cap door. It's a terrible feeling when you want to pop the hood to add windshield washer fluid, and you can't get it open.

Car Care Canada notes that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure (or is that a gram of prevention is worth a kilogram of cure?). Lubricating your hinges every couple of months is an excellent way to avoid problems.

Making The Millennium

With the support of the Government of Canada, Canadians from coast to coast are completing projects that will have meaningful impacts in their communities, and which demonstrate their way of marking the new century and the new millennium.

Under the Canada Millennium Partnership Program (CMPP), groups have received partial funding for up to one third of eligible costs of projects that have met a number of criteria. To date, the CMPP has contributed to more than 1,000 projects.

The projects are big and small, and they reach out to Canadians in communities throughout the country. They promote the environment, youth, arts and culture, our history and heritage, and the development of Canadian communities. "Through the CMPP, Canadians can do what they themselves believe is important to mark the turn of the millennium in the context of Canada's national millennium theme, Sharing the Memory, Shaping the Dream," said Deputy Prime Minister Herb Gray, and the minister responsible for the Government of Canada's millennium initiative.

A project that has been particularly successful in capturing the imagination of people from one end of the country to the other is the Trans Canada Trail. This 16,100 kilometre route from Tuktoyaktuk, Northwest Territories, to St. John's Newfoundland, will be the longest recreational trail in the world. It will open late in 2000, and in the meantime, people may take part in a cross-Canada relay to raise awareness for it by carrying water from our three oceans to the National Region.

The Millennium Bureau of Canada has developed a Web site (www.millennium.gc.ca) where people can find information about millennium events and participate in marking the new millennium. The Web site offers descriptions of projects partially funded by the CMPP, and a calendar of millennium events anywhere in Canada. It also features the Millennium Cafe, a place where people can talk with each other about issues related to the millennium. Links to other millennium sites are also found on the Government of Canada Web site.

The Millennium Bureau of Canada may also be reached by dialing this toll-free telephone number: 1-888-774-9999.

The novelty of Cuts n' More is we don't take appointments for either the hairstyling or tanning. We work on a first come first serve basis, but should you have a special occasion such as prom or your wedding we will gladly book an appointment for you. As for tanning, serving you this way means no no show fees. Better yet we have no membership fees. Our tanning sessions are $6.00 for 20 minute sessions. We also have package deals 20 sessions for $72.95, 15 sessions for $59.95, 10 sessions for $42.95, 5 sessions for only $24.95 a great saving to you. Our beds are state of the art. We have comfortable beds that take the everyday stress away and relaxes you to another world.

Located at 720, 14th St. West (Behind Pizza Hut) in the Seaway Village Plaza. Should you need any more information in regards to our tanning feel free to call us at (613) 936-0664. Our staff is more obliging to answer any questions.

We are available to you for 71 hrs. through the week. Monday through to Friday 9:00 am - 8:30 pm, Saturday 9:00 am - 5:30 pm, Sundays

Aline Brush the owner operator of Cuts n' More has more than 24 years experience. She has along with her Gabrielle Lalonde (Bergeron), Carole Labrosse, Barbara Lecompte, Chantale Lafleche, Jennifer Astle, Julia MacPherson and Heather Brush to serve you with all your hairstyling and tanning needs. At Cuts n' More we're a cut above the rest. Come in and see for yourself. We are a family type of hairstyling business where we cater to the whole family. Yes, we are kid friendly. We also have senior discounts of 10% for 55 and older and yes every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesdays our perms for seniors are only $29.95. This includes cut & style dry.

Cuts n' More is locally owned and operated. We have the best professional staff available to you. We have good quality without the frilly price.

Aline and her staff would at this time like to thank you for making Cuts n' More a success and would like to take this opportunity to say thank you to all our customers for your support in the last three years. Hoping that this year we will be able to do so again.

PEOPLE BEFORE PROFITS

DON'T RISK IT

TURN TO A FRIEND AND WRITE IT DOWN

The time following death of a family member is extremely emotional causing people to forget wishes discussed earlier. Simply telling a relative or friend your preferences about casket selection, clothing, burial, cremation, etc. is not enough.

Don't take chances. Scheduling the time now to discuss pre-arrangements, writing them down with us, and having a copy made for your family is one of the most loving things you can do.

Besides, a Lahaie and Sullivan pre-arrangement plan is a tax shelter (all interest earned is income tax free), freezes the prices at the current level, and allows you to make easy installments to suit your budget.

For emotional and financial peace of mind, don't risk it. Turn to a friend. Call Lahaie and Sullivan Cornwall Funeral Homes today.

The Single Food Fallacy

Diet is promoted today as a cure-all or kill-all for the population. However , many diseases , including coronary heart disease, high blood pressure, diabetes, cancer - even obesity - can occur in individuals eating a "healthful " diet.. These diseases arise in the human body from a complex variety of reasons including genetics and metabolism.

For example, the risk factors for coronary heart disease include age, sex, family history, blood cholesterol , blood pressure, cigarette smoking and physical activity. Diet doesn't make the list. Diet acts only by influencing one or more of the modifiable risk factors and has highly variable effects on individual people.

The emphasis on diet or - worse still - parts of the diet, is a case of priorities turned upside down. The craze over dieting has spread from total diet to individual foods, even to putting health messages on food labels. This type of fad is the rebirth of an old idea deeply engraved in nutrition folklore that there are good foods and bad foods. For various reasons, some of them purely emotional, foods like bran, brown sugar, black strap molasses, honey and all fruits and vegetables (except perhaps the avocado) have been considered good foods. For equally unscientific reasons, foods such as red meat, whole milk , eggs, ice cream, butter - animal foods in general - have been considered "bad food", particularly as they relate to a possible role in the development of cancer and heart disease.

It should be obvious that no single food consumed in the usual portions can determine the quality of an individual's diet over a 24 hour period. Simply stated, there are good and bad diets, but not good and bad foods

The real down-side of blaming individual foods for all our ills is that people may deprive themselves of important nutrients by cutting out a whole food group like meat or milk. Moreover, the shift from one food pattern to another before all the evidence is in, could lead to dire consequences.

One hundred years ago, the major source of dietary fat was animal - now it's vegetable. In the meantime, rates of heart disease, breast and prostate cancer have risen. Possibly mere coincidence - we just don't know.

Homeopathy And How It Can Help Your Family

Paulette Poirier

Croupy cough leading to bronchitis: Johnny's cold would start with a paintful, croupy, barky cough, then after many disturbed night's sleep, it would usually end up in a bronchitis. Johnny's mother no longer took him to the doctor since she knew the doctor would prescribe antibiotics - again. The cycle was becoming repetitive. Sound familiar? Read on.

The Cure: First time I saw Johnny at the pharmacy, his croupy cough was coming back again and from his history the problem became clear. Spongia was the selected homeopathic remedy for the immediate problem which was the deep cough, but we needed to find the deeper cause of this repetitive illness. After consulting with the boy, he was given a product to strengthen his immune system and bring up his general level of health to enable his body to defend itself. He has been problem free since his last visit 6 months ago.

Keep in mind that Homeopathy treats the person and not the disease, so two people with the same problem may require different remedies.

(NC)—"Did I do it right? is the one of the most frequently asked questions that women have about home pregnancy tests," says Catherine Young, registered nurse with the Answer Now® One Step help line, a 24-hour, bilingual, toll-free service. This is an emotional time for women and even if they follow simple instructions there's always that initial disbelief and need for confirmation and support.

Staffed by registered nurses, the help line receives approximately 150 calls per month from worried Canadian women. According to Young, about 50% of women ask, "What does this mean?" or other questions about how to interpret their test results. About 15% ask how soon they can use the test to determine pregnancy. Others ask how medications, such as fertility drugs, affect the outcome.

Answer Now® One Step, available in major pharmacies, is the only home pregnancy test officially recognized by the Canadian Foundation for Women's Health (CFWH) which is affiliated with The Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada (SOGC). It is 99% accurate, easy to use and gives results as fast as 2 minutes at any time of day.

The Answer Now® One Step help line is a confidential, useful service that women across Canada can access by calling 1-800-268-3186.

HOROSCOPES

November 14-20

Aries – March 21/April 20

Speak your mind when it comes to a conversation with a loved one. This person needs to hear what you have to say — even though he or she won't appreciate your honesty. You're trying to help him or her make a sound decision. It will take a little time, but this person will thank you for it. Aquarius plays a key role.

Taurus – April 21/May 21

Keep your temper under control when a close friend gets you involved in a difficult situation. Getting angry won't solve anything at this point. Resolve the situation before you start yelling. A loved one asks your opinion about a relationship. Be honest with him or her.

Gemini – May 22/June 21

There's a lot going on this week, Gemini. Don't let it frazzle you. Just stay focused on what you have to do, and you'll be fine. If you get distracted, you will find it difficult to get back on track. A good friend invites you out late in the week. Say yes, because it's sure to be a good time.

Cancer – June 22/July 22

Don't wear your heart on your sleeve when you meet an intriguing person this week, Cancer. Your interest just may scare him or her off. Let this person get to know you better before you reveal your feelings. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can to help. Virgo plays an important role on Thursday.

Leo – July 23/August 23

Keep your eyes and ears open this week, Leo. There is something going on at work that people aren't telling you about. Business associates turn to you for answers. Try to find out what you can. Don't worry; it's nothing serious. The person whom you've been seeing asks you an important question. Be honest with him or her.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22

A good friend asks to borrow money for a business venture. Before getting involved, look into this opportunity, because your friend doesn't know all that there is to know. It isn't as lucrative as it seems. A loved one needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her. Capricorn plays a key role.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let a few harsh words from an acquaintance spoil your good mood this week. He or she is having a bad day and takes it out on you. Just remember this before you get upset. That special someone has a surprise for you. Enjoy!

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't let a minor setback keep you from achieving your goal. This isn't anything serious. Just work around it, and get back on track. A loved one asks you for financial advice. Be honest with him or her — even if he or she doesn't want to hear what you have to say.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21

You run into an old flame early in the week, Sagittarius. While you get caught up in the memories, don't fall for this person again. Remember why you broke up with him or her in the first place — those things haven't disappeared. It still won't work out between the two of you. Pisces plays an important role.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20

While you like to be in control, that isn't how it's going to be this week, Capricorn. Don't take charge of a business situation, because you aren't qualified to deal with it. Let others handle the problem. Try to learn from their experience. You meet an intriguing person on Saturday. Get to know him or her better.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18

Stand your ground when you have a run-in with an acquaintance this week. Don't let him or her push you around, because you know that you are right. Those close to you will support your efforts. A good friend asks a favor of you. While you want to help, don't get involved.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20

Help a co-worker in need early in the week. He or she is the victim of circumstance and gets into hot water. Don't let this person flounder. The higher-ups will be impressed with your efforts. Leo plays a key role.

Make Your Holiday Celebrations Sparkle ... With Flowers

The holidays are a time for personal celebrations and traditions shared with family and friends. Flowers have long played a special role in the holiday festivities and are as personal and individual as the people doing the celebrating.

Most people cannot imagine Christmas without poinsettias, evergreen garlands and vivid holiday blooms, or a New Year's party without an explosion of flowers to ring in the new year. Of course, of all the flowers on the market, the one most closely associated with Christmas is the poinsettia.

According to the Society of American Florists (SAF), poinsettias are native to Mexico, where they grow wild. The first American ambassador to Mexico, Joel Robert Poinsett, sent the first poinsettias home to South Carolina in 1825. Though red seems to be the color of choice for this popular plant, the poinsettia comes in a variety of color choices: colors like white, pink, peach, yellow, as well as speckled and marble varieties have expanded its uses as the perfect holiday gift for enhancing the home or office décor.

To keep your poinsettia looking the best it can be throughout the holiday season, SAF offers these tips:

- Keep it away from hot or cold drafts (the tops of televisions and radiators).
- Keep the soil moist but not soggy.
- Place the plant in a room with enough natural light.
- When selecting a poinsettia plant, choose one with small, tightly clustered buds in the center. Look for crisp, bright, undamaged foliage. Avoid choosing a plant that is displayed in a drafty area.

Floral Decorating Ideas

- Greet guests at the door with a wreath holding a personal tree ornament for each of them to take home.
- Use fresh flowers on the tree in water vials. You also can use dried or treated flowers — they are just as beautiful.
- Place scented candles with fresh blossoms in each powder room.
- Place garland on the mantel with fresh flowers and candles scattered among the greenery to beautifully grace the room.
- Float candles and flowers in treasured crystal or silver bowls to create a fabulous effect.
- As guests leave, have a vase of loose flowers by the door. Invite them to take one home as a gift.

Homemade Ornaments For The Tree

The Christmas tree is the focal point of holiday spirit in the home. This year, more than 30 million American families will celebrate the holidays with the beauty of either a real tree or an artificial one. No matter which tree people choose to decorate their homes, they want it to look "special."

What makes a tree "special," is the time spent with family deciding on and finally decorating it. Cranberry or popcorn garland? Steady or blinking lights? Store-bought or homemade ornaments?

Handcrafted ornaments give the tree a personal touch. But don't worry — you need not have an artist's touch to make beautiful ornaments. The following ornaments, courtesy of "Good Housekeeping: Christmas Joys" (Hearst Books), by the editors of Good Housekeeping, are simple forms and natural objects that easily are dressed up with gold string, ribbon and paint.

Gilded Acorns

Materials

Acorns or purchased wooden acorns
Glue gun
Plaid Mod Podge
Paintbrush
Imitation gold leaf (Dutch Metal)
Gold string

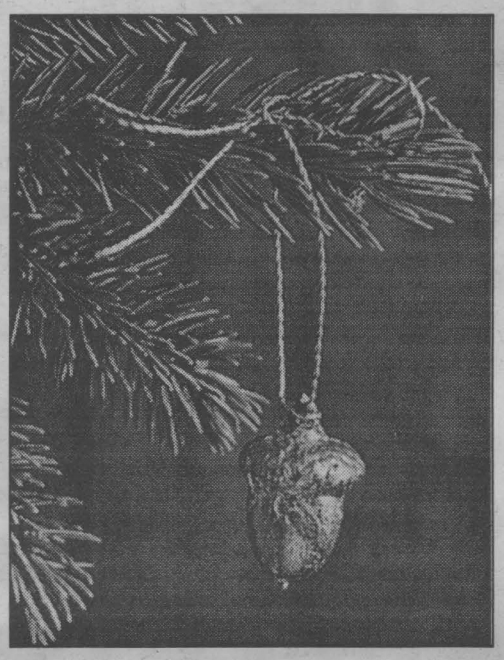
1. If using natural acorns, secure caps to nut with hot glue.
2. Apply thin coat of Mod Podge to acorn with paintbrush.
3. Apply small squares of imitation gold leaf to acorn, gently pressing edges down.
4. When dry, wind gold string around acorn stem and secure with drop of hot glue.

Lemon and Ribbon Ornament

Materials

Velvet and satin ribbons
Dried lemon
Glue gun
Upholstery tacks (decorative furniture nails)
Scissors

1. Make overhand knot in ribbon for hanging loop.
2. Secure loop to top of lemon with dot of hot glue; continue wrapping ribbon around lemon. Cut ribbon at loop and secure with glue.
3. Cut second strip of ribbon and glue around circumference of lemon.
4. Anchor ribbon at intersections with upholstery tacks.



Homemade Christmas ornaments made out of everyday objects, like acorns, give the tree a personal touch.

Christmas 1999 Gift Guide

Cultured Pearls Make A Happy Holiday

When you think of Christmas and the holiday season in general, you may envision cozy fires, warm family gatherings and, of course, all the eagerly awaited gifts underneath your fully dressed tree. Unfortunately, you may be suddenly awakened from this dream with long lines, last-minute shopping and other details you'd just as soon forget.

So, instead of adding stress to your holiday celebration with the mere thought of what gift that special someone in your life would cherish, appreciate and actually use, make it easy on yourself — surprise her with stunning cultured pearls. Always beautiful and elegant, the gift of cultured pearls can turn your Christmas memories into an overnight St. Nick success story.

Why cultured pearls? Because of their versatility, cultured pearls can be worn by every woman, making them the always-appropriate and cherished holiday gift. From lustrous single-strand necklaces to a black pearl ring to a pair of simple stud earrings, cultured pearls are incorporated into today's modern, as well as classic, jewelry. And, as beautiful as they are practical, cultured pearls lend their classic elegance and style to any woman's wardrobe.

So, now you know why cultured pearls are a perfect pleaser for your pretty princess, but how do you know you're getting the best bang for your buck? Knowing what elements determine cultured pearl quality will arm you with the knowledge you need to make a confident purchase.

Devin Macnow, executive director of the Cultured Pearl Information Center, suggests looking for the following elements as a guide in determining cost and quality:

Luster — This is the most important element to look for in cultured pearls. Luster refers to a combination of high surface brilliance of a pearl and a three-dimensional glow that seems to emanate from within the heart of a pearl. The more brilliant and reflective the surface of the pearl, the higher its luster and value.

Generally, the luster of a pearl is determined by the thickness of its nacre, the protective coating with which an oyster surrounds its original intruder or nucleus. Usually, the thicker the nacre, the more lustrous and durable the cultured pearl.

Surface — The second characteristic in differentiating fine- from poor-quality cultured pearls is determined by imperfections like dents, spots, scratches, bumps or blemishes, which are commonly found on a cultured pearl's surface.

Since it is extremely difficult and rare to find a blemish- and bump-free pearl, a cultured pearl possessing an almost perfect surface is very valuable.

Shape — Another cultured pearl quality factor, shape is most often thought of as round, but varies from round to off-round to asymmetrical. Just as it is rare to find a blemish-free cultured pearl, the same goes for finding a truly round cultured pearl, making a seemingly perfect symmetrical shape highly valuable.

And, although many consumers prefer a round cultured pearl, baroque and asymmetrical shapes are unique and every bit as appealing as their round counterparts.

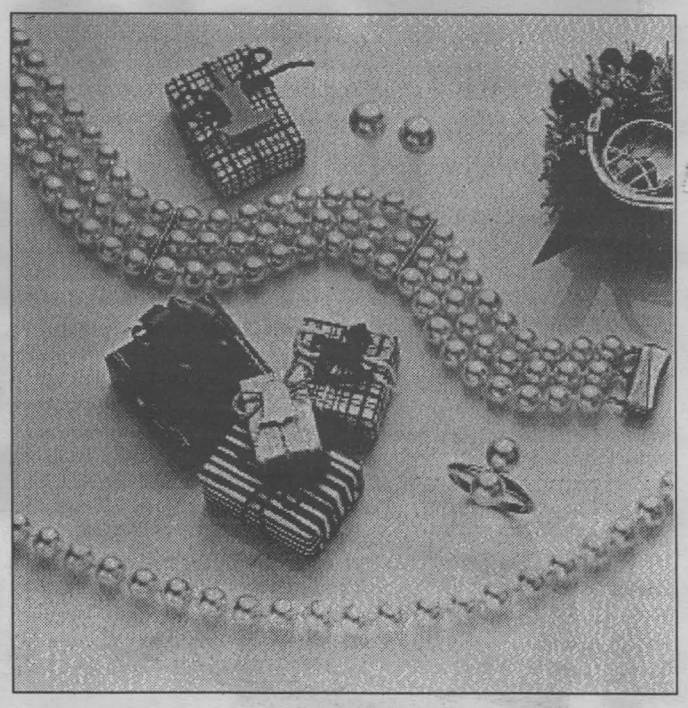
Color — A cultured pearl quality that varies greatly, color is a personal preference for gift-givers. Cultured pearl color is a combination of body color and overtone, which makes up the many different colors you may see on the market today.

Common body colors are white, gray and black. Overtone colors, occurring by whims of nature, may include pink and cream (for white body color), blue (for gray body color), and green or purple (for black body color). A rose/white-colored cultured pearl tends to be the most desirable.

Although color, varying from green/black to pink/white to blue/gray, is considered a cultured pearl quality factor, you also may consider which color is best suited for a person's skin tone. A white/rose color tends to flatter lighter complexions, while cream tones are best for darker complexions.

Size — Measured in millimeters, size varies depending on its origin. Japanese Akoya cultured pearls, for example, range in size from 3 millimeters to 10 millimeters, while South Sea cultured pearls range in size from 14 millimeters to 19 millimeters.

It can take up to three years to grow a 7-millimeter cultured pearl and up to six years to grow a 20-millimeter cultured pearl. Size, like color and shape, is a matter of personal preference.



In addition to these five qualities, consumers also should pay attention to the cultured pearl's price, which is every bit as important as its physical properties. Knowing what prices to expect will give you a benchmark by which you can compare different values for different types of cultured pearls.

Generally in today's market, a good-quality 16-inch strand of cultured pearls, from 7 millimeters to 7.5 millimeters, should be no less than $1,500. A 16-inch white South Sea cultured pearl necklace, with an average 14-millimeter pearl size, on the other hand, will cost upwards of $100,000. Large Tahitian black pearls more than 12 millimeters in size usually retail at $70,000 for a necklace.

On the less pricey side, you still can find much fine-quality cultured pearl jewelry for less than $500. Seven- to 7.5-millimeter cultured pearl studs, for example, usually retail for around $150, making them a more affordable gift option.

Other cultured pearl jewelry less than $500 may include pendants, brooches and rings. Even some beautiful freshwater cultured pearl necklaces can go for as little as $200, making owning cultured pearls a little easier on your wallet.

South Stormont Pee Wee Selects "B" Champs

It was a disappointing start to the week for the South Stormnt Pee Wee Selects, as they lost a pair of league games.

In Chesterville, the Selects were manhandled 6-2 by North Dundas. Selects goals were scored by Marc Geneau and Mike Crawford.

At home against Kemptville, the Selects fared little better, as they lost 7-4. Adam Kirkey led the scoring with a pair, while Crawford and Geneau had singles.

The week brightened considerably, however, as the Selects captured the "B" Champsionship at the Alexandria Pee Wee Tournament. Despite opening with a 6-0 loss to the host Alexandria Glens, the Selects went on to edge Vankleek Hill 1-0 on Matt Tessier's winner. Max Millar gained the shutout. In an exciting final, the Selects eked out a 2-1 win over Hawkesbury. Jordan Swerdfeger was the hero, as he tied the game in the second, and assisted on Mike Carbino's winner in the third.

The Selects ended their busy week with a 4-0 loss to Massena's Pee Wee A team.

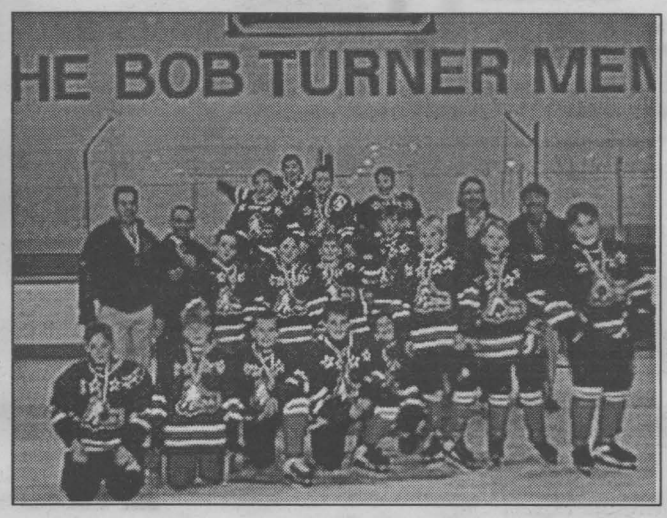
Guindon Esso Atom "B" Royals

In a tournament at the Bob Turner on the weekend of Nov. 5, 6, 7, Guindon Esso Royals hosted Petawawa in the opener B Class, and lost 8-2, giving up 27 shots to their 7. Matt Chausse scored both goals for Cornwall's Atom team with assist on the first goal by Justin Ladouceur and Chad Lapensee, and the assist on the second goal from Chad Lapensee and Nathan Guindon.

Cornwall's next match vs Kanata saw the Royals come out skating well to win the game 5-3. Joel Mainville faced 16 shots for the win. Chad Lapensee scored the 1st, 4th, and 5th goal with an assist from Sean Lepage, with Serge Lafontaine scoring the 2nd from Matt Ladouceur and the 3rd goal scored by Cary Soares from Matt Chausse.

Guindon Esso's 3rd match up was against Massena where the Atom "B" Royals won the game 4-2, outshooting Massena 21-15, where Christian McCartney held up great between the pipes. Goals were scored by Chad Lapensee, assisted by Andrew Levac; Matt Chausse from Sean Lepage; and Justin Ladouceur from Matt Ladouceur. Massena came close in the dying minutes, scoring their 2nd goal at 1:38 in the third, but Chad Lapensee scored in the open net giving a birth into the semi-finals of the "B" pool.

In the semi-final game, Thousand Islands got the by to the finals, which saw the Royals in a rematch against Petawawa, where they wasted no time in scoring 2 fast goals in the first 2 minutes of the game, then another in the first. Cornwall got on the board in the 2nd period with a goal from Cary Soares from Matt Gaudet, then Petawawa scored 2 goals after, then 2 more in the third, giving them the win 7-1 after outshooting the Royals 32-10. Guindon Esso Royals received the Bronze Medals in the Tournament. Way to go boys and coaches for going the distance.



Delaney Bus Lines Royals

The Delaney Bus Lines Bantam "A" Royals faced off against Kingston Township in Cornwall on Halloween Night. Even though trick or treating had to be put aside for the evening, some Cornwall team players came "dressed" for the game. The Royals were quick to set the pace with a first period goal scored by Pat McLeod, assisted by Matt O'Connor and Cory Hamilton. Cornwall was able to keep the lid on any Kingston scoring attempts with a sound defense and a sensational effort by goalie Shawn Pollard. As Cornwall began to tire in the third period, Kingston broke through to score two goals and win the game. However, Cornwall and District can be proud of the team effort shown by all their players. Better luck with trick or treating next year boys.

INSIDE THE CORNWALL COLTS

David MURPHY

Here we are in mid-November and for the first time in four seasons the Cornwall Colts are in the top six on the list of the country's best Junior "A" hockey teams. Don't get me wrong, I like saying the Colts are ranked sixth in all of Canada, but we as fans have to realize that it's based solely on winning percentage of course. There's no other way because of the sheer number of teams, but realize that there are several factors missing from the compilation. They include quality of competition, scheduling and so on. Who's to say the Central Junior Hockey League isn't superior to the Alberta Junior Hockey League or that the CJHL is not as competitive as the British Columbia Junior Hockey League. The top team on the list is the Bayside Balfour Cats with a 13-0-0 record. They would more than likely be first on any list, but after that it gets pretty tight when the top seven teams all have a winning percentage better than .800. The point is, the Colts should be proud they are ranked so high, but remember rankings mean diddly once the playoffs begin. And for the record, the Colts are one spot ahead of the Frontaliers De Coaticook (so take that).

See you at the rink.

COLTS NOTES: Cornwall's well into a busy November. Including last night's game the Colts have played 4 of their 13 games scheduled for the month. Francis Cloutier was last week's CJHL player of the week on the strength of 5 goals and 8 assists in three games (that includes a natural hat trick in last week's 9-6 win over Cumberland) ... Yann Danis is 13th in save percentage in the National rankings (.918) ... Max Gauvin is 7th in the same rankings under the win column ... this year's CJHL all star game will be at the Corel Centrl (how's that for incentive to make the team) ... the game will be played on Saturday, January 22nd... the Bantam and Rookie all star games also will be played that day but at the Kanata RFC Centre.

Upcoming Games

Sun. 14th at Nepean - 2 pm (on 101.9, The Blaze at 1:55 pm)

Thurs. 18th vs Smiths Falls, 7:30 pm

Fri. 19th at Gloucester, 7:30 pm (on 101.9 The Blaze at 7:25 pm)

Sun. 21st at Kanata, 1:30 pm (on 101.9 The Blaze at 1:25 pm)

Guindon Esso Atom "B" Royals Regular Season Play

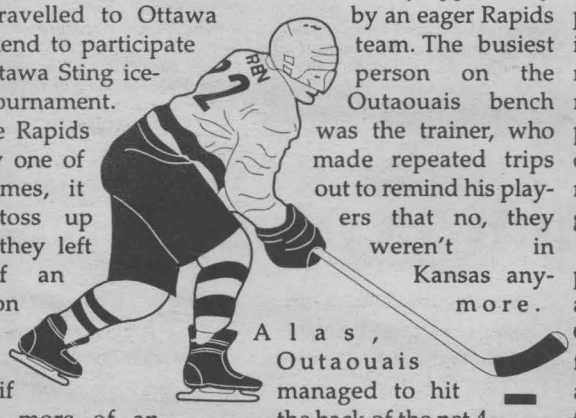
Guindon Esso Atom "B" oyals faced off with the Morrisburg Lions at Si Miller Arena on Saturday, October 30th where the Lions wasted no time. Taking advantage of penalties, the Lions took the lead early in the 2nd period 2-. Cornwall scored in the ying minute of the third with goal from Cary Soares, assisted by Matt Chausse. The Royals kept the pressure on but couldn't capitalize with the equalizer. Christian McCartney faced 18 shots in the match, while the Royals mustered 15 shots against the Lions in their first loss of the season.

Guindon Esso Atom "B" Royals played Char-Lan where the Royals played one of those chase me games and ended up losing to the Rebels 4-1. The goal was scored by Matthieu Chausse, assisted by Chad Lapensee and Nathan Guindon. Cornwall was outshot 16-10 in the match, putting them at 2-2 in the season.

Seaway Valley Minor Peewee "AA" Shalteck Rapids

The Seaway Valley Minor eewee "AA" Shalteck apids travelled to Ottawa st weekend to participate the Ottawa Sting ice-reaker tournament. While the Rapids on only one of ree games, it as a toss up hether they left ore of an pression their ppo-nts, or if ey left more of an pression of their opponents the glass.

In the first game, the Rapids ced a strong Outaouais am. After two periods utaouais was only ahead by a score of 3-1 and were being bounced at every opportunity by an eager Rapids team. The busiest person on the Outaouais bench was the trainer, who made repeated trips out to remind his players that no, they weren't in Kansas anymore.



Alas, Outaouais managed to hit the back of the net 4 more times in the third period. The lone Rapids goal was scored by Cody Jacobs on a pretty passing play from Mathieu Lafleche and Trevin Thompson.

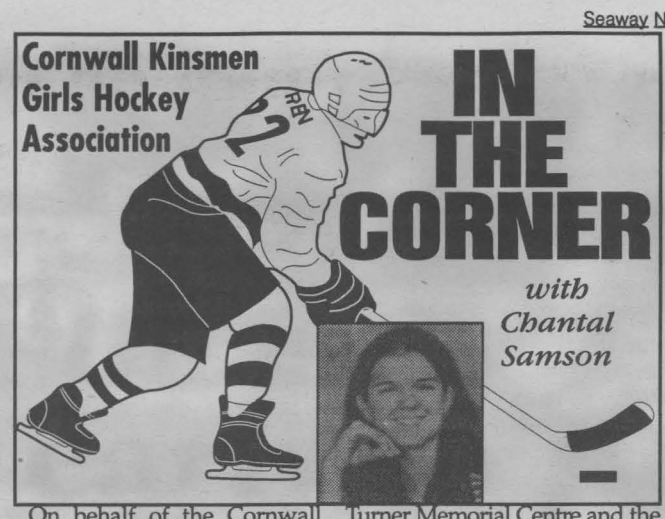
It was learned the following day that Outaouais had been playing with at least two ineligible players. The tournament organizers elected to remedy the situation by suspending the players and the coach from further tournament play but allowed the game to stand as played.

On Saturday The Rapids played their morning game against The Eastern Ontario Cobras. Again, it was a case of follow the bouncing players as both teams seemed to enjoy the rough stuff. Depsite a valiant effort, the boys ended up on the short end of an 8-4 score. Scoring for the Rapids were Rhys Paquette, Matt Walsh, Cody Jacobs.

Cornwall Tire Midget "A" Royals

Cornwall Tire Midget "A" oyals rolled into Kanata on e weekend to play the sers and came out with a int. The TIRE boys came t hot in the early going and mped out to a 2-0 lead. Jesse inchester scored off a face- deep in the Laser zone and oments later Winchester ain converted a beautiful an Redmond and Tim St. Jean passing play to make the score 2-0.

Mario Bissonnette then notched his third of the season on a pretty passing play to up the score to 3-0. Eric Lavictoire and Matty McNally assisted on the play. Kanata finally got on the board though, and by the end of two periods, the score was 4-3 for the Royals. Tim St. Jean put the boys ahead on his goal that was assisted by Redmond and Winchester. The frantic Lasers pulled their goalie and with 4 seconds remaining scored a goal to tie the game. Tim St. Jean, Greg Barnhart, and Pat Lafleche had strong games for the Royals, who welcomed back veteran Alain Leger on defense.



On behalf of the Cornwall Kinsmen Girls Hockey Association I would like to invite you to our sixteenth annual tournament. Through Thursday November 18th till the 21st the girls will be taking over the arenas. The Civic Complex, the Bob Turner Memorial Centre and the Si Miller arena will all be used during our big tournament event. Between the twelve divisions, ninety-six games will be played. At the Tykes level there will be two "mini games" to include our youngest hockey players in the tournament. All divisions, thus Novice, Atom, Peewee Bantam and Midget, will be participating in the house league section of the tournament. At the competitive level, Intermediate Open, Midget C, Bantam A, Peewee A and Peewee B will be participating. This year we are welcoming thirty-seven out of town teams. Girls from all over Eastern Ontario, Quebec and Vermont USA are coming to Cornwall to challenge our home teams for the honour of winning First Place. Whoever wins or loses, it doesn't really matter. We're all out to have fun. I'm looking forward to one full weekend of non-stop hockey fun and I hope you are too. I encourage all of you to come out and watch some of the games, after all admission is free!

Computer Sense Novice "B" Selects

The Computer Sense Novice "B" Selects had a busy weekend with three games in three days, shutting out the competition in every game.

Starting off in Char-Lan, the Selects defeated the Rebels 8-0. Sean Rudy & Chris Rutley had three goals each, Ty Perry & Kyle Middleton had singles. Matt O'Neill got the shut-out for this game.

Saturday, the Selects defeated Brockville in an exhibition game 2-0. Sean Rudy and Ty Perry scored. Travis Coughlin and Matt O'Neill shared the shut-out.

They capped off the perfect weekend with a win in Alexandria 4-0. Chris Rutley, Sean Rudy and Daniel Bissonnette scored. Travis Coughlin was splendid in nets recording their third shut-out for the weekend. Three strong lines and solid defence was they key to our shut-out weekend. The Computer Sense Novice "B" Selects are now 3-1 in their regular season play.

Cornwall Radiator S. V. Major Pee Wee "AA"

This past week saw the Major Pee Wee's play four games in six nights. It was a week I'm sure the coaching staff would like to do a replay of. With two games against Ontario East and one against Rideau all turned into defeats for our Rapids. The boys were out scored 11 to 4 in these three games. Scoring for the Rapids were Chris Vanoverbeek, Brett Liscomb, and Brent Lariviere with two. After Sunday's loss to Rideau Seaway's Monday's night game against Cumberland was a must win situation.

The coaching staff starting with our trainer John Lariviere and Coach's McBride and McRae deserve our thanks for having their players ready to play this game with a positive attitude. After the last four games without a win and not playing as good as we would like. The Rapids needed a good effort from everyone to put a win on the board. With an early goal by Nathan Potrais with assists from Vanoverbeek and Lemay the Rapids were off to a good start.

Cumberland playing a good two way game came back in the second with two quick goals and 2-1 lead. The Rapids looked to be going back to their lack luster play. When late in the second the line of Lemay, Vanoverbeek and Pelkey fired several shots only to be held off the scoreboard. This seemed to be the spark to get things going. Early in the third with Seaway on a power play Devin Bancroft fired a shot from the point on a nice pass from Legue and Liscomb to tie the game at two all.

As the game wore on both teams had their chances. Seaway's Chris Gadbois robbed Cumberland with a fine save. Soon thereafter Alan Charbonneau lead a rush up the ice with a pass to Lemay and then to Pelkey for the winning goal. Chris Vanoverbeek with another fine play finished off the scoring from Liscomb and Boots.

This weekend they are off to Peterborough for their second tournament.

Lancaster Freshmart Pee Wee "A" Royals

Thursday October 28th after dropping three games straight, the Royals visited the Cumberland Barons to win a well deserved victory. The Barons opened early to set the pace in the first, it wasn't until 7:27 of the third when Joel Langlois from Eric MacPherson and Andre Curotte - made Cornwall presence known. Chris Matte from the blue line from Joel Langlois made the final score 2-1 over the Barons.

October 29th Massena, N.Y. exhibition play saw Cornwall Royals dump the Massena Panthers 4-2 on New York soil. Friday night Eric MacPherson, Janick Lalonde, Scott Cameron and Julien Moffat each picked up a goal with assists from Joel Langlois, Tim Hebert, Janick Lalonde and Chris Baldree.

Sunday October 31st, Kingston, Ontario, the Limestone City was not what the Royals would call a vacation as the Kingston Cougars blasted Cornwall 5-0.

Monday November 1st, four out of five days on the ice, plus a few hundred miles travelled takes its toll on any athlete as the Freshmart Royals faced off against the Nepean Raiders at the Civic Complex. Tim Hebert, muscled his way to the pipes to put Cornwall on the clock and tie the game at one a piece. Nepean with three unanswered goals late in the third, rang up the final numbers. Nepean defeated Cornwall by a score of 4-1.

Player of the week: J.J. Kupczyk

Cornwall Mini Storage Atom Selects

The South Stormont Atom Selects played the Grenville Rangers in Spencerville Wednesday night. The game was another exciting one with both teams playing hard.

The first period ended with the Rangers scoring with 1:40 left on the clock. The defence for the Selects played well, but, the Rangers managed to slip another one in.

In the middle of the second period the Rangers got a penalty giving the Selects a chance to tie the game. Unfortunately the hockey gods were not with them. The the Rangers scored again making it 2 to 0, but they were unable to keep their shut-out. Adam Jodoin scored for the Selects.

The start of the third period Wendal Simpson who has been playing very well so far this year nearly tied the game with a hard wrist shot hitting the cross bar of the net. The Rangers didn't let up though, they scored again. Coming back again was Wendel Simpson for the Selects to make the score 3 to 2.

The Selects couldn't come back and the Rangers clinched by scoring another goal making the final score 4 to 2.

The Selects also played in the Cornwall Tournament on the weekend and had lots of fun. The three MVP Awards went to Corey Fleury, Patrick Jeneau and Scott Hickman.

Cornwall Tire Midget "A" Royals

The Cornwall Tire Midget "A" Royals travelled to the Cook Brother's Arena in Kingston on Saturday night and lost 4-2. The long ride seemed to take its toll on the players as they came up with an uninspired effort. The game had little flow to it due to the number of penalties taken by both teams. Scoring for the Royals were Mario Bissonnette and Dave Carry, with assists going to Pat Lafleche and Jamie Leger. Dan Desnoyers stopped 21 shots in the contest. The Royals are eagerly anticipating the return of injured defenceman Alain Leger.

On Halloween, Cornwall Tire took on the Canterbury Crusaders at the Si Miller Arena and skated to an exciting 4-3 victory. In their previous meeting, the Crusaders shut out the Royals 5-0, so Mike Bissonnette's team has something to prove. The Crusaders are a strong skating club that forechecks relentlessly, leaving little room for error. The Royals in turn, appeared to raise the level of their game to match that of their rivals. Marc Lapointe was exceptional in nets, stopping 26 of the 29 shots he faced. Scoring for the Royals were Jesse Winchester and Dave Carry with two goals each. Assists went to Ryan Redmond (2), Pat Lafleche, Greg Barnhart, Jamie Leger, and Shawn Chartrand.

World's Smallest Basketball Team & World's Tallest Pro Coming To Cornwall

"Their average height is 4'-2"...The Canadian Half - Pints continue to amaze and entertain audiences throughout North America with their brand of basketball wizardry".

The Canadian Half-Pints are pleased to challenge the Heart and Stroke Celebrity Basketball Team at the Annual Mini-Hoops Basketball Benefit coming to St. Joseph's Secondary School, Friday December 10th at 6:00p.m. and 8:00p.m.

They're considered the world's shortest and funniest basketball team that's often been compared with the Harlem Globetrotters...and like the world famous Globetrotters, the Half-Pints have lost only 11 times in over 3,500 games over the past seventeen years. And this year the Half-Pints have an additional weapon...7'-8" Terry "Too Tall" Harris from Charlotte, North Carolina. Terry is the tallest basketball player in the world, standing 1" taller than any NBA player.

Under the dynamic leadership of founder Phil Watson (son of former World Heavy Weight Pro Wrestling Champion Whipper Billy Watson) the Canadian Half-Pints members have inspired young people to embrace the message they send in their "Don't Tease" Program presented at schools throughout the tour.

Despite the skeptics, these 4'-2" athletes have proven their basketball success and overcome many obstacles in life while at the same time providing family fun entertainment all in the name of a good cause.

From each family ticket sold for the Mini-Hoops Basketball Benefit, $1.50 per attendee will go to the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

Combine comedy, basketball athletic skill and antics...and the Canada Half-Pints are sure to entertain you.

Is it comedy or basketball??? Join us and you be the judge!
